Dist. 23 teachers to vote on pact offer Wednesday

by MARILYN McDONALD

Teachers in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 will decide Wednesday whether to accept the school board's latest salary offer or hold out for more money in 1975-76 contract talks.

When the two sides met Thursday, board members came to the table with a $45,000 salary package increase while teachers asked for a $125,000 salary package increase, said Vincent Battaglia, board negotiator. During the meeting, board members agreed to meet teachers halfway at a $85,000 salary package. Teachers caucused and said they would settle at $106,500, Battaglia said.

"We had hoped to settle last night," Battaglia said Friday. "We said we would appreciate it if they would reconsider (their salary demands) because that's about as far as we can go," he said.

"THE TEACHERS generally feel there is some movement yet," said Kenneth Bates, spokesman for the union negotiators. "The basic thinking on numbers is that we would like to at least duplicate last year's settlement."

Bates said an additional $106,500 would maintain the present merit raise levels and provide the same 7 per cent across-the-board raise for all teachers.

"We are having a teachers' meeting Wednesday," Bates said. "We will make statements to them about the contract offer and see what they want to do," Bates added.

The next negotiating session is scheduled for Oct. 14.

Battaglia said that most all other issues are tentatively settled. "Two very minor items" that remain to be settled besides salary are extra duty pay for sporting event duty and supply allowances for teachers.

LAST YEAR, teachers accepted an 11.6 per cent salary package increase, including a $106,500 monetary package for merit and across-the-board raises.

150 seek one police opening

A single opening on the Arlington Heights Police Dept. drew 150 applicants to the written examination Wednesday.

Gregory Ford, village personnel director, said more than 200 persons filed applications for the position and 150 took the written test. Ford said it was a record number of applicants for a police test in the village.

Among those taking the test were several women and persons of Hispanic descent.

THE VILLAGE fire and police commission recently lowered the minimum height requirement for police personnel to 5 feet 5 inches to encourage a broader representation of the area population. The old height standard of 5 feet 8 inches was found discriminatory against Hispanic-Americans, Ford said.

The test results are being mailed back to the applicants, Ford said, and should be received Monday or Tuesday.

The written tests were graded by fire and police commissioners.

Ford said the written exam was the first part of the selection process for the police officer. The next step will be the physical test on Sept. 27, at the Arlington High School gymnasium.

Other tests include an oral interview and a background check, Ford said.

Meet for first time in 14 years

Mystery notes reunite girl, mother

by GERRY KERN

Until three weeks ago, 18-year-old Diane Reathie Schnell, Mount Prospect, was a young woman in search of her past.

Adopted 14 years ago from a Chicago foster home, she could not remember her natural parents. She knew her father was dead, but her mother was alive — somewhere. That's all she knew.

Diane, like many adopted children, was prepared to take legal steps to find her natural mother and discover her origins. But she was spared that agonizingly slow trek through a jungle of red tape.

A telegram arrived at Diane's door in late August which began to answer some of her questions. Her mother, Sadie Stapp, Norman Okla., had located her through an ad placed in The Herald.

Time and distance had separated Mrs. Stapp and her daughter so completely that the mother didn't really expect the ad to do much good. But she had to try.

TWO ANONYMOUS, typed index cards sent in reply to the ad, told Mrs. Stapp of her daughter's whereabouts setting the stage for an Aug. 29 reunion in Mount Prospect.

Mother and daughter met face-to-face for the first time since 1961, after 14 years filled with change and turmoil.

"I had to find her," said Mrs. Stapp. "She's a part of me. I don't know who sent those cards giving me her name and address, but I'm glad somebody did."

Diane said her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Schnell, 132 Hill St., Mount Prospect, did not know of the reunion at first.

"I just wanted to know about my real mother," said Diane. "I didn't want any trouble. But I told my foster parents about it afterward and they were really understanding. You see, they've adopted three children and know what it's all about."

"The Schnells have treated me royally for the past 14 years and I love them very much," Diane continued. "But I still wanted to know."

The circumstances leading to the reunion were as bizarre as the events which led to Diane's adoption and separation from her mother.

FOURTEEN YEARS ago, Mrs. Stapp, then 26 and a resident of Chicago, left her husband, John Culp, a truck driver. Already the mother of five, she faced marital problems that forced her departure for Oklahoma and from her family.

Culp tried to hold on to the children, but could not support them. He put them in a foster home but was killed in an automobile accident before he could reclaim them."

"Two years later, I remarried," said Mrs. Stapp. "I got straightened out and tried to get my children back."

Mrs. Stapp and her new husband succeeded in retrieving four children, but Diane had already been adopted. Because of adoption laws, Mrs. Stapp had no legal authority to reclaim her daughter or even make contact with her until she turned 18.

DURING THAT TIME, Diane grew up in Mount Prospect, experienced all the things children experience, graduated last June from Maine North High School and took a night job at the Brookwood Convalescent Nursing Home and Rehabilitation Center in Des Plaines.

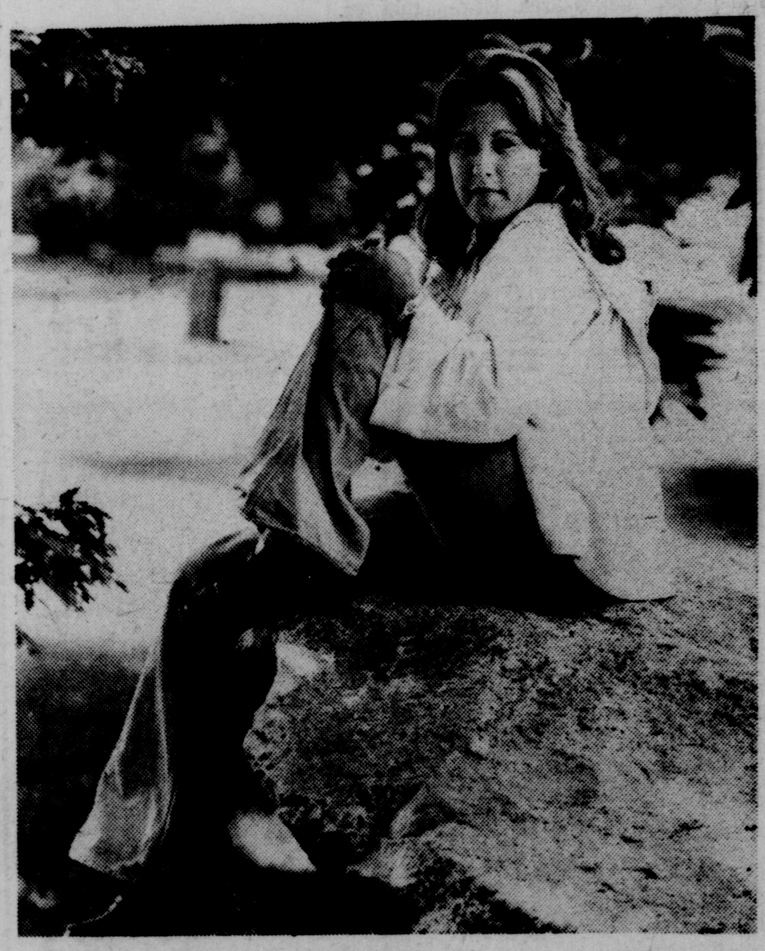
She would have stayed removed from her natural mother and the circumstances of her adoption, except for one thing: her curiosity.

"I've always been curious about everything," she said. "I wanted to know who my mother was, about my brothers and sisters. I had contacted my lawyer about it, but he told me to forget about it until I turned 18. And then I got the telegram."

Diane said she plans to visit her mother, brothers and sisters in Oklahoma at Christmas. She vaguely remembers her 21-year-old twin sisters, but remembers nothing about her two brothers.

But Diane does not plan to rejoin her original family.

"Home is where my foster parents are. They've made me what I am and gave me the best 14 years of my life. This is my home."



Diane Schnell: questions answered.

Ticket holders matching either number qualify for prizes of $1,000 up to $54,000. Winners will be determined weekly in a special drawing, with the top winner each of the 12 weeks becoming eligible for a final Super Bowl drawing Jan. 9 for prizes of $1 million, $50,000 or a minimum $10,000.

First in over-all excellence

The Herald wins top state honors

The Arlington Heights Herald was awarded first place in general excellence over all Illinois daily newspapers in the Illinois Press Assn.'s 1975 newspaper contest Friday.

The awards were received Friday by Herald Vice President and Editor Daniel E. Baumann and News Editor Douglas Ray, at the association's 110th annual fall convention in Decatur.

The Herald's sister paper, The Mundelein Herald, was the recipient of the same award in weekly newspaper competition.

THE MUNDELEIN HERALD also was the recipient of the top award for weekly newspapers of more than 5,000 circulation in the state of Illinois, the Will Loomis Memorial Trophy. This award is given to the most outstanding weekly newspaper in the state, and named in honor of the former publisher of the LaGrange Citizen, Will Loomis. It was established by the Cook County Suburban Publishers Assn.

Besides winning the highest honors in the contest the two newspapers won several other awards. In the daily competition the Arlington Heights Herald won the following:

- Best use of Illustrative Material, 1st Place, for outstanding photography, stories positioned for the main interest of the reader and goal of local human interest.
- Best promotion of a Newspaper, 1st Place, for the promotion of the Herald's Saturday edition which started last February 1.
- Advertising excellence, 1st place, for over-all excellence in advertising.
- Best Sports, 2nd Place.
- Best Editorial Page, honorable mention.

Judges said of the Illustrative material award, "We hope you (The Herald) continue the struggle to raise and uphold the state of art."

In the weekly division, the Mundelein Herald also was awarded:

- Best Photography, 1st Place.
- Best Promotion of a newspaper, 1st Place.
- Best Use of Illustrative Material, honorable mention.

The Arlington Heights Herald is published by Paddock Publications in Arlington Heights, while the Mundelein Herald is published by Paddock Circle Newspapers in Libertyville.

Paddock Corporation's vice president and general manager, David Roe, Friday said, "Winning the highest awards in the state for both our daily and weekly newspapers is an achievement of which we're very proud. We're most pleased that the 423 people who produce the Heralds have been so well recognized for their continuing commitment to quality and improvement."

There were a total of 1,160 entries submitted from 156 Illinois newspapers for the contest.

Auto mechanics reject pact offer

Chicago area auto mechanics overwhelmingly rejected a contract proposal Friday and will continue their strike of area new car dealers, now in its twelfth week. Although no vote tally was available, a spokesman for auto mechanics Local 701 said "most" of the union's 3,500 members voted. The measure, calling for elimination of a customary 50-50 labor charge split with dealers for repair work done beyond a 40-hour work week, was rejected by an 85 per cent margin. Elimination of the clause has been a major obstacle to negotiations between the mechanics and new car dealers.

Teacher leaflet drive today

Teachers in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 will launch a leafleting campaign today in shopping areas of both villages to protest sagging contract talks with the board of education. Teachers decided Friday to begin the action in hopes it will bring about a speedy contract settlement between the district and its 600 teachers. The two sides have been bargaining since April. Meanwhile, a tentative contract agreement has been reached between teachers and board negotiators in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 while teachers in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 are to vote Wednesday on that district's latest salary offer. Proposed for Prospect Heights Teachers is a $106,500 wage increase package that includes a 7 per cent across-the-board raise. Details of the Dist. 57 proposal will not be released until the teachers vote on it.

Girl, 17, killed in auto crash

A 17-year-old Glenview girl was killed Friday evening when the auto she was driving collided with another car on Central Road between River and East River Roads in Maine Township.

Dead was Diane Tracy, of 2744 Virginia in the suburb. Sheriff's police said she was pronounced dead at the scene by a doctor who was passing by.

The driver of the other auto, Donald Burrill, 53, of Greencastle, Ind., was released after treatment for cuts at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines.

Burrill, an auditor, was on a business trip in the area, police said.

The two cars collided shortly before 7 p.m. Police said the girl was driving in the wrong direction on the south side of Central Road.

Illinois primary to stay in March; May bill nixed

Gov. Daniel Walker vetoed a bill Friday to switch the Illinois primary from March to May, saying the measure would not accomplish its purpose of shortening the general election campaign.

In taking the action, just three days before it would have become law without his signature, Walker urged the Illinois General Assembly to study the possibility of moving the primary to September when it would not interfere with the spring legislative sessions.

Walker said he favors the idea of making general election campaigns shorter, but "this bill would not substantially shorten the campaign, and has seveal other disadvantages."

AMONG THE disadvantages Walker cited was that "it (the bill) would tend to disenfranchise farmers" because the May primary date would occur in the middle of the planting season.

In addition, Walker said incumbent legislators would find it difficult to campaign in a May primary because legislative activity tends to peak in April and May.

He said, "A September primary would be more favorable because it would separate the campaign from the legislative session. This would be fairer to the incumbent candidates and less disruptive to the session."

Because of Walker's veto the primary next spring will be on the third Tuesday in March. Walker said the March primary is not ideal, "but certainly May is less ideal."

Anderson enters race for GOP's 2nd spot bid

by BOB LAHEY

Joan G. Anderson, the only Republican trustee of the Metropolitan Sanitary District, announced Friday she will seek the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor of Illinois.

Mrs. Anderson said she intends to conduct a campaign independent of either of the two announced GOP candidates for governor, but said she could "comfortably" join with either in a general election campaign.

Of former U.S. Atty. James R. Thompson, she said, "I have no doubt that he would make an excellent governor."

She said she has met Winnetka businessman Richard H. Cooper, the other candidate, only briefly.

"Despite the fact that he has not previously been in government, I have no reason to believe that he would make anything but a good governor," she said.

MRS. ANDERSON is the second Republican to seek the lieutenant governor's nomination. Also running independently of the gubernatorial candidates is Sheriff David O'Neal of St. Clair County (East St. Louis). She said she knew of no other prospective Republican candidates for the office.

Mrs. Anderson, who was a delegate to the 1970 Illinois Constitutional Convention and has held a number of governmental advisory posts, said her wide governmental experience would make her "an asset to a state administration."

She said she could help the governor's office "to bring about a sorely needed establishment of consistent administrative policies," especially in the area of coordinating state and federal programs.

IN AN APPARENT criticism of the administration of Democratic Gov. Daniel Walker, she added, "I do not believe policies can be geared to the next day's press release."

She accused Walker of "an inability ... to create a sense of administrative direction," which has resulted in confusion among directors of state departments and crippling of "day-to-day" administration of the state.

As of March, said Mrs. Anderson, Illinois, the fifth largest state in the nation, ranked 49th in its ability to secure federal grants for state-originated programs.

Attending the press conference at Cook County Republican headquarters were Rep. Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights, and George Burditt, 1974 Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, who will serve on her advisory committee.

Chicago area auto mechanics overwhelmingly rejected a contract proposal Friday and will continue their strike of area new car dealers, now in its twelfth week. Although no vote tally was available, a spokesman for auto mechanics Local 701 said "most" of the union's 3,500 members voted. The measure, calling for elimination of a customary 50-50 labor charge split with dealers for repair work done beyond a 40-hour work week, was rejected by an 85 per cent margin. Elimination of the clause has been a major obstacle to negotiations between the mechanics and new car dealers.

Teacher leaflet drive today

Teachers in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 will launch a leafleting campaign today in shopping areas of both villages to protest sagging contract talks with the board of education. Teachers decided Friday to begin the action in hopes it will bring about a speedy contract settlement between the district and its 600 teachers. The two sides have been bargaining since April. Meanwhile, a tentative contract agreement has been reached between teachers and board negotiators in Mount Prospect Dist. 57 while teachers in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 are to vote Wednesday on that district's latest salary offer. Proposed for Prospect Heights Teachers is a $106,500 wage increase package that includes a 7 per cent across-the-board raise. Details of the Dist. 57 proposal will not be released until the teachers vote on it.

Girl, 17, killed in auto crash

A 17-year-old Glenview girl was killed Friday evening when the auto she was driving collided with another car on Central Road between River and East River Roads in Maine Township.

Dead was Diane Tracy, of 2744 Virginia in the suburb. Sheriff's police said she was pronounced dead at the scene by a doctor who was passing by.

The driver of the other auto, Donald Burrill, 53, of Greencastle, Ind., was released after treatment for cuts at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines.

Burrill, an auditor, was on a business trip in the area, police said.

The two cars collided shortly before 7 p.m. Police said the girl was driving in the wrong direction on the south side of Central Road.

First in over-all excellence

The Herald wins top state honors

The Arlington Heights Herald was awarded first place in general excellence over all Illinois daily newspapers in the Illinois Press Assn.'s 1975 newspaper contest Friday.

The awards were received Friday by Herald Vice President and Editor Daniel E. Baumann and News Editor Douglas Ray, at the association's 110th annual fall convention in Decatur.

The Herald's sister paper, The Mundelein Herald, was the recipient of the same award in weekly newspaper competition.

THE MUNDELEIN HERALD also was the recipient of the top award for weekly newspapers of more than 5,000 circulation in the state of Illinois, the Will Loomis Memorial Trophy. This award is given to the most outstanding weekly newspaper in the state, and named in honor of the former publisher of the LaGrange Citizen, Will Loomis. It was established by the Cook County Suburban Publishers Assn.

Besides winning the highest honors in the contest the two newspapers won several other awards. In the daily competition the Arlington Heights Herald won the following:

- Best use of Illustrative Material, 1st Place, for outstanding photography, stories positioned for the main interest of the reader and goal of local human interest.
- Best promotion of a Newspaper, 1st Place, for the promotion of the Herald's Saturday edition which started last February 1.
- Advertising excellence, 1st place, for over-all excellence in advertising.
- Best Sports, 2nd Place.
- Best Editorial Page, honorable mention.

Judges said of the Illustrative material award, "We hope you (The Herald) continue the struggle to raise and uphold the state of art."

In the weekly division, the Mundelein Herald also was awarded:

- Best Photography, 1st Place.
- Best Promotion of a newspaper, 1st Place.
- Best Use of Illustrative Material, honorable mention.

The Arlington Heights Herald is published by Paddock Publications in Arlington Heights, while the Mundelein Herald is published by Paddock Circle Newspapers in Libertyville.

Paddock Corporation's vice president and general manager, David Roe, Friday said, "Winning the highest awards in the state for both our daily and weekly newspapers is an achievement of which we're very proud. We're most pleased that the 423 people who produce the Heralds have been so well recognized for their continuing commitment to quality and improvement."

There were a total of 1,160 entries submitted from 156 Illinois newspapers for the contest.

Illinois primary to stay in March; May bill nixed

Gov. Daniel Walker vetoed a bill Friday to switch the Illinois primary from March to May, saying the measure would not accomplish its purpose of shortening the general election campaign.

In taking the action, just three days before it would have become law without his signature, Walker urged the Illinois General Assembly to study the possibility of moving the primary to September when it would not interfere with the spring legislative sessions.

Walker said he favors the idea of making general election campaigns shorter, but "this bill would not substantially shorten the campaign, and has seveal other disadvantages."

AMONG THE disadvantages Walker cited was that "it (the bill) would tend to disenfranchise farmers" because the May primary date would occur in the middle of the planting season.

In addition, Walker said incumbent legislators would find it difficult to campaign in a May primary because legislative activity tends to peak in April and May.

He said, "A September primary would be more favorable because it would separate the campaign from the legislative session. This would be fairer to the incumbent candidates and less disruptive to the session."

Because of Walker's veto the primary next spring will be on the third Tuesday in March. Walker said the March primary is not ideal, "but certainly May is less ideal."

Anderson enters race for GOP's 2nd spot bid

by BOB LAHEY

Joan G. Anderson, the only Republican trustee of the Metropolitan Sanitary District, announced Friday she will seek the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor of Illinois.

Mrs. Anderson said she intends to conduct a campaign independent of either of the two announced GOP candidates for governor, but said she could "comfortably" join with either in a general election campaign.

Of former U.S. Atty. James R. Thompson, she said, "I have no doubt that he would make an excellent governor."

She said she has met Winnetka businessman Richard H. Cooper, the other candidate, only briefly.

"Despite the fact that he has not previously been in government, I have no reason to believe that he would make anything but a good governor," she said.

MRS. ANDERSON is the second Republican to seek the lieutenant governor's nomination. Also running independently of the gubernatorial candidates is Sheriff David O'Neal of St. Clair County (East St. Louis). She said she knew of no other prospective Republican candidates for the office.

Mrs. Anderson, who was a delegate to the 1970 Illinois Constitutional Convention and has held a number of governmental advisory posts, said her wide governmental experience would make her "an asset to a state administration."

She said she could help the governor's office "to bring about a sorely needed establishment of consistent administrative policies," especially in the area of coordinating state and federal programs.

IN AN APPARENT criticism of the administration of Democratic Gov. Daniel Walker, she added, "I do not believe policies can be geared to the next day's press release."

She accused Walker of "an inability . . . to create a sense of administrative direction," which has resulted in confusion among directors of state departments and crippling of "day-to-day" administration of the state.

As of March, said Mrs. Anderson, Illinois, the fifth largest state in the nation, ranked 49th in its ability to secure federal grants for state-originated programs.

Attending the press conference at Cook County Republican headquarters were Rep. Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights, and George Burditt, 1974 Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, who will serve on her advisory committee.

'Squeaky' pleads innocent

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Manson cultist Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, 26, Friday pleaded innocent to a charge she attempted to murder President Ford with a loaded .45-caliber pistol as he shook hands with a crowd of well-wishers.

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. MacBride, who refused to further reduce her $350,000 bail, set Nov. 4 for trial. At the same time, he delayed ruling on Miss Fromme's plea to act as her own defense attorney and ordered her examined by a psychiatrist.

In a clear, loud voice, the spindly defendant, garbed in her familiar "sacrificial" blood red cloak and hood, replied, "Yes I do," when asked if she understood the charge against her.

Standing at a microphone before MacBride, she stated simply "not guilty" to the charge of attempting to murder the President of the United States as he greeted well-wishers two weeks ago.

Asking to defend herself without an attorney, she conceded she might "make a fool of myself," but said she must "retain my voice in the courtroom" and "the strategy must be mine." She currently is represented by a federal public defender.

The judge skeptically questioned Miss Fromme about her legal abilities and then ordered a psychiatric examination to help him decide on her request.

At that point, Miss Fromme, who had been calm throughout the proceeding, flared indignantly and challenged the idea of psychiatric examination, saying, she would not trust "one man. . .when my life is at stake."

LYNETTE "SQUEAKY" Fromme, wearing her familiar red robe and hood, enters Sacramento courthouse.

She insisted that a tape recording be made of the interview by psychiatrist James Richmond in addition to the psychiatric report to be submitted to the judge. MacBride reluctantly agreed to the tape recording.

Earlier, MacBride agreed to reduce Miss Fromme's maximum $1 million bail to $350,000, a sum which her friends and defense attorney said she could not meet. She pleaded for a further reduction.

A 'flight risk'?

Patty Hearst's bond revoked

by DONALD B. THACKREY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst, charged with carrying a machinegun in a bank robbery, was ordered held without bond Friday by a federal jury who said her 19 months of living as a fugitive radical make her a "flight risk."

The 21-year-old Miss Hearst, who eluded authorities along with her companion members of the Symbionese Liberation Army for 592 days after she was kidnaped, was arrested Thursday by FBI agents in a quiet San Francisco hideout.

U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter said what worried him was "whether this defendant is a flight risk.

"I deem that to be the real and active question in this case in view of Miss Hearst's history.

"If you can convince me that she should be released, the amount of bail will be minimal — if any."

Carter set a hearing for Tuesday for further arguments by the defense and prosecution.

Miss Hearst's parents, Randolph and Catherine Hearst, and three of her sisters were present in the courtroom to hear their attorney, Terence Hallinan, argue that she was a kidnap victim.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. said that shortly after she was captured Thursday, Miss Hearst gave her occupation as "an urban guerrilla" when booked into jail. The prosecutor pointed out she had a .38-caliber pistol in her purse at time of arrest. He added two carbines were in a closet in her flat.

While Miss Hearst sat demurely at the council table, Hallinan said his client was "most anxious to go home." He said no hard feelings existed between her and her family.

U.S. marshals escorted Miss Hearst from the courtroom after the hearing. Her parents followed, apparently to have a meeting with their daughter.

The attorney took issue with a statement attributed to him in Browning's affidavit which quoted him as saying his client's "revolutionary zeal remains unchecked."

Hallinan told Carter: "I never made any such statement. My client has never at no time ever said anything like this."

Afterwards, the federal prosecutor said he obtained the quote from a news report.

During the hearing before an overflow crowed, Judge Carter indicated the seriousness of the charges against Miss Hearst by saying that conviction would lead to a maximum jail term of 35 years and a $10,000 fine.

Hallinan hammered at the theme that Miss Hearst had begun her 19-month disappearance "as a kidnap victim."

Miss Hearst wore a purple-striped sweater and tan pants — the same outfit she had on when she and Wendy Yoshimura were arrested Thursday in a two-story, Mission District home.

Police sources said Miss Hearst was asked by arresting officers whether there were weapons in the flat. She reportedly replied, "There is one in my purse."

Police found an arsenal when they arrested Symbionese Liberation Army associates William and Emily Harris. Miss Hearst and SLA comrade Wendy Yoshimura were arrested in one home. The Harrises were picked up at another.

Police said the arsenal consisted of three .30-caliber carbines, two automatic shotguns, two handguns, 40 pounds of black powder, two gas masks, two military bandoliers and other ammunition in plastic bags.

Earlier U.S. Magistrate Owen Woodruff ordered Steven P. Soliah, 27, a house painter, held on $75,000 bail on a charge of harboring federal fugitives. He allegedly was involved in renting the homes for the four SLA members.

Soliah's lawyer said the bail was excessive since his client had committed no serious crime and his criminal record only included a misdemeanor marijuana violation in Humboldt County, Calif. But Woodruff rejected the argument.

Soliah was a link in the investigation that stretched from a Pennsylvania farmhouse to the sites of the arrests 3,000 miles away. FBI agents said Miss Yoshimura was discovered to have Soliah's sister, Kathy, as a friend.

Agents checked on Kathy which led them to her brother and the Harris hideout.

Miss Hearst had been held on $1,050,000 bail — $500,000 for the charges here and $550,000 for state charges in Los Angeles County.

Harris and his wife were ordered held on $500,000 bail each. Woodruff set Sept. 26 for a preliminary hearing for them. At that time, he said, he would accept their lawyer's motions for a reduced bail.

Browning said at their hearing that he understood a bail for them in Los Angeles County had been lifted from $50,000 to $500,000.

The Harrises were quiet at their hearing. Harris was clad in a lavender shirt and purple plants. Mrs. Harris wore a white blouse, full length corduroy pants and a lavender sweater.

Miss Yoshimura was arraigned in Alameda County Superior Court on charges of illegal possession of explosives, destructive devices and a machinegun. Bail was set at $250,000.

SLA arrests result of hard work: Kelley

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — FBI Director Clarence Kelley, obviously relieved that his agency had ended the chase after 19 months of frustration and criticism, said in Kansas City that the arrest of Miss Hearst and four others "was the result of a good and solid investigation."

The FBI, object of jokes, scorn and abuse because agents couldn't find Miss Hearst for more than a year and a half, finally proved in a violence-free twin raid that its painstaking detective work pays off.

"I am sick and tired of having people at appearances publicly and privately ask why can't you catch Patty Hearst," Kelley said. "Now I say these inquiries are stilled. We regretted that we had to spend this much time and the citizens' money in the search for the fugitive. Our purpose was not retaliation nor to inflict any punishment, but to bring to justice those who were charged."

The lengthy investigation cost millions of dollars, and 8,500 agents participated in the search.

"Our intensive nationwide investigation that we conducted led to the identification of Wendy Yoshimura as a wanted fugitive and a reported associate of Patty Hearst," Kelley said. "This information led to an investigation of her associates. That gave us two addreses in San Francisco, one in the Mission area and another one on Precita Street."

In the farmhouse, in South Canaan, Pa., the FBI earlier this year found fingerprints belonging to Miss Yoshimura, who had not been known to be associated with the SLA up to that time. In checking Miss Yoshimura's background the FBI found Kathy Soliah, whose trail in turn led to her brother, Steven, who rented one of the San Francisco houses where the fugitives holed up two weeks ago.

Cost of living up 0.2%; smallest rise in 3 years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living rose only 0.2 per cent in August, the Labor Dept. said Friday — the smallest increase since the era of government controls three years ago.

Prices of beef, fresh vegetables and some other foods declined in August while other goods and services rose only moderately. This allowed inflation-weary wage-earners their first annual gain in buying power in two years.

The 0.2 per cent increase was the smallest since August, 1972, during the period of wage and price controls when the annual inflation rate was running about 4 per cent.

But economists warned the August report should not be interpreted as an abrupt cooling of inflation. The light August increase followed a strong surge of 1.2 per cent in July — or an annual rate of 14.4 per cent reminiscent of the heavy double-diget inflation of last year.

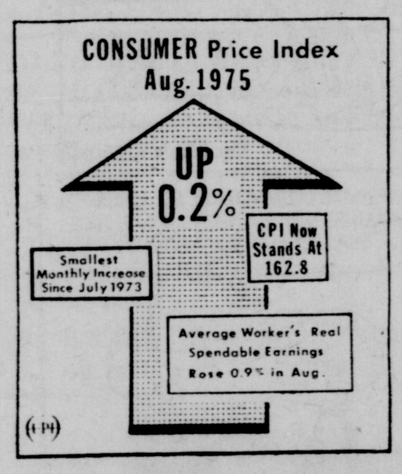
Food prices are expected to jump again in September and economists have warned that consumer prices will continue to be "turbulent" until late this year.

Deputy White House Press Sec. William Greener noted the "underlying rate of inflation is a good deal higher" than the 0.2 per cent figure indicates. "Obviously," he said, "the 0.2 per cent is lower than we expected and we do not expect that rate to be maintained."

Pat Jackman, chief of consumer prices for the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the real "good sign" in the August report was that all of the increases were moderate.

"It was not a case of a few big items increasing and others holding stable," he said.

The Consumer Price Index was 162.8 in August, up 8.6 per cent from a year ago. This meant that goods that cost $100 in 1967 now cost $162.80.



Food prices, which held steady over-all in August, were the primary reason for the good economic news. Other commodities increased 0.5 per cent, as did services.

Beef prices declined for the first time in five months and the prices of fresh vegetables, which shot up in June and July, also were down. But prices rose for pork, sugar and dairy products.

Clothing prices went up significantly, reflecting the introduction of the new fall styles. New car prices also rose after a July decline. The prices of medical services, used cars, gasoline and motor oil, fuel oil and coal also increased, but not as much as in recent months.

The department said the small rise in consumer prices, combined with an increase in average hourly earnings, allowed wage earners their first annual increase in real spendable earnings since February 1973.

The average weekly pay for a worker with a wife and two children — after deducting Social Security, federal income taxes and erosion by inflation — rose 0.9 per cent in August and stood 1.1 per cent higher than August a year ago.

Four seek to break up big oil firms

Charging that oil industry giants keep prices high by controlling "every phase of the business from the wellhead to the gas station," four Democratic senators Friday proposed legislation to break up the largest U.S. oil companies. They vowed to press for a quick vote — perhaps next week — and predicted they have a "better than 50 per cent chance" of success. The bill was prepared by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich.; Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.; Gary Hart, D-Colo.; and James Abourzek, D-.S.D.

Cancer-causing agents in air: researchers

The Environmental Protection Agency said Friday it has begun an investigation to determine the extent of a possible new cancer threat in both the air and water. The study was prompted by a report from two researchers who confirmed for the first time the presence of the cancer-causing agents in the air of two U.S. cities — Baltimore and Belle, W. Va. — and who projected its possible presence in drinking water supplies as well.

Throw out '74 campaign act: 2 senators

Opponents of the 1974 Federal Election Campaign Act asked the Supreme Court Friday to overturn the controversial law, calling it an abridgement of the constitutional right of free speech. Sen. James L. Buckley of New York and former Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota told the high court the provisions of the law discriminate against independent candidates and parties by permitting the major parties to spend in excess of candidate-expenditure limits. The appeal came one month after the U.S. Court of Appeals here upheld the new law on a 6-2 vote.

Hearings to open on Nixon spy unit

Sen. Frank Church announced Friday his Senate intelligence committee will open public hearings Monday on Nixon administration plans to set up a domestic spying agency operating out of the White House. The Idaho Democrat also said the committee will seek testimony from former President Richard M. Nixon later "if it becomes necessary" either in the inquiry into the spying scheme or other matters under investigation.

"If you can convince me that she should be released, the amount of bail will be minimal — if any."

Carter set a hearing for Tuesday for further arguments by the defense and prosecution.

Miss Hearst's parents, Randolph and Catherine Hearst, and three of her sisters were present in the courtroom to hear their attorney, Terence Hallinan, argue that she was a kidnap victim.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. said that shortly after she was captured Thursday, Miss Hearst gave her occupation as "an urban guerrilla" when booked into jail. The prosecutor pointed out she had a .38-caliber pistol in her purse at time of arrest. He added two carbines were in a closet in her flat.

While Miss Hearst sat demurely at the council table, Hallinan said his client was "most anxious to go home." He said no hard feelings existed between her and her family.

U.S. marshals escorted Miss Hearst from the courtroom after the hearing. Her parents followed, apparently to have a meeting with their daughter.

The attorney took issue with a statement attributed to him in Browning's affidavit which quoted him as saying his client's "revolutionary zeal remains unchecked."

Hallinan told Carter: "I never made any such statement. My client has never at no time ever said anything like this."

Afterwards, the federal prosecutor said he obtained the quote from a news report.

During the hearing before an overflow crowed, Judge Carter indicated the seriousness of the charges against Miss Hearst by saying that conviction would lead to a maximum jail term of 35 years and a $10,000 fine.

Hallinan hammered at the theme that Miss Hearst had begun her 19-month disappearance "as a kidnap victim."

Miss Hearst wore a purple-striped sweater and tan pants — the same outfit she had on when she and Wendy Yoshimura were arrested Thursday in a two-story, Mission District home.

Police sources said Miss Hearst was asked by arresting officers whether there were weapons in the flat. She reportedly replied, "There is one in my purse."

Police found an arsenal when they arrested Symbionese Liberation Army associates William and Emily Harris. Miss Hearst and SLA comrade Wendy Yoshimura were arrested in one home. The Harrises were picked up at another.

Police said the arsenal consisted of three .30-caliber carbines, two automatic shotguns, two handguns, 40 pounds of black powder, two gas masks, two military bandoliers and other ammunition in plastic bags.

Earlier U.S. Magistrate Owen Woodruff ordered Steven P. Soliah, 27, a house painter, held on $75,000 bail on a charge of harboring federal fugitives. He allegedly was involved in renting the homes for the four SLA members.

Soliah's lawyer said the bail was excessive since his client had committed no serious crime and his criminal record only included a misdemeanor marijuana violation in Humboldt County, Calif. But Woodruff rejected the argument.

Soliah was a link in the investigation that stretched from a Pennsylvania farmhouse to the sites of the arrests 3,000 miles away. FBI agents said Miss Yoshimura was discovered to have Soliah's sister, Kathy, as a friend.

Agents checked on Kathy which led them to her brother and the Harris hideout.

Miss Hearst had been held on $1,050,000 bail — $500,000 for the charges here and $550,000 for state charges in Los Angeles County.

Harris and his wife were ordered held on $500,000 bail each. Woodruff set Sept. 26 for a preliminary hearing for them. At that time, he said, he would accept their lawyer's motions for a reduced bail.

Browning said at their hearing that he understood a bail for them in Los Angeles County had been lifted from $50,000 to $500,000.

The Harrises were quiet at their hearing. Harris was clad in a lavender shirt and purple plants. Mrs. Harris wore a white blouse, full length corduroy pants and a lavender sweater.

Miss Yoshimura was arraigned in Alameda County Superior Court on charges of illegal possession of explosives, destructive devices and a machinegun. Bail was set at $250,000.

Four seek to break up big oil firms

Charging that oil industry giants keep prices high by controlling "every phase of the business from the wellhead to the gas station," four Democratic senators Friday proposed legislation to break up the largest U.S. oil companies. They vowed to press for a quick vote — perhaps next week — and predicted they have a "better than 50 per cent chance" of success. The bill was prepared by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich.; Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.; Gary Hart, D-Colo.; and James Abourzek, D-.S.D.

Cancer-causing agents in air: researchers

The Environmental Protection Agency said Friday it has begun an investigation to determine the extent of a possible new cancer threat in both the air and water. The study was prompted by a report from two researchers who confirmed for the first time the presence of the cancer-causing agents in the air of two U.S. cities — Baltimore and Belle, W. Va. — and who projected its possible presence in drinking water supplies as well.

The State Dept. announced Friday the United States and Jordan have resolved "some misunderstandings," clearing the way for the sale of 14 batteries of Hawk missiles to the Jordanians.

Throw out '74 campaign act: 2 senators

Opponents of the 1974 Federal Election Campaign Act asked the Supreme Court Friday to overturn the controversial law, calling it an abridgement of the constitutional right of free speech. Sen. James L. Buckley of New York and former Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota told the high court the provisions of the law discriminate against independent candidates and parties by permitting the major parties to spend in excess of candidate-expenditure limits. The appeal came one month after the U.S. Court of Appeals here upheld the new law on a 6-2 vote.

Hearings to open on Nixon spy unit

Sen. Cost of living up 0.2%; smallest rise in 3 years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living rose only 0.2 per cent in August, the Labor Dept. said Friday — the smallest increase since the era of government controls three years ago.

Prices of beef, fresh vegetables and some other foods declined in August while other goods and services rose only moderately. This allowed inflation-weary wage-earners their first annual gain in buying power in two years.

The 0.2 per cent increase was the smallest since August, 1972, during the period of wage and price controls when the annual inflation rate was running about 4 per cent.

But economists warned the August report should not be interpreted as an abrupt cooling of inflation. The light August increase followed a strong surge of 1.2 per cent in July — or an annual rate of 14.4 per cent reminiscent of the heavy double-diget inflation of last year.

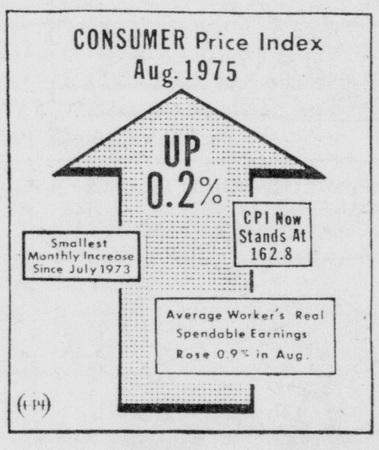
Food prices are expected to jump again in September and economists have warned that consumer prices will continue to be "turbulent" until late this year.

Deputy White House Press Sec. William Greener noted the "underlying rate of inflation is a good deal higher" than the 0.2 per cent figure indicates. "Obviously," he said, "the 0.2 per cent is lower than we expected and we do not expect that rate to be maintained."

Pat Jackman, chief of consumer prices for the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the real "good sign" in the August report was that all of the increases were moderate.

"It was not a case of a few big items increasing and others holding stable," he said.

The Consumer Price Index was 162.8 in August, up 8.6 per cent from a year ago. This meant that goods that cost $100 in 1967 now cost $162.80.



Food prices, which held steady over-all in August, were the primary reason for the good economic news. Other commodities increased 0.5 per cent, as did services.

Beef prices declined for the first time in five months and the prices of fresh vegetables, which shot up in June and July, also were down. But prices rose for pork, sugar and dairy products.

Clothing prices went up significantly, reflecting the introduction of the new fall styles. New car prices also rose after a July decline. The prices of medical services, used cars, gasoline and motor oil, fuel oil and coal also increased, but not as much as in recent months.

The department said the small rise in consumer prices, combined with an increase in average hourly earnings, allowed wage earners their first annual increase in real spendable earnings since February 1973.

The average weekly pay for a worker with a wife and two children — after deducting Social Security, federal income taxes and erosion by inflation — rose 0.9 per cent in August and stood 1.1 per cent higher than August a year ago.

SLA arrests result of hard work: Kelley

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — FBI Director Clarence Kelley, obviously relieved that his agency had ended the chase after 19 months of frustration and criticism, said in Kansas City that the arrest of Miss Hearst and four others "was the result of a good and solid investigation."

The FBI, object of jokes, scorn and abuse because agents couldn't find Miss Hearst for more than a year and a half, finally proved in a violence-free twin raid that its painstaking detective work pays off.

"I am sick and tired of having people at appearances publicly and privately ask why can't you catch Patty Hearst," Kelley said. "Now I say these inquiries are stilled. We regretted that we had to spend this much time and the citizens' money in the search for the fugitive. Our purpose was not retaliation nor to inflict any punishment, but to bring to justice those who were charged."

The lengthy investigation cost millions of dollars, and 8,500 agents participated in the search.

"Our intensive nationwide investigation that we conducted led to the identification of Wendy Yoshimura as a wanted fugitive and a reported associate of Patty Hearst," Kelley said. "This information led to an investigation of her associates. That gave us two addreses in San Francisco, one in the Mission area and another one on Precita Street."

In the farmhouse, in South Canaan, Pa., the FBI earlier this year found fingerprints belonging to Miss Yoshimura, who had not been known to be associated with the SLA up to that time. In checking Miss Yoshimura's background the FBI found Kathy Soliah, whose trail in turn led to her brother, Steven, who rented one of the San Francisco houses where the fugitives holed up two weeks ago.

Great Lakes date from Ice Age

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Paul Parent, age 11, of St. Catharines, Ont., Canada, for his question:

WHO NAMED THE GREAT LAKES?

On the map, they look like a beauteous blue flower on the heart of North America. We call them the Great Lakes, which is no exaggeration, for they hold the largest supply of fresh water in the entire world. Their geological history dates back to the Ice Age, and their present names were given by various people who visited or lived along their scenic shores.

The last of the Ice Age glaciers dug out the lake basins. The glaciers started to melt about 15,000 years ago, so the Great Lakes were filled with water. As the Ice Age retreated, various groups of American Indians visited or settled around the lake shores. Naturally they named these wondrous stretches of water with words from their own languages.

Then explorers and settlers arrived from Europe. They met the Indians, learned some of their words — and stood in breathless admiration beside the Great Lakes. For four of the lakes, they borrowed the remodeled names from the local Indians. Only one of them now has a completely non-Indian name.

FRENCH FUR trappers gave their name to the largest and highest of the Great Lakes. They called it Lac Superieur — the upper lake. We call it Lake Superior — and there is no Indian reminder in its name.

Indians named another of the lakes, Lake Michiguma, meaning the big water. Apparently that name was rather a tongue twister, for it was remodeled by white settlers. We call it Lake Michigan. Lake Huron was named for the Huron Indians who lived and hunted around its shores.

The French also had a go at renaming another of the lakes. The Iroquois called one of their neighboring tribes the Erieehronons, meaning the panther people. The French called their lake Lac du Chat meaning lake of the cat. Later settlers streamlined the old Iroquois name to Lake Erie.

All the Great Lakes are beautiful to behold. But only one of them is called beautiful and the meaning is hidden deep in its name. We call it Lake Ontario, from the original Iroquois name which meant beautiful lake. Some say that the original name referred to stupendous Niagara Falls. But surely Ontario-the-Beautiful is more suitable.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the "Chronicles of Narnia" to Claire Dignard, age 11, of Ottawa, Ont., Canada, for her question:

HOW CAN MUSHROOMS LIVE IN THE DARK?

All the green plants need sunlight because they use its energy to make food from air and water. Mushrooms are not green plants. They have none of the green chlorophyll needed to make plant food. So they do not need to take energy from sunlight. This is why they can live in the dark with no trouble at all. Actually, the major part of the mushroom plant never sees the light of day.

It is buried below the ground, where it feeds on materials created by the green plants, such as old buried tree stumps. The main plant is a mass of threads called the mycelium. When time comes to multiply, it sprouts up the chubby umbrellas we call mushrooms. They have tiny spore seedlets under their heads. The ripe spores blow away to start more mushroom plants growing in other places.

'Guns of Autumn' angers many

Hunters' protests prompt CBS broadcast 'echoes'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Columbia Broadcasting System plans a followup of its "Guns of Autumn" program because the "fire storm" of controversy it caused is interesting, and not because of fairness obligations, a spokesman said Monday.

George Hoover, director of information services for CBS News, said, however, that "Echoes of Guns of Autumn" to be broadcast Sept. 28 will include views of those who thought the first program was unfair.

The upheaval began even before the documentary on hunting was broadcast about two weeks ago, Hoover said. He said "Echoes" will be about "pressures put on CBS News, pressures on advertisers to pull out, about the fire storm."

The Federal Communications Commission has established a "Fairness Doctrine" which says broadcasters must in the long run give both sides of important issues, but not necessarily in each broadcast.

"All we've done so far is receive complaints," said Milton Gross, chief of the FCC's complaints and compliance political division. "The Commission views the complaints and decides whether the licensee acted in good faith."

But the complaints should be made to the broadcaster first and laid before the FCC only if the broadcaster fails to respond, he said. He said the only action the FCC has taken is to advise complainers what to do.

"A large majority indicate that this program did not present hunting as whole, but only a very small fringe of hunting," Gross said. "We got about 50 letters so far. Some form letters are coming in . . ."

One of the most heated complaints was issued last week in a newsletter by Rep. William L. Dickinson, R-Ala.

"The program was just another classic example of how the networks use the publicly owned airwaves to propogate their own narrow, often distorted views . . ." Dickinson said.

Hoover said CBS also has received complaint letters.

"Last week there were over 1,000," Hoover said. "The mail count has been 6-4 against us. The weekend of the broadcast we received over 100 phone calls in New York alone. The phone calls were about 5-1 against us."

Hoover denied there was any unfairness in the way "Guns" portrayed U.S. hunters.

Plenty of hot air at Prospect High

The study of aeronautics took a practical turn Thursday at Prospect High School as students, working as a ground crew, filled a hot air balloon.

Seniors Steve Bortko and Bill Vosburgh persuaded commercial pilot Don Whiting to bring his balloon to the school's Mount Prospect campus. Aeronautics students are studying a unit on sport flying which includes sky diving and gliders. Whiting is insured by Lloyd's of London.

The balloon attracted the attention of many students and teachers but to the dismay of all it was too windy to fly.

Students unroll the balloon, as big as a circus tent.

Flames provide heat to inflate the balloon.

After lots of hard work it's up, up and away.

Betting service trial delayed

The trial of two persons arrested in connection with an off-track betting service was postponed for two weeks despite a repeated demand by the defense attorney that the trial be held immediately.

Associate Judge John J. Limperis granted the continuance at the request of the State's Attorney's Office. The state's attorney had asked for a month's continuance.

Frank Oliver, representing Louise Kaplan and William Rose, employes of Pegasus Co., said his clients were ready and demanded that the case be heard Friday.

OLIVER SAID equipment and documents seized by police in a raid Aug. 29, of the company's Arlington Heights' office, 1612 W. Northwest Hwy., are worth $10,000. He said the seizure was impeding negotiations by the company for further bank financing.

The state's attorney said the betting service is still under investigation and a grand jury may be looking into its operations.

Limperis said, "Frankly, I am bowled over" by Oliver's demand for an immediate trial at the first hearing and by the defendants' willingness not to contest the facts surrounding the raid.

Oliver said they did not dispute what happened during the raid, only interpretation of the situation was open to question.

PEGASUS CO., with offices in Chicago, operates a service that places bets for customers at Illinois race tracks.

Miss Kapland and Rose were charged by police with transmitting and receiving wagering information. Two teletype machines were seized in the Arlington Heights raid.

The case will be heard in the Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court on Oct. 3.

Tag day for pets Sept. 27

Pet Pride of Illinois Inc., Arlington Heights, will sponsor a tag day Sept. 27.

Proceeds from tag sales will go to pay veterinary bills and food and supply bills for the shelter. The humane organization now houses more than 70 cats.

Bernadette Tacker, president of Pet Pride, said all work is done by unpaid volunteers and "all donations directly benefit the animals."

Antiques better in miniature

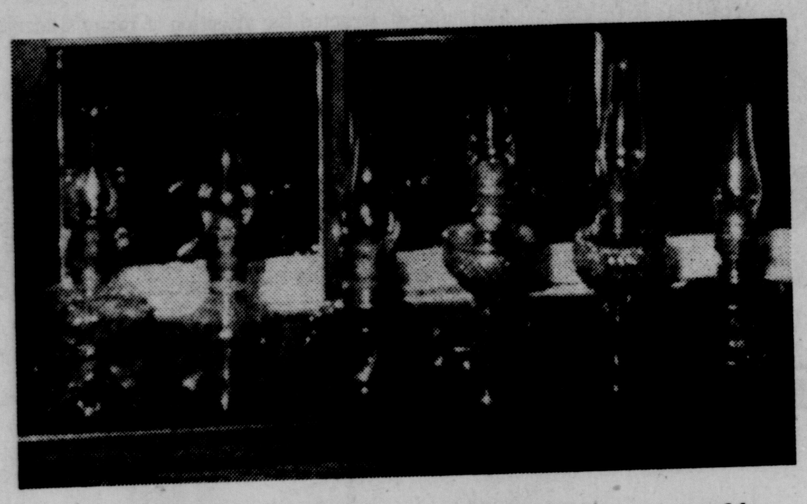
with Grace Carolyn



I don't know why it should be so, but in the antiques world, anything miniature is better than full-sized. That is, you get more for your money by buying the small economy size.

Take lamps (I wish I had about a hundred). Miniature lamps of the old coal oil or kerosene variety are much more desirable than the full-sized, and more expensive.

I think the reason — or the reasoning — is that there are fewer miniatures made in lighting devices, for naturally they offered little light and were used mostly for night lights, bedside lamps or perhaps just as decorations or toys. Then, too, they are usually very elaborate compared to full-sized lamps.

YOU MIGHT see a great many tall plain clear glass kerosene lamps in an antiques shop, but chances are, if you find a small one, it will be made of colored glass, or be highly decorated with painting. It might even be a pattern glass with a name, for many glass houses of the late 19th century added a line of miniature lamps to their tableware, made in the same type molds.

When I lived up north, I became acquainted with an octogenarian who was one of the most interesting women I've ever met. Not only was she delighted, as she said, at finding herself erect and able to "get going" every morning, so that every day was a case of wonder and joy, she had so many talents, hobbies and friends that her time was almost too filled with dates and obligations.

She taught organ and piano, including jazz, belonged to several clubs and did her bit for the "old folks" in the community. She was active in civic affairs, traveled miles to hear a concert or see a play, and collected antiques as avidly as a beginner, although she had been at that fascinating hobby for 75 years, by her own count. (I only speak of her in the past tense since I no longer live near her; she is alive and well and collecting as usual!)

A VISIT TO her home was one of the biggest treats of my life. It was absolutely charming and harbored more interesting antiques collections than many museums. Yet it was not museum-looking. The things were displayed with such taste and so many of them used, every day, that they were obviously loved and lived with.

"But," and I used the cliche which has so often bugged me, "how do you keep it all dusted?" "I simply wash one grouping every week, dear," she explained, "and since I have 52 windows, cupboards or collections, each gets polished once a year, and that's enough cleaning for anything!"

Although her taste ran to the eclectic including furniture, china, glass, books, almost everything, the bulk of her collection is in miniature lamps, of which she owns hundreds. A few are shown on a window ledge in the picture, and others stand on shelves and specially built display racks. They are mainly of glass, although her collection also includes brass, china and other types.

WHAT WAS so much fun about this fascinating person was her enthusiasm. "When I hear of a lamp for sale, I just can't rest until I am able to buy it," she exclaimed. She tells the story of a d o u b l e-fonted "wedding" miniature lamp which had been in the possession of an acquaintance, and which she had heard of and seen pictures of, but had never actually seen. Finally, after years of yearning to see the unusual lamp, the couple offered to sell it to her — "at a king's ransom," she confessed, "but that's what I use my organ lesson earnings for, and I finally got it!" She was as delighted as a sultan with a new jewel, and it was impossible not to rejoice with her.

Wherever I go in this sometimes f u n n y, sometimes frustrating world, I meet people such as my lamp-collecting friend, and I hope a little of her outlook rubbed off on me, for she was a miniature treasure.

Richard Carsellos greet guests at outdoor party

A reception under two blue and white canopies at the bride's parents' home followed the wedding of Karen A. Sjoquist, daughter of the Eldon Sjoquists, Arlington Heights, and Richard Carsello. Richard is the son of Mrs. Howard Klehm, Arlington Heights, and Anthony Carsello, Los Angeles.

The ceremony was held in the First United Methodist Church, Arlington Heights, at 3 p.m. Aug. 24.

Karen chose a colonial-style dress of white chiffon. A Juliet cap held her cathedral veil, and she carried orchids and baby's breath.

MAID OF HONOR for her sister's wedding was Ellen Sjoquist. She wore a gown of yellow taffeta with a white lace overlay and a matching picture hat. Her flowers were pink roses, white carnations and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Karen's sister Linda and Linda Busner, Wyoming, Ohio. Their ensembles were identical to the maid of honor's, and they carried bouquets of yellow roses, white carnations and baby's breath.

The groom's brother from Arlington Heights, Howard Klehm, served as best man. Also attending the groom was Bret Carsello, the groom's cousin from Barrington, and Mike Callahan, Wheeling, as ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carsello

After the reception at the Sjoquists', the couple left for a honeymoon in Door County, Wis. They are making their home in Wheeling.

Karen attended Hersey High School and Richard attended Southern Illinois University. He owns Light Industries, Niles.

A formal garden reception

Following their wedding Aug. 23 in Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, Marliss Adair Prasse and Thomas Freeman received 125 guests under a yellow and white tent at a formal garden reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Prasse, Arlington Heights.

The groom is the son of the Theodore Freemans of Seattle, Wash., and his uncle, the Rev. John Freeman of Seattle, participated in the 4 p.m. double ring service.

Marliss, a 1970 graduate of Hersey High, and Thomas are both '74 graduates of the University of Washington in Seattle. They are now residing in Steillacoom, Wash., where Thomas is employed by Burroughs in nearby Tacoma.

THE NEWLYWEDS plan to earn master's degrees at the University of Michigan, Marliss in urban planning and her bridegroom in political science.

For her marriage Marliss wore a white peau de soie gown and white hat with lace crown, and she carried white phalaenopsis orchids. Her only attendant, Sally Prather, was in a yellow organdy halter gown with jacket, and her flowers were yellow glamellias. Sally, a teacher in Mullins, S. C., is from Mount Prospect and graduated from Hersey with the bride.

Best man was David Marshall of Seattle, and ushers were the couple's brothers, Richard Freeman, Watertown, Mass., and Craig Prasse, Arlington Heights.

The program will be presented by Walter Vogl of Lake Cook Farm Supply. He will discuss how to prepare the garden for winter and will give other gardening tips.

Area pair met in college

Joan Matson of Mount Prospect and Darrell Heasley of Arlington Heights were friends in high school, but their romance didn't begin until they went to college. After graduation from Hersey High in '72 Joan went to Illinois State where she completed her junior year, and Darrell to the University of Mississippi where he is now a senior.

Daughter of the Donald J. Matsons, Joan plans to begin her senior year next June. Until her marriage she worked part-time at Arlington Federal Savings and Loan.

Darrell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Heasley, and he and Joan were married Aug. 22 in a 6 p.m. double ring service in First United Methodist Church, Arlington Heights. They honeymooned in New Orleans and are now residing in Oxford, Miss.

A GOWN OF white tissue crepe with appliques of Venise lace was Joan's choice in wedding gown. Her elbow-length mantilla was held by a cap of matching lace, and she carried white lilies, white roses, Starburst mums and baby's breath with stephanotis.

Kim Kalomiris, Elmhurst, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Linda Schouanec, Mount Prospect; Beryl Joerns, Arlington Heights; and Linda Tye, Park Forest. All wore apricot knit jersey gowns with matching jackets edged in white Venise lace. White hats trimmed in ivy and bouquets of coral and white glamellias and ivy completed their ensembles.

JAMES STANFIELD, Paris, Ill., was Darrell's best man, and ushers were Doug Radant, Wausau, Wis.; Steve McKinney, Zion; and Darrell's brother, Devin. Junior ushers were the couple's brothers, Curt Matson and Doug Heasley.

A reception for 150 guests was held in Old Orchard Country Club, Mount Prospect.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Heasley

Wendy Riedel sewed 1,500 beads on her bridal gown

Wendy Lynn Riedel sewed 1,500 beads on her wedding gown. Altogether, it took Wendy at least 180 hours to make the satin and lace gown. Daughter of the John A. Riedels, Palatine, Wendy also made her mother's gown.

Her bridegroom, Edward M. Downey, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Downey, Palatine, and both Wendy and Ed are '74 graduates of Palatine High School. High school sweethearts since their sophomore year, both went on to study at Harper College, Wendy part-time, and Ed full-time where he is studying to be a medical lab technician.

Wendy is employed by Skrudland's Photo Service, Palatine, and Ed expects to graduate next June. They make their home in a Palatine apartment.

THEIR WEDDING took place Aug. 23 in Christ Lutheran Church, Palatine, in a 4 p.m. double ring service. Wendy chose her sister, Judith Ann, as maid of honor, and Christine Bickley, Salt Lake City; Dorene Purdom, West Chicago; and the groom's sister, Audrey as bridesmaids. Their gowns were in yellow, trimmed in ruffles and with tie backs, and they carried yellow carnations, Abbey roses and baby's breath. Wendy's flowers were stephanotis, Abbey garnets, white carnations and baby's breath.

The wedding party also included two flower girls, Christine Margaret Riedel, 8-year-old sister of the bride, and Maria Downey, 8-year-old sister of the groom. The flower girls were also in yellow gowns and they carried their flowers in baskets.

ROBERT RIEDEL, 6, brother of the bride, was ring bearer, and Christopher Peterson, Palatine, was best man. Ushers were the couple's brothers, John Riedel, and Kevin, Raymond, Donald, William and James Downey.

A dinner reception for 170 guests was held at the Royal Arcanum in Chicago, after which the newlyweds honeymooned at the Marriott and also at a cottage in northern Wisconsin.

Joseph Hanners celebrate 50th anniversary

Celebrating their golden wedding anniversary last Sunday were Joseph and Irma Hanner, 938 N. Highland, Arlington Heights.

Originally from Austria, the Hanners were married Sept. 12, 1925, in Chicago, moving to Arlington Heights 11 years ago. They observed their 50 years together with a mass in St. James Church and a reception for 100 friends and relatives at the Pickwick in Palatine.

Joseph, a retired carpenter, and Irma are parents of two children: a daughter, Alice Lamm of Lexington, Ky., and a son, Emil of Arlington Heights. The family also includes two grandsons: Jerome Hanner, a student at Georgetown University in Washington, D. C., and Greg Hanner, a student at St. Viator High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Downey

Antiques better in miniature

with Grace Carolyn

I don't know why it should be so, but in the antiques world, anything miniature is better than full-sized. That is, you get more for your money by buying the small economy size.

Take lamps (I wish I had about a hundred). Miniature lamps of the old coal oil or kerosene variety are much more desirable than the full-sized, and more expensive.

I think the reason — or the reasoning — is that there are fewer miniatures made in lighting devices, for naturally they offered little light and were used mostly for night lights, bedside lamps or perhaps just as decorations or toys. Then, too, they are usually very elaborate compared to full-sized lamps.

YOU MIGHT see a great many tall plain clear glass kerosene lamps in an antiques shop, but chances are, if you find a small one, it will be made of colored glass, or be highly decorated with painting. It might even be a pattern glass with a name, for many glass houses of the late 19th century added a line of miniature lamps to their tableware, made in the same type molds.

When I lived up north, I became acquainted with an octogenarian who was one of the most interesting women I've ever met. Not only was she delighted, as she said, at finding herself erect and able to "get going" every morning, so that every day was a case of wonder and joy, she had so many talents, hobbies and friends that her time was almost too filled with dates and obligations.

She taught organ and piano, including jazz, belonged to several clubs and did her bit for the "old folks" in the community. She was active in civic affairs, traveled miles to hear a concert or see a play, and collected antiques as avidly as a beginner, although she had been at that fascinating hobby for 75 years, by her own count. (I only speak of her in the past tense since I no longer live near her; she is alive and well and collecting as usual!)

A VISIT TO her home was one of the biggest treats of my life. It was absolutely charming and harbored more interesting antiques collections than many museums. Yet it was not museum-looking. The things were displayed with such taste and so many of them used, every day, that they were obviously loved and lived with.

"But," and I used the cliche which has so often bugged me, "how do you keep it all dusted?" "I simply wash one grouping every week, dear," she explained, "and since I have 52 windows, cupboards or collections, each gets polished once a year, and that's enough cleaning for anything!"

Although her taste ran to the eclectic including furniture, china, glass, books, almost everything, the bulk of her collection is in miniature lamps, of which she owns hundreds. A few are shown on a window ledge in the picture, and others stand on shelves and specially built display racks. They are mainly of glass, although her collection also includes brass, china and other types.

WHAT WAS so much fun about this fascinating person was her enthusiasm. "When I hear of a lamp for sale, I just can't rest until I am able to buy it," she exclaimed. She tells the story of a double-fonted "wedding" miniature lamp which had been in the possession of an acquaintance, and which she had heard of and seen pictures of, but had never actually seen. Finally, after years of yearning to see the unusual lamp, the couple offered to sell it to her — "at a king's ransom," she confessed, "but that's what I use my organ lesson earnings for, and I finally got it!" She was as delighted as a sultan with a new jewel, and it was impossible not to rejoice with her.

Wherever I go in this sometimes funny, sometimes frustrating world, I meet people such as my lamp-collecting friend, and I hope a little of her outlook rubbed off on me, for she was a miniature treasure.

Richard Carsellos greet guests at outdoor party

The ceremony was held in the First United Methodist Church, Arlington Heights, at 3 p.m. Aug. 24.

Karen chose a colonial-style dress of white chiffon. A Juliet cap held her cathedral veil, and she carried orchids and baby's breath.

MAID OF HONOR for her sister's wedding was Ellen Sjoquist. She wore a gown of yellow taffeta with a white lace overlay and a matching picture hat. Her flowers were pink roses, white carnations and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Karen's sister Linda and Linda Busner, Wyoming, Ohio. Their ensembles were identical to the maid of honor's, and they carried bouquets of yellow roses, white carnations and baby's breath.

The groom's brother from Arlington Heights, Howard Klehm, served as best man. Also attending the groom was Bret Carsello, the groom's cousin from Barrington, and Mike Callahan, Wheeling, as ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carsello

After the reception at the Sjoquists', the couple left for a honeymoon in Door County, Wis. They are making their home in Wheeling.

Karen attended Hersey High School and Richard attended Southern Illinois University. He owns Light Industries, Niles.

A formal garden reception

Following their wedding Aug. 23 in Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, Marliss Adair Prasse and Thomas Freeman received 125 guests under a yellow and white tent at a formal garden reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Prasse, Arlington Heights.

The groom is the son of the Theodore Freemans of Seattle, Wash., and his uncle, the Rev. John Freeman of Seattle, participated in the 4 p.m. double ring service.

Marliss, a 1970 graduate of Hersey High, and Thomas are both '74 graduates of the University of Washington in Seattle. They are now residing in Steillacoom, Wash., where Thomas is employed by Burroughs in nearby Tacoma.

THE NEWLYWEDS plan to earn master's degrees at the University of Michigan, Marliss in urban planning and her bridegroom in political science.

For her marriage Marliss wore a white peau de soie gown and white hat with lace crown, and she carried white phalaenopsis orchids. Her only attendant, Sally Prather, was in a yellow organdy halter gown with jacket, and her flowers were yellow glamellias. Sally, a teacher in Mullins, S. C., is from Mount Prospect and graduated from Hersey with the bride.

Best man was David Marshall of Seattle, and ushers were the couple's brothers, Richard Freeman, Watertown, Mass., and Craig Prasse, Arlington Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Freeman

Next on the agenda

The program will be presented by Walter Vogl of Lake Cook Farm Supply. He will discuss how to prepare the garden for winter and will give other gardening tips.

Area pair met in college

Joan Matson of Mount Prospect and Darrell Heasley of Arlington Heights were friends in high school, but their romance didn't begin until they went to college. After graduation from Hersey High in '72 Joan went to Illinois State where she completed her junior year, and Darrell to the University of Mississippi where he is now a senior.

Daughter of the Donald J. Matsons, Joan plans to begin her senior year next June. Until her marriage she worked part-time at Arlington Federal Savings and Loan.

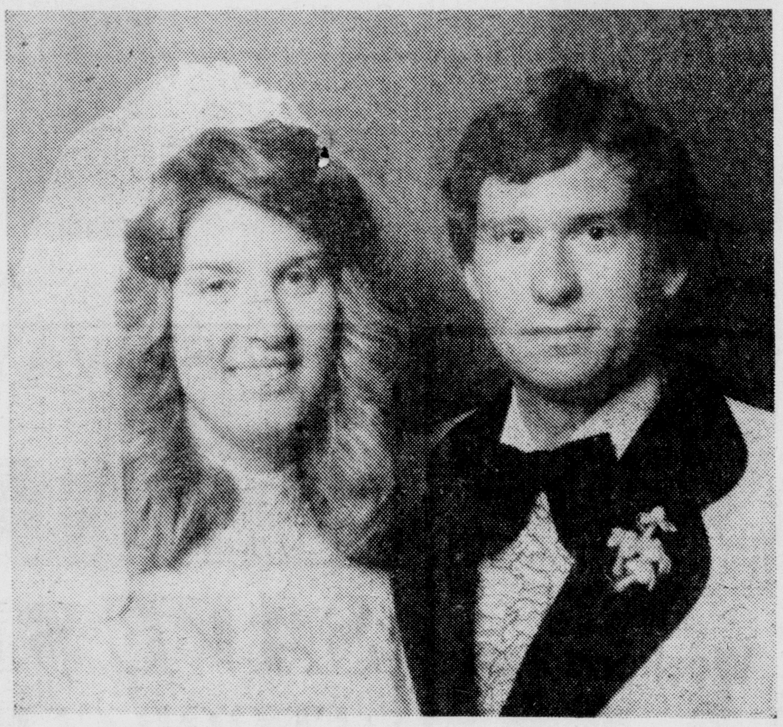
Darrell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Heasley, and he and Joan were married Aug. 22 in a 6 p.m. double ring service in First United Methodist Church, Arlington Heights. They honeymooned in New Orleans and are now residing in Oxford, Miss.

A GOWN OF white tissue crepe with appliques of Venise lace was Joan's choice in wedding gown. Her elbow-length mantilla was held by a cap of matching lace, and she carried white lilies, white roses, Starburst mums and baby's breath with stephanotis.

Kim Kalomiris, Elmhurst, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Linda Schouanec, Mount Prospect; Beryl Joerns, Arlington Heights; and Linda Tye, Park Forest. All wore apricot knit jersey gowns with matching jackets edged in white Venise lace. White hats trimmed in ivy and bouquets of coral and white glamellias and ivy completed their ensembles.

JAMES STANFIELD, Paris, Ill., was Darrell's best man, and ushers were Doug Radant, Wausau, Wis.; Steve McKinney, Zion; and Darrell's brother, Devin. Junior ushers were the couple's brothers, Curt Matson and Doug Heasley.

A reception for 150 guests was held in Old Orchard Country Club, Mount Prospect.



Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Heasley

Joseph Hanners celebrate 50th anniversary

Celebrating their golden wedding anniversary last Sunday were Joseph and Irma Hanner, 938 N. Highland, Arlington Heights.

Originally from Austria, the Hanners were married Sept. 12, 1925, in Chicago, moving to Arlington Heights 11 years ago. They observed their 50 years together with a mass in St. James Church and a reception for 100 friends and relatives at the Pickwick in Palatine.

Joseph, a retired carpenter, and Irma are parents of two children: a daughter, Alice Lamm of Lexington, Ky., and a son, Emil of Arlington Heights. The family also includes two grandsons: Jerome Hanner, a student at Georgetown University in Washington, D. C., and Greg Hanner, a student at St. Viator High School.

Wendy Riedel sewed 1,500 beads on her bridal gown

Wendy Lynn Riedel sewed 1,500 beads on her wedding gown. Altogether, it took Wendy at least 180 hours to make the satin and lace gown. Daughter of the John A. Riedels, Palatine, Wendy also made her mother's gown.

Her bridegroom, Edward M. Downey, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Downey, Palatine, and both Wendy and Ed are '74 graduates of Palatine High School. High school sweethearts since their sophomore year, both went on to study at Harper College, Wendy part-time, and Ed full-time where he is studying to be a medical lab technician.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Downey

Wendy is employed by Skrudland's Photo Service, Palatine, and Ed expects to graduate next June. They make their home in a Palatine apartment.

THEIR WEDDING took place Aug. 23 in Christ Lutheran Church, Palatine, in a 4 p.m. double ring service. Wendy chose her sister, Judith Ann, as maid of honor, and Christine Bickley, Salt Lake City; Dorene Purdom, West Chicago; and the groom's sister, Audrey as bridesmaids. Their gowns were in yellow, trimmed in ruffles and with tie backs, and they carried yellow carnations, Abbey roses and baby's breath. Wendy's flowers were stephanotis, Abbey garnets, white carnations and baby's breath.

The wedding party also included two flower girls, Christine Margaret Riedel, 8-year-old sister of the bride, and Maria Downey, 8-year-old sister of the groom. The flower girls were also in yellow gowns and they carried their flowers in baskets.

ROBERT RIEDEL, 6, brother of the bride, was ring bearer, and Christopher Peterson, Palatine, was best man. Ushers were the couple's brothers, John Riedel, and Kevin, Raymond, Donald, William and James Downey.

A dinner reception for 170 guests was held at the Royal Arcanum in Chicago, after which the newlyweds honeymooned at the Marriott and also at a cottage in northern Wisconsin.

How many seeds do you see?

Blow a fluffy white dandelion and watch its seeds fly into the air. This is just one way seeds travel to new growing places. Each seed may grow into a new plant in a new place.

Some seeds fly with the help of little wings (box elder, maple, elm, ash, basswood). Others roll along the ground on a windy day (Russian thistle, tumbling pigweed, tumbleweed). Some seeds cling to clothes and animal fur with sharp stickers. They hitchhike for a bit, then fall off (burdock burrs, sticktight, beggar lice, Spanish needle).

Exploding pods fling out other seeds (balsam, phlox, witch hazel, jewelwood, wild geranium, touch-me-not, violet, wild cucumber). Some seeds travel by water (ragweed, cattail, water lily, marsh marigold). People and animals also carry seeds to new places, then throw them away (peach, cherry, apple, acorns).

It's fun to go on a fall hike and look for seeds that travel in different ways. You may want to square off a sheet of paper or shallow box lid. Write one way seeds travel in each box. As you find seeds, glue them in the right square.

As you hike, look for pinecones, acorns and milkweed pods, too. You'll find out what to do with them in coming weeks.

Jury still out on dietary fibers issue

Dear Dorothy: You and your associates have been delinquent in not working to get readers to alter their diets and start stressing dietary fibers. It's the biggest food development in this century and can save countless lives. The story of fibers and their life-giving qualities should be on Page 1 day after day — Mrs. K.L. Barkhouse.

I don't like sounding rude, but it seems to me you're guilty of vast overstatement. The issue of dietary fibers has been reported well and carefully. While the theory that a diet strong in fiber can reduce colonic cancer and also lower cholesterol is plausible, many good medical men want to see more and better statistical evidence.

The press has often been accused of sensationalizing things like "cancer cures." This is a time it deserves praise for commendable restraint. I have a medical history of two cancer operations and some serious bouts with diverticulitis so I read all this material with deep interest and I think it's been prudent and fair.

Dear Dorothy: I live in an old-fashioned apartment with plenty of storage space. I usually buy potatoes in a five-pound sack when they're on sale. By the time I get to the bottom of a sack, they are soft and starting to sprout. Any idea on the best way to store them? — Mrs. Martha Becker.

First suggestion is to stop buying in five-pound lots. It's not much of a bargain when you have to throw some away. Second, you can freeze mashed or baked potatoes beautifully.

Dear Dorothy: You keep referring to "residual" insect sprays. Aren't all sprays residual? — John Magid

No, sir. Some simply kill by contact. The residuals have the power to kill insects that hatch as long as a month after spraying.

Dear Dorothy: Can I freeze zucchini? If so, may I use the cottage cheese containers? If not, what should I use? I had one large zucchini that weighed 8 or 10 pounds which I processed by the boiling-water method.

I didn't like the way it turned out. If you do freeze zucchini, should it be peeled? — Mrs. Lewis Meyer.

When you freeze zucchini or summer squash, use the young tender vegetable with small seeds and tender skin (so you don't have to peel it). Most freezing experts say not to use the cottage cheese cartons — that they are not moisture-vaporproof. Plastic or foil cartons are fine. You wash, cut in half-inch slices, heat in boiling water for three minutes, then cool promptly in cold water and drain. Pack in containers, leaving half-inch head space. Maybe the zucchini you experimented with was too large to expect good results.

Is collection plate on way out?

World of religion

by David E. Anderson

In what is fondly referred to as "the olden days," worshippers brought their offerings to church in the form of farm produce or other practical ways that allowed the preacher to keep body and soul together.

As America became a cash society money and the very familiar "little envelopes" became the primary means of supporting the local church and a denomination's foreign and domestic mission programs.

Soon, perhaps, those velvet-bottomed collection plates may be as outmoded as the outdoor commode.

OUTMODED, THAT is, if an experiment worked out by 10 denominations working through the National Council of Churches Stewardship Commission.

With a properly religious acronym First Fruits — ACTS, standing for Authorized Contribution Transfer Service the experiment allows banks with proper authorization to make monthly or quarterly payments directly to religious institutions.

Under the plan, a church member would authorize his or her local church to send a record of his or her financial commitment to Investment Data Corp. of California, a data processing group which can transfer funds in any bank in the nation.

The company then authorizes the contributor's bank to make monthly or quarterly payments as determined by the account holder.

THE COMMITMENT, or pledge, lasts a year and the giver may designate amounts to colleges, retirement homes or other religious institutions as well as the local congregation.

But givers should also play to overfund their account.

For each transfer, the computer company takes off 65 cents, six and a half of which goes to the National Council's Commission for its First Fruits staff and material.

According to Clifford Lott, head of the United Methodist Church's section on stewardship of the Board of Discipleship, the strength of the program is that it allows donors to give a high priority to church giving.

"Many individuals have their utilities and insurance bills paid each month by electronic transfer systems, in any case," he said. "They pay their regular bills and then give the church from what is left over." First Fruit changes that.

Lott said that some people have expressed concern for what such nonofferings do to the offering section of a worship service.

HE RESPONDS that, as with other parts of worship undergoing change in response to contempoary needs, First Fruits will require a "resymbolization" for worship.

Congregations in five metropolitan areas — Philadelphia, Kansas City, Atlanta, Los Angeles and Dallas-Ft. Worth — are currently experimenting with the electronic transfer program.

Oh, by the way, they also take BankAmericard and Master Charge, too.

Stock prices soar in active trade

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cash-laden investors, heartened because inflation moderated dramatically in August, went on a buying spree Friday that drove prices sharply higher in the heaviest trading in eight weeks on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 15.56-point winner Thursday, soared another 15.18 points to 829.79. The advance gave the closely followed average a 20.50-point gain for the week. Following losses Monday and Tuesday, it rose 34.66 points in the past three sessions.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index climbed 1.82 to 85.88. The average price of an NYSE common share rose 63 cents.

ADVANCES DEVASTATED declines, 1,244 to 257, among the 1,812 issues crossing the tape.

The volume of 20,830,000 shares was the heaviest since 21,424,850 shares were traded July 17 and was sharply higher than the revised 14,560,000 traded Thursday. The NYSE high-speed ticker ran two minutes late in the first hour.

The rally was triggered by the Labor Department's report that the 0.2 per cent increase in the August Consumer Price Index was the smallest in three years and sharply lower than the 1.2 per cent hike in July.

That news, coupled with government reports earlier this week, backed up contentions the economic recovery was stronger than anticipated.

Virtually every group was higher on the market. Oils, chemicals and related issues particularly were strong following reports some OPEC nations might have softened their stand on raising crude oil prices.

SUPERIOR OIL, one of the most volatile Big Board issues, soared 11½ to 183. Getty Oil climbed 4¾ to 181½, Union Pacific 4-3/8 to 68 and Atlantic Richfield 3 to 98½. There were numerous point-size gainers.

The OPEC news also helped some of the airlines. Pan American World Airways was the second most active issue, up ¼ to 4-5/8 on 261,399 shares. UAL Inc., which expects increased business next year, gained 7/8 to 21-7/8, Northwest 1-1/8 to 19-1/8 and Delta 1¼ to 31¾.

Is collection plate on way out?

World of religion

by David E. Anderson

In what is fondly referred to as "the olden days," worshippers brought their offerings to church in the form of farm produce or other practical ways that allowed the preacher to keep body and soul together.

As America became a cash society money and the very familiar "little envelopes" became the primary means of supporting the local church and a denomination's foreign and domestic mission programs.

Soon, perhaps, those velvet-bottomed collection plates may be as outmoded as the outdoor commode.

OUTMODED, THAT is, if an experiment worked out by 10 denominations working through the National Council of Churches Stewardship Commission.

With a properly religious acronym First Fruits — ACTS, standing for Authorized Contribution Transfer Service the experiment allows banks with proper authorization to make monthly or quarterly payments directly to religious institutions.

Under the plan, a church member would authorize his or her local church to send a record of his or her financial commitment to Investment Data Corp. of California, a data processing group which can transfer funds in any bank in the nation.

The company then authorizes the contributor's bank to make monthly or quarterly payments as determined by the account holder.

THE COMMITMENT, or pledge, lasts a year and the giver may designate amounts to colleges, retirement homes or other religious institutions as well as the local congregation.

But givers should also play to overfund their account.

For each transfer, the computer company takes off 65 cents, six and a half of which goes to the National Council's Commission for its First Fruits staff and material.

According to Clifford Lott, head of the United Methodist Church's section on stewardship of the Board of Discipleship, the strength of the program is that it allows donors to give a high priority to church giving.

"Many individuals have their utilities and insurance bills paid each month by electronic transfer systems, in any case," he said. "They pay their regular bills and then give the church from what is left over." First Fruit changes that.

Lott said that some people have expressed concern for what such nonofferings do to the offering section of a worship service.

HE RESPONDS that, as with other parts of worship undergoing change in response to contempoary needs, First Fruits will require a "resymbolization" for worship.

Congregations in five metropolitan areas — Philadelphia, Kansas City, Atlanta, Los Angeles and Dallas-Ft. Worth — are currently experimenting with the electronic transfer program.

Oh, by the way, they also take BankAmericard and Master Charge, too.

Stock prices soar in active trade

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cash-laden investors, heartened because inflation moderated dramatically in August, went on a buying spree Friday that drove prices sharply higher in the heaviest trading in eight weeks on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 15.56-point winner Thursday, soared another 15.18 points to 829.79. The advance gave the closely followed average a 20.50-point gain for the week. Following losses Monday and Tuesday, it rose 34.66 points in the past three sessions.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index climbed 1.82 to 85.88. The average price of an NYSE common share rose 63 cents.

ADVANCES DEVASTATED declines, 1,244 to 257, among the 1,812 issues crossing the tape.

The volume of 20,830,000 shares was the heaviest since 21,424,850 shares were traded July 17 and was sharply higher than the revised 14,560,000 traded Thursday. The NYSE high-speed ticker ran two minutes late in the first hour.

The rally was triggered by the Labor Department's report that the 0.2 per cent increase in the August Consumer Price Index was the smallest in three years and sharply lower than the 1.2 per cent hike in July.

That news, coupled with government reports earlier this week, backed up contentions the economic recovery was stronger than anticipated.

Virtually every group was higher on the market. Oils, chemicals and related issues particularly were strong following reports some OPEC nations might have softened their stand on raising crude oil prices.

The OPEC news also helped some of the airlines. Pan American World Airways was the second most active issue, up ¼ to 4-5/8 on 261,399 shares. UAL Inc., which expects increased business next year, gained 7/8 to 21-7/8, Northwest 1-1/8 to 19-1/8 and Delta 1¼ to 31¾.

We back racing bill amendment

Gov. Daniel Walker, through his amendatory veto power, has improved on a bill governing horse racing, passed by the Illinois legislature earlier this year.

The best of the adjustments the governor made was to restore a clause banning political contributions by parties with racing interests. While that ban is a part of existing law, it was conveniently omitted in the new bill, which is designed to consolidate existing statutes governing horse racing in Illinois.

The change alone makes the bill, as returned to the legislature, worth approval. As Walker pointed out, the worst scandals in Illinois politics have been directly tied to payoffs to government officials by racing interests.

In short, this is good legislation — covering standards of living conditions for racetrack employes as well as spelling out the state's share of betting revenue — which has been improved by Walker's amendments.

It should be approved by the legislature.

Other substantive provisions of the bill would legalize horse racing on Sundays and year-round racing.

We see no moral objection to Sunday racing, as we see no detriment in Sunday football, baseball, polo or hockey.

The bill does, however, provide that communities with racetracks may prevent their operation on Sunday. Under the provisions of the bill, the Arlington Heights Village Board could decide on its own, or through the advice of the voters in referendum, whether Arlington Park could operate on Sunday.

We believe it is incumbent on the Racing Board, also, to give local communities ample opportunity to voice their sentiments on any extension of the local racing season to year-round racing.

Any legislator who opposes a prohibition against financial ties between racing promoters and public officials, in our opinion, lays himself open to suspicion.

Board's curriculum review proper

The Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 board is attempting to become more involved in the development of curriculum in the district, and we think that is a good idea.

The board is working on a policy calling for an annual evaluation of curriculum by department heads, with information on strengths, weaknesses and curriculum needs going to the board. The policy also calls for an analysis of programs being tested by the district and a rating of new texts and materials.

There is the argument that board members are not educators and curriculum is not their bailiwick. The Dist. 54 board has made it clear that they want to be kept informed — they don't want to interfere — and that is a reasonable stance.

The policy as a whole has drawn a great deal of comment but little criticism from parents and teachers. One section, however, has angered many.

The section deals with rating instructional materials on whether they are free of discrimination based on age, race, religion, ethnic background, sex or life style.

Teachers argue that no book is free from such materials, and they are being asked to find something that doesn't exist. They use history texts as an example and say there are examples of discrimination throughout.

The argument is a lame one. Slavery is a part of our history— but a text that justifies slavery rather than explaining it is doing our children an injustice. At the same time, a text that spends a chapter on the American revolution without mentioning the black infantrymen who fought or the contribution of women such as Abigail Adams is not telling the whole story.

The board is not singling out "discrimination" as the only rating criterion. It is one of several, and it should be weighed.

An affront to a decent community

We are encouraged by the fast action taken by officials of Arlington Heights to assure the victims of a racial affront that they are welcome in the community and will enjoy its full protection.

A black family moved into the community a week ago; although they received the standard welcomes from neighbors, they were alerted by two high school students that other teenagers were planning to harass them.

That night a cross was burned on their lawn.

Neighbors were quick to reassure them that the incident did not reflect residents' feelings about having black neighbors.

Almost immediately, the Village of Arlington Heights replaced the burnt sod on their front lawn, and Mayor James T. Ryan paid a courtesy call on the family to welcome them and apologize on behalf of the community.

He said the village would "come down like a ton of bricks" on anyone caught harassing the family.

Finally, on Thursday the Arlington Heights police arrested a 19-year-old man in connection with the incident. The arrest followed an investigation by the detective bureau.

We commend Ryan and the police for their prompt action. Arlington Heights has no room for attitudes like those reflected by the cross burning. We hope the guilty person or persons suffer some of the mental anguish felt by decent citizens of the community.

This is not my favorite time of year. Not only do I have to put up storm windows pretty soon, but the new television shows are on.

I'm still mad at television for cancelling "The Rogues" eight years ago, so maybe I'm not the fairest critic of them all, but it seems that the shows are getting duller every year.

You'll notice that when a show gets real dull, the TV listing adds, "Due to mature theme, discretion is advised." This means the program is going to deal with s-e-x, which is supposed to make everybody want to see it.

On the other hand, there are the super-pure shows that take us through the joys and sorrows of the typical family which actually is about as typical as a tomcat having kittens.

There are a few things, of course, that never change. Commercials are as good and as bad as ever, football and baseball still overlap and daytime soap operas are still the best whodunits.

WITHOUT a "due to mature theme" warning, the soapers continue to be full of characters begetting and being gat out of wedlock, and the big question always is "Whodunit?" The answer is usually worth about 17 weeks of programs.

Then there are the movies.

For a while this summer, I was looking forward to the new season because so many Academy Award winners were scheduled. So I watched the first one last Sunday night and wondered why — why I had watched it and why had it won anything.

Then a friend who had seen the movie when it was brand new told me how much it had been dissected for television viewing, and it sounds as though the missing parts were better than what I saw. When I get rich, I'm going to buy a television station and run all the missing parts of all the butchered movies in one continuous show. It's bound to be the greatest movie of all time.

Of course, commercial interruptions hurt a movie almost as much as the surgery. I know that commercials are necessary to finance the show I'm watching, but there are some things about them I don't understand.

Why don't they rerun the good ones like they rerun Lucy? Advertisers must be related to producers because they do the same thing to their commercials that producers do to their shows — when they accidentally get a good one, they change it.

AND HOW COME commercials are so long when you're waiting for the program to come back on, but so short when you have to do something — I mean, like put another load of clothes in the dryer?

If television doesn't improve pretty soon, I could end up liking to put up storm windows.

How Volunteer Service Bureau works

The Volunteer Service Bureau would like to challenge any pessimist — any doom sayer, to spend a day in our office and not change his outlook on life. Yes, we receive sad, heartbreaking calls for help, but very few have to be turned away, some are put "on hold" but we know that soon the phone will ring and that very same need will be filled.

Probation officers have some kids in need of a Big Brother, a firm, understanding friend. The same day two new volunteer registrations arrive in the mail, a perfect match! A lonely lady sits by the phone waiting to hear a human voice; the next day we receive a call from a volunteer interested in a one-to-one relationship with a shut-in. An agency needed groups to paint, to sew; it was not very long after their call that we were asked for ideas for group projects from industry and churches.

Our schools might be having difficulties, our children might say, "What's the use?" — but go from classroom to classroom and see all the volunteer speakers enriching your kids' lives, bringing the whole world to them, cultures, careers, hobbies.

WOULDN'T YOU LIKE to feel part of this vital aspect of American life? What would be a better personal Bicentennial testimony than going back to the "aid thy neighbor" feeling of years past.

Why not call the Volunteer Service Bureau at 398-1320. We need you — in the schools to help in learning centers, libraries, offices to record books, to share your hobbies, experiences, travels, talents — in our agencies as drivers, listeners, readers, talkers, painters, swimmers, huggers, laughers.

Volunteering is the best way to achieve your human potentiality. Come with us!

YES program shift upset reader

As a college student who found a job with the aid of Elk Grove's YES program and Mrs. Lynn Helvie the two summers previous to this one, I was distressed to hear that Mrs. Helvie with her master's degree in occupational counseling and a $7,200 salary was being replaced by a "clerk-typist" with "experience in personnel work" for $7,386 a year due to what Jane Broten of the Community Services board terms "budget consideration."

It doesn't take a college degree to see that Elk Grove is ending up with an increase in its budget with little improvement in services. A permanent office and answering service are fine things but it doesn't mean one additional job for the unemployed; just more dollars spent and the loss of a valuable staff member. Looks like Mrs. Helvie will have to use her job seeking skills for herself this time but when it comes to filling in the space about reason for leaving her previous job she'll be as much in the dark about the reason as everyone else in town.

The Herald observes editorially (Sept. 13) that, in Buffalo Grove, there has been discussion about rescheduling meeting times "so members may watch Notre Dame and Chicago Bears on television." Were The Herald more concerned about fairness and accuracy, however, you would have pointed out that such discussion focused, in part, upon poor attendance by residents at board meetings, and upon the possibility that better citizen participation might result if the meeting night were changed so as not to conflict with popular Monday evening sports telecasts.

That same editorial also notes that "Bozo's Circus comes on at noon." Here we have still another inaccuracy; all Herald readers are surely aware that, in the Northwest suburbs, Bozo's Circus is delivered six mornings a week by the newspaper carrier.

Mrs. Helvie did an 'excellent job!'

Let's hear it for Mrs. Helvie!

Mrs. Lynn Helvie, past director of Elk Grove Village's youth employment service, was not asked to move with the service to a community office. Mrs. Helvie was replaced with a secretary who was offered more money to start than our past director earned after four years.

Mrs. Helvie pioneered this wonderful service, encouraged our teenagers, guided them and helped them find work. We agree with the village officials that Mrs. Helvie has done an excellent job! We found her most fair, truly interested and so dedicated in her position. She always listened to problems and never lost patience in the years our teen-ager was registered with Y.E.S. Mrs. Helvie has a master's degree in counseling and occupational guidance from Butler University. Why then was she not retained as director?

Now our village officials should be asked the reasoning behind this action. Where are all the parents of the teen-agers who have been helped by Mrs. Helvie?

Hersey moves past Prospect for third straight win

by ART MUGALIAN

There were turning points everywhere in Hersey's tense, 28-14 victory over visiting Prospect Friday night, and both head coaches made an effort to point them out.

"We came out in the third quarter and we got that turnover right away," said Hersey coach Joe Gliwa, whose Huskie gridders are now 3-0. "And we went right in and got that score."

Hersey defensive back Bill Cashmore intercepted a pass by Knight quarterback Tim Kubicki on the first play of the second half, giving the Huskies and premier signalcaller Scott Topczewski excellent field position at the enemy 36.

Seven plays later — after Topczewski dumped a 13-yard pass to Wally Hommerding, and Hommerding followed that with a 12-yard run to the four — big fullback Matt Zakula blasted over for a touchdown to give Hersey a 21-7 lead.

Hersey went to the locker room leading 14-7 at halftime because of another turning point right before the intermission. With 2:05 left, the right side of the Hersey line blocked a Prospect punt and took over at the Knight 46.

Topczewski ran out of trouble to the 34, then halfback Tony Becker found some running room on third and one, rambling down to the 12-yard line. On second down — and with 27 seconds showing on the clock — Topczewski located Hommerding with a pass at the one, and the speedy junior halfback bulled his way into the end zone.

Prospect coach Dave Keefe, whose club is 1-2, saw one turning point early — on Hersey's first drive of the evening. On fourth and five from Prospect's 45, the Huskies shifted into punt position, pulling Prospect offside.

Keefe and the Knights argued long and loud about the call, claiming the Huskie move was an illegal shift, but the penalty stood and the Hersey drive continued. Ten plays later, Topczewski snuck over from the one and the Huskies were on the board.

The Knights drove on Hersey the first time they had the ball, tying the game at 56 seconds of the first quarter. Hard running by Don Meyer and Keith Mason, and a 35-yard circus catch by Fred Korf of a Kubicki pass keyed the march. Mason carried it in from the four.

"I was pleased with the way we played tonight," said Keefe. "Especially after last week. But people will look at that 28-14 score and think it was a runaway."

It wasn't. The Knights, who played without their top pass catcher, Tim Twitchell, bounced back in the third quarter after Hersey had taken a two-TD lead.

Kubicki hit Korf deep over the middle for a 44-yard gain down to the Huskie 20 and three plays later Dave Thoma lugged it in. Terry Freeman's kick made it 21-14.

The Knights got the ball back on a Topczewski fumble and the offense went to work. A Kubicki pass to Thoma would have put the ball on the Hersey seven, but a holding call brought it back. Keefe felt the penalty was unwarranted — another turning point.

The final turning point was a crusher. Hersey's Mark Knuttel intercepted Kubicki's last-minute pass and returned it 25 yards for a TD. Prospect had been put in a deep hole at their 17 when Topczewski connected for a 30-yard punt — his only punt of the night.

"Scott told me he thought it was a bad punt," said Gliwa. "I thought it was going out of bounds."

Moore kicks Hoffman to dramatic win

by PAUL LOGAN

An 18-yard field goal by Jim Moore with 11 seconds remaining gave surprising Hoffman Estates a 31-28 victory over hosting Forest View Friday night.

The Hoffman Hawks marched from the 50 with less than three minutes remaining to break the 28-all tie. Running back Danny Weiss, a substitute who played most of the game, and quarterback Wayne Jackson moved the team into field goal range.

After the Hawks' final timeout, Moore was sent in. Although he had an extra point attempt blocked earlier in the game, his offensive line held off the frantic Falcons this time.

Falcon quarterback Jim Petran got off one last bomb, but a Hawk interception killed the clock.

"These guys are going to give me heart failure," said a very happy Bill Gourley, the Hawks" head coach.

The Falcons, now 1-2 over-all and 1-1 in the Mid-Suburban League South Division, jumped out to a 14-0 early lead in the second quarter with the help of Hoffman mistakes.

A fine 33-yard touchdown run by Petran, one of four yards by Joe Difatta and two point afters by Greg Jacobs (who hit all four attempts) made it 14-0.

Hoffman bounced back with Dave Lipko scoring from the four. Then came a key play as the Hawks — on a pass from Jackson to Bill DiPuma — made a two-point conversion. They knew they could come back after that, Gourley said.

The Hawks, presently leading the South Division with a 2-0 mark and 2-1 over-all, trailed at halftime, 21-8. Putting Forest View up by 13 was a 47-yard pass play from Petran to Jim Vartanian.

Hoffman's defense and Falcon mistakes turned the game around in the second half. The Hawks held their hosts to just 48 yards in total offense with Petran being stopped cold. The fine passer hit on just one of nine after throwing for 141 yards in the first half. And the Falcons' running game was also stonewalled.

The Hawks drove 79 yards, the key playing being a 50-yard pass to DiPuma from Jackson, with Weiss scoring from the three. Moore's kick made it 21-15.

Hoffman scored again at the start of the fourth quarter on a seven-yard run by Joe Parille. The kick was blocked, leaving the game tied at 21-all.

Three minutes later, thanks to an interception by Weiss, the Hawks scored again. This time DiPuma tallied on a 14-yard pass. The kick made it 28-21.

The Falcons got a great break minutes later when a fumbled punt gave them the ball on the Hoffman two. DiFatta scored with Jacobs' kick tying the game, setting up the late Hoffman heroics.

"I never gave a game ball in my life, but that kid deserved the football," said Gourley, praising Weiss, "He just ran like hell."

Weiss, who replaced star runner Lipko, has 131 yards in 26 carries and played some tough defense, too. He led Hoffman to 235 yards rushing with Jackson hitting on 10 of 15 for 203 yards.

Gourley also praised his staff, singling out Larry Niwa, Mike Batina, Sal Cantanese and Dave Pentz.

Arlington controls Madison, 17-0

by JIM COOK

With arch-rival Hersey in the backs of their minds, the Arlington Cardinals floored non-conference visitor Madison West, Wis., 17-0, limiting the out-of-staters to just 30 total yards in the process.

"We try to preach playing one game at a time," a pleased Arlington Head coach Chuck Haines explained, "but the kids weren't as sharp as they could have been.

"I think I can understand why . . ." he said just before the locker room drowned his voice with 'We want Hersey' chants.

If the Cardinals were looking ahead, they sure fooled Madison, a 48-6 victor over Middleton in their Wisconsin opener last week.

The Regents were hypnotized by an Arlington touchdown on the first play from scrimmage, mesmerized by a ballhawking defense and pulverized by the punishing Arlington running and passing attack.

With the contest less than two minutes old, Arlington made its own break when Jay Lenahan pounced on a fumble in Madison's wishbone backfield.

Poised Cardinal quarterback Matt Shaughnessy christened a prolific 9-for-14 passing night by unloading a 31-yard scoring strike to glue-fingered Tom North who had run a perfect flag pattern past the Madison defense.

The shocking opening strike kept Madison in a coma the rest of the evening. The Regents penetrated Arlington territory just once and only after a Cardinal fumble with 1:41 remaining in the game and the decision well in hand.

Arlington padded its early advantage to 10-0 on the second play of the second quarter when gifted place kicker Steve Lonhard booted a 30-yard field goal that cleared the bar with another 30 yards to spare.

Protecting their 10-0 lead at the intermission, the Cardinals came out determined to re-establish its rugged ground attack.

With Phil Dinielli (25 carries for 78 yards) following the crack blocking of halfback Mike Schell and Shaughnessy hooking up with tight end Greg Kloiber for a key 12-yard aerial, the Cardinals launched a well-executed 13-play, six-minute drive that deservedly climaxed with Dinielli plunging over from the one.

"We weren't that happy with our rushing game in the first half," Haines admitted of the Cards' 50 yards on the ground, "so we made some adjustments at halftime."

The most significant move was double-teaming Madison's outstanding defensive tackle 6-foot-3, 230-pound Ed Spicer which opened up the sprint lanes for Schell and Dinielli.

The Arlington defense, meanwhile, vaunted wishbone. Spearheaded by the constant pursuit of tackle Darrell Koelper who contributed two back-breaking quarterback sacks and defensive end Greg Kloiber who roamed in the Regent backfield all night, the Cards permitted just three Madison first downs.

Arlington prolonged its two-season win streak to six games, but even before Madison was settled on the bus for its long trip back north, the Cardinals were looking ahead to their conference opener against Hersey next week.

Elk Grove tips Meadows, 27-22

by BOB GALLAS

The Elk Grove Grenadiers exploded for 21 first half points, then held on for dear life in the last half as a fiesty Rolling Meadows fought down to the wire before losing 27-22.

The Grens literally ran over the Mustangs in the first half, rolling up an impressive 229 yards rushing without so much as bothering to throw a pass.

Elk Grove was led by the fine running of halfbacks Shawn Murphy and Tim Roberts. Roberts, who ran for 111 yards in 12 carries during the first half, finished the day with 168 yards rushing in 22 carries.

Murphy, who ran for 54 yards in 7 carries during the Grens' explosive first half show, was held to only three yards in the second half in one carry. Murphy also chipped in by catching a 17-yard pass in the second half.

It was an excellent passing game, led by Mustang receiver Terry Geegan, that kept Rolling Meadows in the game down to the end. Geegan caught eight passes for 114 yards.

After trailing at one time in the second quarter, 21-0, the Mustangs finally got on the scoreboard with 4 minutes left in the half.

Meadows quarterback Ken Breitbeil bulled in from the 1-yard line for the score to cap a 65-yard drive.

The drive was highlighted by a 50-yard reception by Geegan, who took the pass behind the line of scrimmage and ran for the long gain. Breitbeil also found Geegan with a pass for the two-point conversion to make it 21-8, Elk Grove.

The Score turned the momentum around in Meadows' favor and the Mustangs didn't lose it during halftime, coming out charging hard in the second half.

Grenadier touchdowns in the first half came with 5:45 left in the first quarter when Roberts scored his first touchdown on an 18-yard touchdown run. The extra point kick failed.

The Grens' and Roberts' second score came with seconds left in the first quarter on a brilliant 55-yard scoring run. Stopped at the line of scrimmage, Roberts managed to break free and then scampered down the sidelines to score. Gren quarterback Tom Allen ran in the extra point which made it 14-0 at the end of one quarter.

A one-yard plunge by Allen midway through the second quarter gave the Grens a brief 20-0 lead. Dave Champa's extra point kick made it 21-0. The Mustang score made it 21-8 at the half.

Rolling Meadows scored the first time they got their hands on the ball in the second half. Breitbeil's one-yard plunge with only three minutes gone in the third quarter made it 21-14. Breitbeil then ran in the extra point conversion to make it 21-16.

With Elk Grove punting from deep inside their own territory, Mustang Ted Tyk ran the punt back 37 yards to the Grenadier 13 yard line to set up the final Mustang score which gave them a brief lead.

Rolling Meadows marched in to score on a nine-yard run up the middle by Ken Barro. The extra point run failed to give the Mustangs a slim 22-21 lead.

Pulling out all the stops, Gren coach Don Schnake switched quarterbacks, going instead with the better passing Champa who promptly set up a score with a 14-yard pass to Gary Knapik. Champa then fooled everyone and ran in untouched for an 11 yard score to make it 27-22. The attempt for two points failed with 6½ minutes left in the contest.

The Mustangs had two opportunities to score in the final six minutes but couldn't cash in. An interception by Gren John Carpenter with :06 left in the game sealed the Mustangs' fate.

Mustangs host harrier test

Maine North's cross country team comes to Rolling Meadows today as the favorite in the annual Mustang Invitational Meet scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. at the Sports Complex.

But coach John Anderson's Norsemen can expect a hearty challenge from Loyola Academy and the host Rolling Meadows harriers, plus teams from Elgin-Larkin, Argo, Barrington, Elgin, Luther North and Elmwood Community.

In other Saturday meets around the state, Fremd will try to defend its title at the Forest City Invite in Rockford, and Hoffman Estates returns to the Limestone Invite in Peoria where the Hawks captured their very first big-meet victory a year ago.

Palatine and Hersey will be among the teams to compete in the Crystal Lake meet, and Wheeling, Arlington and Maine West journey to the Zion-Benton Invite.

Forest View and Prospect were slated to run in the Waukegan Invitational, but a teachers' strike in Waukegan has cancelled the meet.

Hersey moves past Prospect for third straight win

by ART MUGALIAN

There were turning points everywhere in Hersey's tense, 28-14 victory over visiting Prospect Friday night, and both head coaches made an effort to point them out.

"We came out in the third quarter and we got that turnover right away," said Hersey coach Joe Gliwa, whose Huskie gridders are now 3-0. "And we went right in and got that score."

Hersey defensive back Bill Cashmore intercepted a pass by Knight quarterback Tim Kubicki on the first play of the second half, giving the Huskies and premier signalcaller Scott Topczewski excellent field position at the enemy 36.

Seven plays later — after Topczewski dumped a 13-yard pass to Wally Hommerding, and Hommerding followed that with a 12-yard run to the four — big fullback Matt Zakula blasted over for a touchdown to give Hersey a 21-7 lead.

Hersey went to the locker room leading 14-7 at halftime because of another turning point right before the intermission. With 2:05 left, the right side of the Hersey line blocked a Prospect punt and took over at the Knight 46.

Topczewski ran out of trouble to the 34, then halfback Tony Becker found some running room on third and one, rambling down to the 12-yard line. On second down — and with 27 seconds showing on the clock — Topczewski located Hommerding with a pass at the one, and the speedy junior halfback bulled his way into the end zone.

Prospect coach Dave Keefe, whose club is 1-2, saw one turning point early — on Hersey's first drive of the evening. On fourth and five from Prospect's 45, the Huskies shifted into punt position, pulling Prospect offside.

Keefe and the Knights argued long and loud about the call, claiming the Huskie move was an illegal shift, but the penalty stood and the Hersey drive continued. Ten plays later, Topczewski snuck over from the one and the Huskies were on the board.

The Knights drove on Hersey the first time they had the ball, tying the game at 56 seconds of the first quarter. Hard running by Don Meyer and Keith Mason, and a 35-yard circus catch by Fred Korf of a Kubicki pass keyed the march. Mason carried it in from the four.

"I was pleased with the way we played tonight," said Keefe. "Especially after last week. But people will look at that 28-14 score and think it was a runaway."

It wasn't. The Knights, who played without their top pass catcher, Tim Twitchell, bounced back in the third quarter after Hersey had taken a two-TD lead.

Kubicki hit Korf deep over the middle for a 44-yard gain down to the Huskie 20 and three plays later Dave Thoma lugged it in. Terry Freeman's kick made it 21-14.

The Knights got the ball back on a Topczewski fumble and the offense went to work. A Kubicki pass to Thoma would have put the ball on the Hersey seven, but a holding call brought it back. Keefe felt the penalty was unwarranted — another turning point.

The final turning point was a crusher. Hersey's Mark Knuttel intercepted Kubicki's last-minute pass and returned it 25 yards for a TD. Prospect had been put in a deep hole at their 17 when Topczewski connected for a 30-yard punt — his only punt of the night.

"Scott told me he thought it was a bad punt," said Gliwa. "I thought it was going out of bounds."

Moore kicks Hoffman to dramatic win

by PAUL LOGAN

An 18-yard field goal by Jim Moore with 11 seconds remaining gave surprising Hoffman Estates a 31-28 victory over hosting Forest View Friday night.

The Hoffman Hawks marched from the 50 with less than three minutes remaining to break the 28-all tie. Running back Danny Weiss, a substitute who played most of the game, and quarterback Wayne Jackson moved the team into field goal range.

After the Hawks' final timeout, Moore was sent in. Although he had an extra point attempt blocked earlier in the game, his offensive line held off the frantic Falcons this time.

Falcon quarterback Jim Petran got off one last bomb, but a Hawk interception killed the clock.

"These guys are going to give me heart failure," said a very happy Bill Gourley, the Hawks" head coach.

The Falcons, now 1-2 over-all and 1-1 in the Mid-Suburban League South Division, jumped out to a 14-0 early lead in the second quarter with the help of Hoffman mistakes.

A fine 33-yard touchdown run by Petran, one of four yards by Joe Difatta and two point afters by Greg Jacobs (who hit all four attempts) made it 14-0.

Hoffman bounced back with Dave Lipko scoring from the four. Then came a key play as the Hawks — on a pass from Jackson to Bill DiPuma — made a two-point conversion. They knew they could come back after that, Gourley said.

The Hawks, presently leading the South Division with a 2-0 mark and 2-1 over-all, trailed at halftime, 21-8. Putting Forest View up by 13 was a 47-yard pass play from Petran to Jim Vartanian.

Hoffman's defense and Falcon mistakes turned the game around in the second half. The Hawks held their hosts to just 48 yards in total offense with Petran being stopped cold. The fine passer hit on just one of nine after throwing for 141 yards in the first half. And the Falcons' running game was also stonewalled.

The Hawks drove 79 yards, the key playing being a 50-yard pass to DiPuma from Jackson, with Weiss scoring from the three. Moore's kick made it 21-15.

Hoffman scored again at the start of the fourth quarter on a seven-yard run by Joe Parille. The kick was blocked, leaving the game tied at 21-all.

Three minutes later, thanks to an interception by Weiss, the Hawks scored again. This time DiPuma tallied on a 14-yard pass. The kick made it 28-21.

Lions fall again; Marist rules, 9-6

by DOUG PALM

Unable to capitalize on scoring drives, St. Viator saw its momentum go by the wayside in a 9-6 loss to Marist in the opener of the East Suburban Catholic Conference Friday night at Chicago's Gately Stadium.

St. Viator took the opening kickoff and drove to the Marist 13-yard line where the Lions were faced with a fourth-and-two situation. Halfback Mark Bonucchi was stacked up after gaining only one yard and Viator was forced to turn over the ball on downs.

Up until this point Viator, which now has lost two straight, had almost moved the ball at will. The Lions' offense featured numerous quarterback keepers by Jim Thompson.

After an exchange of punts, St. Viator struck on its second play from scrimmage when Thompson scored on a 69-yard keeper. He rolled right and cut back left, racing down the sideline to the end zone.

Lou Citro's attempted conversion hit the cross bar support and St. Viator led 6-0 late in the first quarter.

The Lions had two seemingly good opportunities to score before halftime. The first saw them penetrate to the Marist 18-yard line where they were faced with a fourth and four. Thompson's pass to fullback Tom Joyce in the flat was stopped cold by Marist, resulting in a four-yard loss.

With 33 seconds remaining, linebacker Nick Josten intercepted Marist quarterback Bill Dunn at the St. Viator 48. With first and 10 from the Marist 41, Thompson gained 18 yards on a keeper.

With 11 seconds left, and forced to scramble, Thompson unloaded a long pass from the end zone, but it was intercepted at the gun.

First half statistics revealed that Viator had gained 208 total yards to 26 for Marist, but the Redmen were still in the ball game.

Following a Lion fumble at the Marist 30, the hosts took the lead. It took just six plays to cover 70 yards with Dunn going over on a sneak from one yard out.

The key in the drive was a 35-yard trap play with Tom Fahey doing the damage to the Lions' 34. Jim Stumpe's conversion proved the game-winning point.

St. Viator's ensuing drive was stopped at the Marist four when Thompson failed to convert a fourth-and-two situation. That ended a 66-yard drive for the Lions, now 1-2 overall.

Following a Marist punt, the Lions of Coach Jim Lyne engineered another near-scoring drive. With the ball on the Marist 35, Thompson hit tight end Mike Maude on a pattern down the middle for a first-and-goal at the six.

With a fourth-and-goal at the Marist two, Thompson attempted to sweep left end but was belted down for a two-yard loss by the ever present Fahey.

The final margin of victory was attained with 2:07 remaining when Thompson was dumped trying to scramble out of his own end zone on a first-and-10 situation. He was tackled by Doug Cozen.

Two other St. Viator drives were halted by Marist interceptions.

Fremd falls to New Trier

by J. ANDREW KEHE

The taste of victory remains foreign to the Fremd Vikings while the New Trier West Cowboys feasted on their first victory of the season Friday, whipping the Vikings 30-15.

The Cowboys scored twice within three minutes late in the third period to know the victory after the Vikings had battled to a 15-15 first half standoff.

New Trier took the opening kickoff and marched 80 yards in 11 plays, 52 of those yards coming on a pair of passes from quarterback Steve Fitzgerald to ends Scott Dell and Peter Alonzo. Fitzgerald finally snuck it over from the one and with the point after the Cowboys had an early 7-0 lead.

The Vikings were unable to muster any offense on their first set of downs but a passaglia punt of 45 yards put the Cowboys on their own three-yard line. Opportunity knocked two plays later for the Vikings as senior guard Dave Ragains pounced on a fumble at the Cowboy 14.

After a gain of one yard to the 13 quarterback Dale Hallberg hit Danny Whyler for 13 yards and six points. Passaglia's kick tied the score at 7-7.

After trading punts to end the first quarter, New Trier scored again just three plays into the second period on a 34-yard bomb, Fitzgerald to Alonzo. the Cowboys' try for two was successful and they held a 15-7 lead.

The Vikings showed some magic with their next possession, staying on the ground for 67 yards and then Hallberg finding Tim Rioux with a scoring pass. The Vikes, down by a pair, gambled and went for two and it paid off with Hallberg connecting with Ramsey to knot the game at 15-15 at halftime.

The Vikings, looking for their first victory in 11 games, took the second half kickoff and drove into Cowboy territory, obviously determined to take the lead. Enter Cowboy defensive back Gordy Mclennan who picked off a Hallberg aerial and returned it to mid-field.

New Trier calmly moved 50 yards in 12 plays, picking up crucial long third down yardage for first downs. Junior tailback Greg Lawton, who cranked out 94 yards on the night, crashed over from the one, and with the two point conversion the Cowboys had another eight point lead.

The Vikings immediately fumbled the ball away on their own 36 to open the door for New Trier to wrap it up. It took the Cowboys four plays with Fitzgerald hitting Alonzo again this time for six yards and a touchdown. Bob Slam added the P.A.T. to put the Cowboys in command 30-15.

After a fairly even first half statistically, New Trier dominated the second half, rolling up 355 yards for the night. Fremd could manage only 196 total yards with Hallberg completing only 6 of 23 passes for 68 yards. The Vikings are now 0-3 and hope to avenge that against Wheeling next week.

Maine South dominates West, 21-7

by MIKE KLEIN

Jim Morel crawled out of bed this fine Saturday morning with remnants of last evening's gruesome headache still very much intact.

And it will be at least another week before Morel determines which are his true Maine West football Warriors.

Were they the ballclub which showed such awesome defense and quick strike ability in defeating Evanston one week ago today?

Or, was it the Warrior team which performed with virtually no areas of excellence and not even the semblance of a big defensive play Friday evening at West?

To nobody's surprise, Maine South rolled to an easy 21-7 victory behind running backs Pete Nagle and Rick Hader who combined for 228 yards rushing.

The visiting Hawks led, 14-0, at halftime by virtue of Nagle's one-yard plunge and James Perrin's 60-yard punt return, both in the second period.

West retaliated with Scot Unger's 81-yard gallop to draw within 14-7 following Mike Izral's conversion kick at 8:41, fourth quarter.

But the Hawks, who became overnight leaders in the Central Suburban South, marched 62 yards downfield in 11 plays and five minutes, ending all of West's hopes for a comeback victory.

Their drive culminated with Nagle's second TD, also from one yard.

Quarterback Gaydon Brandt kicked all three conversions points for Maine South. But what Brandt did best was give the ball to Nagle who had 31 carries and 123 yards or Hader, 18 attempts for 105.

West's Unger led all rushers with 129 yards, 10 more than the Warriors' team total, as most everything else went backwards.

And Unger truly was their only bright spot. A 51-yard gallop to South's endzone was nullified by illegal procedure as the third quarter grew old.

That took the life out of this unhappy party. But even had Unger's first score held up, it's unlikely West could have held the Hawks out. After all, they didn't do it all night.

Virtually the entire game was played in West's territory . . . with coach Bob Schmidt's Hawks holding the ball. The Hawks rolled up more first downs (19-6) and more plays (68-38), excluding punts.

In the second half two of West's three first downs were supplied by personal foul and pass interference calls against Maine South. The victors held a 37-16 edge in second half plays, excluding punts.

Aside from their successes, the Hawks also had drives which ended at West's 28, one, 30 and 38-yard lines. Nagle fumbling and Don Miske recovering at West's one halted the Hawks on their second possession.

Brandt nicely disguised his handoffs to the 180-pound Nagle and 175-pound Hader. But it was South's offensive line of center Rich Szaflarski, guards Bill Tornbrose and Rick Krueger plus tackles John Carroll and Tim Zimmerman which held West at bay.

Maine South rolled up 239 yards rushing by averaging just short of 4.2 yards per run on 57 tries. The Hawks had nine possessions and never failed to make at least one first down until substitutes were running the final series.

It was a direct reversal of West's effort at Evanston in which the Warriors ruled both lines of scrimmage. Against South, the Warrior defensive front wasn't even close to being a positive factor.

Unger's cancelled touchdown was set up by one of West's few breaks, a Bob Zuccarini interception.

Another break, John Paloian blocking a Brandt punt, put West at South's 23-yard line as 20 seconds remained. Zuccarini found Wayne Wishnew for 22 yards. But West couldn't get across those final three feet, ending an extremely disappointing effort by the Warriors.

Lions fall again; Marist rules, 9-6

by DOUG PALM

Unable to capitalize on scoring drives, St. Viator saw its momentum go by the wayside in a 9-6 loss to Marist in the opener of the East Suburban Catholic Conference Friday night at Chicago's Gately Stadium.

St. Viator took the opening kickoff and drove to the Marist 13-yard line where the Lions were faced with a fourth-and-two situation. Halfback Mark Bonucchi was stacked up after gaining only one yard and Viator was forced to turn over the ball on downs.

Up until this point Viator, which now has lost two straight, had almost moved the ball at will. The Lions' offense featured numerous quarterback keepers by Jim Thompson.

After an exchange of punts, St. Viator struck on its second play from scrimmage when Thompson scored on a 69-yard keeper. He rolled right and cut back left, racing down the sideline to the end zone.

Lou Citro's attempted conversion hit the cross bar support and St. Viator led 6-0 late in the first quarter.

The Lions had two seemingly good opportunities to score before halftime. The first saw them penetrate to the Marist 18-yard line where they were faced with a fourth and four. Thompson's pass to fullback Tom Joyce in the flat was stopped cold by Marist, resulting in a four-yard loss.

With 33 seconds remaining, linebacker Nick Josten intercepted Marist quarterback Bill Dunn at the St. Viator 48. With first and 10 from the Marist 41, Thompson gained 18 yards on a keeper.

With 11 seconds left, and forced to scramble, Thompson unloaded a long pass from the end zone, but it was intercepted at the gun.

First half statistics revealed that Viator had gained 208 total yards to 26 for Marist, but the Redmen were still in the ball game.

Following a Lion fumble at the Marist 30, the hosts took the lead. It took just six plays to cover 70 yards with Dunn going over on a sneak from one yard out.

The key in the drive was a 35-yard trap play with Tom Fahey doing the damage to the Lions' 34. Jim Stumpe's conversion proved the game-winning point.

St. Viator's ensuing drive was stopped at the Marist four when Thompson failed to convert a fourth-and-two situation. That ended a 66-yard drive for the Lions, now 1-2 overall.

Following a Marist punt, the Lions of Coach Jim Lyne engineered another near-scoring drive. With the ball on the Marist 35, Thompson hit tight end Mike Maude on a pattern down the middle for a first-and-goal at the six.

With a fourth-and-goal at the Marist two, Thompson attempted to sweep left end but was belted down for a two-yard loss by the ever present Fahey.

The final margin of victory was attained with 2:07 remaining when Thompson was dumped trying to scramble out of his own end zone on a first-and-10 situation. He was tackled by Doug Cozen.

Two other St. Viator drives were halted by Marist interceptions.

Fremd falls to New Trier

by J. ANDREW KEHE

The taste of victory remains foreign to the Fremd Vikings while the New Trier West Cowboys feasted on their first victory of the season Friday, whipping the Vikings 30-15.

The Cowboys scored twice within three minutes late in the third period to know the victory after the Vikings had battled to a 15-15 first half standoff.

New Trier took the opening kickoff and marched 80 yards in 11 plays, 52 of those yards coming on a pair of passes from quarterback Steve Fitzgerald to ends Scott Dell and Peter Alonzo. Fitzgerald finally snuck it over from the one and with the point after the Cowboys had an early 7-0 lead.

Bucks and Lions in big college battle

The toughest schedule in his Buckeyes' history will continue today for Ohio State's Woody Hayes as the Nittany Lions of Penn State come to call.

The Buckeyes shut some doubting mouths with a 21-0 whipping of the Michigan State Spartans last week and will rate a slight edge over State (2-0) as Joe Paterno's top running back, Jimmy Cefalo, is out with a broken thumb.

The University of Illinois will square off with the team that knocked off Alabama, Missouri's Tigers. Illinois opened with a win over Iowa but Mizzou has had nearly two weeks to get ready for this one.

The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame, fresh from a triumphant TV spot with Boston College, has to match talents with Purdue, a team that delights in dumping the Golden Domers.

Northwestern, who cooled Purdue in their opener last week, will try to make it two in a row against a game but overmatched Northern Illinois team.

Iowa will bump heads with Syracuse and Wisconsin will get a breather against South Dakota. USD lost their opener to Montana, 51-17.

The Wolves of Michigan will have their defense tested by a young and growing Stanford team while the Indiana Hoosiers will find themselves in over their heads against the Nebraska Cornhuskers.

New Bears open with Colts

The Chicago Bears will open their 1975 National Football League season Sunday in a Soldier Field date with the Baltimore Colts.

The looming threat of strike by NFL players cleared away just in time for the Bears to begin their 56th season, a season that will hopefully see a reversal of Chicago Bear performances of the past.

New head coach Jack Pardee and general manager Jim Finks have wheeled-and-dealed their way to a team that bears only one resemblance to the Old Bears. The new Bears still lose more than they win. In pre-season at least.

Chicago fans will get their first look at rookie running back Walter Payton in for-real competition as well as to compare the new acquisitions with the men they replaced.

The Bears annual quarterback controversy will swirl around Bobby Douglass, who will start, and Gary Huff, who will wait for his chance on the sidelines.

There has been speculation that Pardee is not going to back Douglass to the hilt as former Bear coach Abe Gibron did. Rumors have run rampant in recent weeks about the Bears attempts to trade for a signal-caller.

Whatever the Bear situation at the most important position on the field, there will be plenty of excitement and anticipation as the Bears fight for respectability. It has been six years since the Bears broke even on a season but optimists see the New Bears as the team to break that streak.

ABA's Colonels trade Issel

The Kentucky Colonels of the American Basketball Association Friday traded all star forward Dan Issel to the Baltimore Claws for a reported $750,000 and reserve forward Tom Owens.

The owners of the ABA champion Kentucky Colonels today would neither deny nor confirm a copyrighted report that they are negotiating to trade All-Star center Artis Gilmore to the San Diego Sails.

Dick Fenlon, Louisville Times sports editor, wrote that the club was close to a deal that would send the 7-foot-2 Gilmore to San Diego in exchange for center Caldwell Jones, probably forward Travis Grant and more than $1 million.

The Chicago Bears gave rookie running back Tom Donchez a 24-hour tryout Friday and have until Saturday to decide whether to keep the free agent.

Donchez, a fourth-round Buffalo draft pick, went to the Philadelphia Eagles during preseason. They released him earlier this week.

John Gilliam will start at wide receiver Sunday when the Minnesota Vikings open their National Football League schedule against San Francisco.

Cincinnati Reds' officials said Friday they probably could have sold a half-million tickets for the two National League playoff games here next month.

"We estimate our potential at 500,000 for the two games combined," said Jim Ferguson, Reds' publicity director.

As it was, the Reds finished selling more than 100,000 tickets Friday and claimed the record for the earliest sellout in the history of playoff games for either league.

With Jack Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf setting the example, the United States beat the British at their best event, alternate shop, to take an early 4-0 lead Friday in the 21st biennial Ryder Cup matches at nearby Laurel Valley Golf Club.

Nicklaus and Weiskopf scored a 5-4 victory over Brian Barnes and Bernard Gallacher in the opening match to start the rout. Gene Littler and Hale Irwin, not to be outdone, finished with a rush to whip Norman Wood and Maurice Bembridge, 5 and 3.

Cubs and Sox drop another

Mike Jorgensen went 4-for-4 and drove home four runs — three via his 14th homer — while rookie Pete Mackanin accounted for two other RBIs Friday night to spark a 9-6 victory by the Montreal Expos over the Chicago Cubs.

The Expos were trailing 5-4 going into the seventh inning when Jim Dwyer led off with a walk against losing pitcher Bill Bonham (13-14). Jorgensen singled and the two runners were moved along by Larry Parrish's sacrifice bunt. The bases were loaded when Gary Carter was walked intentionally.

An infield hit by rookie Jerry White, who also drove home two runs, scored Dwyer to tie the game at 5-5 and Mackanin followed with a sacrifice fly which brought home Jorgensen with the go-ahead run.

Mike Hargrove Drove home three runs with a pair of singles and Lenny Randle and Roy Howell collected three hits apiece Friday night to spark a 19-hit, 10-6 Texas Ranger victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Wheeling collects 22-8 win

by KEITH REINHARD

Wheeling came up with a mixed bag of heroes Friday night and notched one in the win column for new head coach Gerry Clinnin by downing the visitors from Fenton, 22-8.

A blend of hard-nosed running, key passing and alert defense all played a part in the first Wildcat triumph of the campaign after two previous setbacks.

The 'Cats never trailed following a first quarter touchdown and were never really threatened after matching a second stanza Bison score with one of their own just under the halftime buzzer.

"The kids came up with some super clutch performances tonight," an obviously pleased Clinnin remarked. "It was a real team effort, too . . . they played as a team and they all deserved to share the credit for the victory."

Among the long list of gridders deserving accolades were Curt Rathje, who put his team on the scoreboard initially and followed up the offensive feat with a strong showing at linebacker.

There was also Keith Pecka who intercepted a pair of Bison passes and John Piff who registered Wheeling's second score. Quarterback Glen Barry clicked with Bucky Black on a long bomb to account for the third touchdown for the hosts and Scott Jones chipped in a pair of extra points and a solid punting game all night.

Doug Peterson, Gregg Berkeley and Bob Terreberry spearheaded a defensive line that yielded at times but came on strong when it had to.

"The only real bad breakdown tonight came on their scoring play," Clinnin recalled. "We just blew two or three sure tackles and let their back build up a full head of steam."

The Fenton back was John Yario and he capitalized on the Wildcat lull to breeze 60 yards to paydirt, going right up the middle of the field early in the second quarter.

By then, however, the hosts had already reached the scoreboard. Peterson recovered a Bison fumble on their first offensive set and Rathje bulldozed for healthy yardage on a series of quick openers while Wheeling drove 73 yards in 10 plays to score.

The extra point kick by Jones made it 7-0 and when Fenton scored, their quarterback was stopped on a conversion run, allowing the 'Cats to maintain a 7-6 lead.

Pecka plucked off his first Fenton pass with time running out in a penalty-ridden second quarter. A Barry to Terreberry pass netted 29 yards down to the Fenton 14. With seven seconds before halftime, Piff dove in from the two.

When Barry lugged the ball around right end for two extra points, the hosts owned a 15-6 lead that couldn't be equalled by a single Fenton score.

In the third period, the Bisons sustained one long drive but the 'Cats dug in near their own 20 and regained control. Two plays into the fourth quarter, Barry zeroed in on Black for a 57-yard TD pass to ice things up.

And when the guests marched again, Wheeling put up an outstanding goal line stand to take over at their own two. They then yielded a safety to move out of trouble and held on for the comfortable win.

Herald Carriers meet the Chicago Bears!

On Thursday, August 28, a group of excited Herald carriers were treated to a day at the Chicago Bears training camp in Lake Forest. They all enjoyed meeting the stars, getting their autographs and watching a full practice session. As an added delight, Johnny and Jeannie Morris of Channel 2 TV were there to greet them.

These Herald carriers were winners of a recent one day call-in contest in which the first 50 carriers to phone in one new subscription won the opportunity to visit the Bears.

Defensive Star Wally Chambers

Bucks and Lions in big college battle

The toughest schedule in his Buckeyes' history will continue today for Ohio State's Woody Hayes as the Nittany Lions of Penn State come to call.

The Buckeyes shut some doubting mouths with a 21-0 whipping of the Michigan State Spartans last week and will rate a slight edge over State (2-0) as Joe Paterno's top running back, Jimmy Cefalo, is out with a broken thumb.

The University of Illinois will square off with the team that knocked off Alabama, Missouri's Tigers. Illinois opened with a win over Iowa but Mizzou has had nearly two weeks to get ready for this one.

The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame, fresh from a triumphant TV spot with Boston College, has to match talents with Purdue, a team that delights in dumping the Golden Domers.

Northwestern, who cooled Purdue in their opener last week, will try to make it two in a row against a game but overmatched Northern Illinois team.

Iowa will bump heads with Syracuse and Wisconsin will get a breather against South Dakota. USD lost their opener to Montana, 51-17.

New Bears open with Colts

The Chicago Bears will open their 1975 National Football League season Sunday in a Soldier Field date with the Baltimore Colts.

The looming threat of strike by NFL players cleared away just in time for the Bears to begin their 56th season, a season that will hopefully see a reversal of Chicago Bear performances of the past.

New head coach Jack Pardee and general manager Jim Finks have wheeled-and-dealed their way to a team that bears only one resemblance to the Old Bears. The new Bears still lose more than they win. In pre-season at least.

Chicago fans will get their first look at rookie running back Walter Payton in for-real competition as well as to compare the new acquisitions with the men they replaced.

The Bears annual quarterback controversy will swirl around Bobby Douglass, who will start, and Gary Huff, who will wait for his chance on the sidelines.

There has been speculation that Pardee is not going to back Douglass to the hilt as former Bear coach Abe Gibron did. Rumors have run rampant in recent weeks about the Bears attempts to trade for a signal-caller.

Whatever the Bear situation at the most important position on the field, there will be plenty of excitement and anticipation as the Bears fight for respectability. It has been six years since the Bears broke even on a season but optimists see the New Bears as the team to break that streak.

ABA's Colonels trade Issel

The Kentucky Colonels of the American Basketball Association Friday traded all star forward Dan Issel to the Baltimore Claws for a reported $750,000 and reserve forward Tom Owens.

The owners of the ABA champion Kentucky Colonels today would neither deny nor confirm a copyrighted report that they are negotiating to trade All-Star center Artis Gilmore to the San Diego Sails.

Dick Fenlon, Louisville Times sports editor, wrote that the club was close to a deal that would send the 7-foot-2 Gilmore to San Diego in exchange for center Caldwell Jones, probably forward Travis Grant and more than $1 million.

The Chicago Bears gave rookie running back Tom Donchez a 24-hour tryout Friday and have until Saturday to decide whether to keep the free agent.

Donchez, a fourth-round Buffalo draft pick, went to the Philadelphia Eagles during preseason. They released him earlier this week.

John Gilliam will start at wide receiver Sunday when the Minnesota Vikings open their National Football League schedule against San Francisco.

Cincinnati Reds' officials said Friday they probably could have sold a half-million tickets for the two National League playoff games here next month.

"We estimate our potential at 500,000 for the two games combined," said Jim Ferguson, Reds' publicity director.

As it was, the Reds finished selling more than 100,000 tickets Friday and claimed the record for the earliest sellout in the history of playoff games for either league.

With Jack Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf setting the example, the United States beat the British at their best event, alternate shop, to take an early 4-0 lead Friday in the 21st biennial Ryder Cup matches at nearby Laurel Valley Golf Club.

Nicklaus and Weiskopf scored a 5-4 victory over Brian Barnes and Bernard Gallacher in the opening match to start the rout. Gene Littler and Hale Irwin, not to be outdone, finished with a rush to whip Norman Wood and Maurice Bembridge, 5 and 3.

Cubs and Sox drop another

Mike Jorgensen went 4-for-4 and drove home four runs — three via his 14th homer — while rookie Pete Mackanin accounted for two other RBIs Friday night to spark a 9-6 victory by the Montreal Expos over the Chicago Cubs.

The Expos were trailing 5-4 going into the seventh inning when Jim Dwyer led off with a walk against losing pitcher Bill Bonham (13-14). Jorgensen singled and the two runners were moved along by Larry Parrish's sacrifice bunt. The bases were loaded when Gary Carter was walked intentionally.

An infield hit by rookie Jerry White, who also drove home two runs, scored Dwyer to tie the game at 5-5 and Mackanin followed with a sacrifice fly which brought home Jorgensen with the go-ahead run.

Mike Hargrove Drove home three runs with a pair of singles and Lenny Randle and Roy Howell collected three hits apiece Friday night to spark a 19-hit, 10-6 Texas Ranger victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Steve Hargan, who pitched the first six innings, won his ninth game against 10 losses for Texas, while Claude Osteen suffered his 16th setback against seven wins for the White Sox.

Herald Carriers meet the Chicago Bears!

On Thursday, August 28, a group of excited Herald carriers were treated to a day at the Chicago Bears training camp in Lake Forest. They all enjoyed meeting the stars, getting their autographs and watching a full practice session. As an added delight, Johnny and Jeannie Morris of Channel 2 TV were there to greet them.

These Herald carriers were winners of a recent one day call-in contest in which the first 50 carriers to phone in one new subscription won the opportunity to visit the Bears.

Defensive Star Wally Chambers

Trips, prizes, awards . . . plus weekly cash earnings . . . It's great being a Herald carrier! Want to join the team? Give us a call to learn about routes available in your area.

Squirrel shooting requires patience

My companion led me to the small grove of pin oaks in darkness like a blind man and deposited me there to wait for morning light and the movement of bushytails to the feeding area in Iroquois County, Ill.

After setting me up in what he considered the best area for fox squirrels, he slipped away to greet the daylight in another part of the woods.

"I shot two squirrels off a stump over there," he whispered before leaving. "I also got four one morning out of this tree," he added, resting against the trunk momentarily as if leaning on the shoulder of an old friend.

I watched as he hurried off, and for awhile I could hear his footsteps, but then the woods stole even the sounds he made. I settled against the tree and waited for light to erase the shadows.

At first, only a gentle breeze stirred in the forest, rubbing leaves together as it filtered through the treetops. Occasionally a larger breath of wind would shake acorns to the ground.

As the sky began to brighten, birds and insects joined in chorus. A pair of crows settled in a nearby tree, their husky cries commanding attention. A woodpecker in search of breakfast rapped his Morse Code on tree bark.

Soon, the bushytails also began to move. A good distance away one could be heard barking. A short while later the spat of a .22 caliber rifle ended its voice as another hunter took the first squirrel of the day.

I scanned the treetops for movement in my area, but the wind made hunting difficult. On still days it is easier to detect a squirrel among the branches because you can watch for the movement in the leaves that gives its presence away.

The area was a choice feeding ground for squirrels, with a carpet of acorns spread across the woodland floor and many more in the trees. A high ridge ran nearby, ideal habitat for the wary fox squirrels.

After two hours of scanning the treetops, I finally caught movement above, but then reacted too slowly. A boar squirrel — red coat standing out among the green leaves — appeared for only a split second before detecting me and disappearing in heavier growth. I could not locate it again.

It wasn't long before a smaller bushytail appeared, leaping from branch to branch as if it was a well-traveled commuter en route to work. It never reached its destination. I quickly brought the animal into the sights of my .20 gauge shotgun and squeezed the trigger. It was dead before it hit the ground.

Squirrels are one of the most sought after small game animals in the country today, and contrary to what some may believe, they do not present an easy target.

It takes patience and a knowledge of the animal's habits to hunt it successfully.

The beginner who wants to get started in this sport should look for squirrels in areas where there are pin oak, hickory or beech trees where the animals have been actively feeding.

It also is advisable for the novice to hunt early in the morning because the animals are less wary.

Guns used in this sport are a matter of choice. However, a beginner would be better off starting with a shotgun — such as a .410 or .20 gauge — as it can cut down on incidents of crippled animals.

THIS ONE DIDN'T get away. Hal Humphrey of 310 Elmwood Ct. in Palatine, caught 16 muskies in 35 days, including this 29-pound, 50-incher taken out of Manitowish Lake in Wisconsin on a Doe Tail bait. Just two days earlier, he had bagged a 26½ pounder that measured 47 inches.

Apply for state permits Sept. 22

The Illinois Department of Conservation will begin accepting applications to hunt geese on state-managed areas in Southern Illinois, ducks at Rice Lake or pheasants on any of the seven state permit areas Sept. 22.

Shooters will be able to obtain one duck, one pheasant and one goose permit on a first-come, first-served basis by sending their name, address, areas they wish to hunt and a first and second choice of dates to the Illinois Dept. of Conservation, Hunting Permits, 605 State Office Building, Springfield, Ill., 62706.

Any applications received before Sept. 22 will be returned and as usual, no information will be taken over the phone.

The department requests that you do not send money with your application. Fees ($5 for pheasant and goose and $3 for duck) will be collected the morning of the hunt when hunters check in to their respective claiming stations.

Although the best hunting is characteristically during the opening days of the season, shooters would be wise to request later dates to better enhance their chance to obtain a permit.

Goose permits will be good for the Horseshoe Lake Public Hunting Area in Alexander County and the Union County area near Ware.

Gunning will be permitted Nov. 25 through Jan. 20 or until 22,000 geese are bagged, whichever occurs first. Permit holders must check in by 5 a.m. for drawings to allocate blinds.

Pheasant areas will be open at Chain O' Lakes, Des Plaines, Iroquois County, Green River, Richland County, Carlyle Lake and Rend Lake, during the Nov. 8-Dec. 7 season.

Ducks may be hunted at Rice Lake from Oct. 23 to Dec. 10 with check-in time at 5 a.m. The area will be closed on days the lake is frozen and boats must be rented for the blinds.

All hunters must possess a valid Illinois hunting license. State duck stamps will go on sale beginning Oct. 1 for $5.

Outdoors
Jim Cook
Outdoor Editor

It's no secret that fishermen have their "Most Wanted" list and for the amount of time spent researching, investigating and tracking the enemy, anglers probably make the FBI look like lollipop salesmen.

Atop many fugitive fish lists is the elusive musky, perhaps the most highly prized freshwater gamefish.

Muskies are king in the waters where their populations are present. Much like the lion in Africa or the tiger in Asia, the musky is a ravenous predator, often satisfying his appetite with a feast of panfish or even a little duckling who strays too far from mom during a procession across the lake.

Fishing for muskies, though, is what sours most anglers in taking up the hunt. They are strictly a trophy fish with questionable food value.

They grow to the world record proportions of the 70-pound, 5-foot, 4½-inch monster taken by Arthur Lawton in 1957 in the St. Lawrence River in New York.

But former Rolling Meadows head basketball coach Ken Arneson and I would have settled for half that fish when we arrived at his cottage on Windpudding Lake near Tomahawk, Wis. for a two-day excursion.

"I've known guys who have spent two weeks of their vacations up here pounding the alke for musky and have never even seen one," Ken warned during the six-hour drive to the scenic northwoods.

What makes the musky such a difficult target is that he's a loner, a territorial baron who patrols a particular bay or shoreline and protects his real estate against unwanted intruders.

Ken and I fought a 34-degree, frost-decorated morning Saturday to fish for Angler Enemy No. 1.

A quick check at local bait shops before launching his boat in Lake Tomahawk indicated that some big muskies were being taken, but characteristically without consistency. There's a stringer limit of one musky per day and a minimum keeper length of 30 inches.

The most successful baits included the reliable spinner bucktails, suicks and Bobby Baits. For seven hours, Ken and I drifted in Tomahawk Lake (motor trolling is illegal on all Class A, prime musky lakes), fishing deep-running lures, surface baits and weedless spoons.

Having exercised our arms until they throbbed, I was beginning to believe the musky axiom that says you have to cast 1,000 times before you see one and 10,000 times before you catch one.

We limped back to his cabin assured that we had each delivered 999 presentations of our bait. No trailers, no strikes and no fish.

Sunday morning we were up at the crack of dawn, determined to find something that resembled the monsters that inhabited the display boxes outside every tackle store.

We altered our game plan slightly, choosing a smaller body of water (Musky Lake, what else?) instead of the vast expanse of Lake Tomahawk.

We rented a rowboat from Hide-away Lodge, but with one foot on the seat and the other shoving from shore, Ken remembered our landing net still sitting in his boat back at the cabin.

"Don't bother," I argued, trying to save the extra half hour it would have taken us to retrieve the net.

By mid-morning, we had covered one-half of the northern shoreline when Ken interrupted the solemn disappointment.

"Look at that," he almost shouted as an undersized musky followed his bucktail to the boat. Undaunted by our presence, the 25-incher curiously watched the action of the spinner, but refused to strike, even when Ken drew a large, intimidating figure-eight on the surface with the bucktail.

"Sometimes you have to anger them into hitting," Arneson said. "I really don't think they care for a steady retrieve. They want a jerking motion to make that lure look like its crippled."

With Ken at the oars, we continued rowing into a small bay when I felt a pull at the end of my line. Just a few minutes earlier, I had set the hook on a big branch at the bottom of the lake and had to tighten down on the drag to free my No. 5 Mepps bucktail.

But when I set the hook this time, my rod tip snapped back into a straining arc and began gyrating against the weight of a big fish.

"He's a beauty," Ken said when the tug-of-war resulted in a magnificent leap by the musky at boatside.

"Give him room and tire him out and we'll try to beach him," he added. Just as I nodded his instructions, the musky made another run, banging the underside of the boat like a percussion cymbal.

"Keep your rod tip up," Ken said, coaching as enthusiastically as he did for 21 years in the prep basketball ranks. "He's got to be at least 20 pounds."

With only three feet of line between me and my wall-hanging trophy, the musky made a final bid for freedom. I could feel the barbs on my treble hook rip through his tough jaw as my star-wheel drag, tightened down hard from my previous snagged cast, refused to issue slack line.

In a moment he was gone, leaving only a mountain of respect and solidifying his stranglehold at the top of the angler's Most Wanted list.

Getting closer to nature

At the Morton Arboretum, outdoors looks best in fall

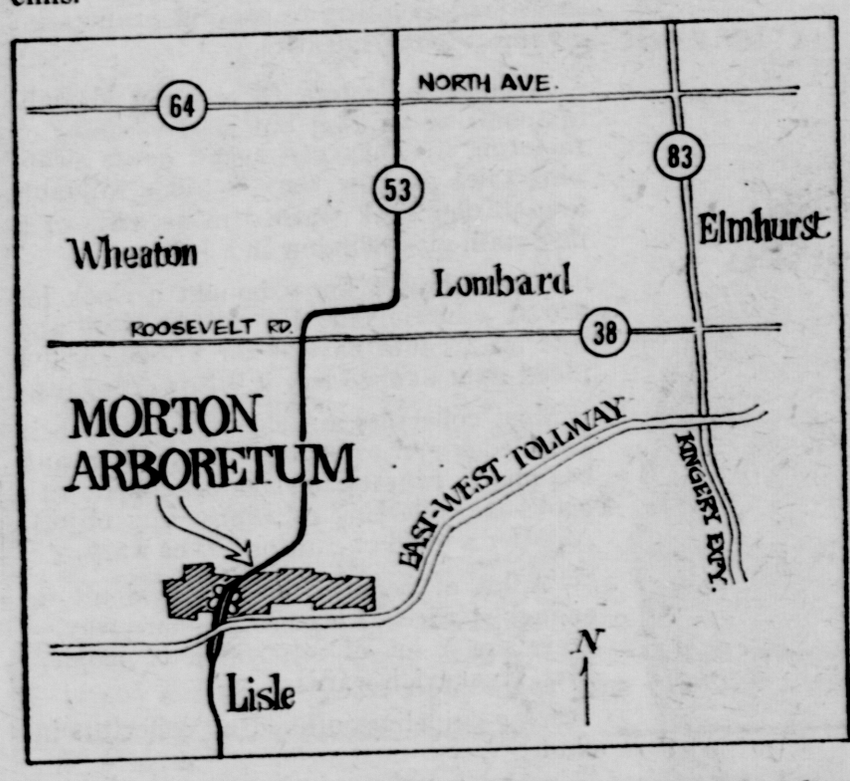
by KAREN BLECHA

Believe it or not, summer is over.

The kids have gone back to school, the nights are crisp and the smell of fall is in the air. Look closely and you'll see the leaves starting to change color.

Autumn is a good time for getting outside and there's no better place in the Chicago area to observe nature in autumn than the Morton Arboretum near Lisle in DuPage County.

The arboretum has 1,500 acres of trees and woody plants ablaze with color in October. Trees from Holland, Germany, Japan and Russia are included in the collection along with native oaks, maples and elms.



Visitors can explore nature on foot, via walks or trails, or they can drive through wooded areas. It is "a getting back to nature" excursion that can provide the peace and contentment not always found in the city.

The arboretum includes native woodlands, a prairie area, several lakes, a hedge garden, a ground cover walk with more than 50 kinds of ground cover plants, a pine collection, a lilac collection that flowers in May and a display area of trees and shrubs useful in landscaping.

Some flowering specimens such as magnolias and rhododendrons are included. Interesting trees are the ginko and Himalavan white pine.

Birds are abundant and a variety of water fowl can be seen on Arbor Lake. Small mammals include ground squirrels, cottontail rabbits, woodchuck, gray and fox squirrels, muskrat, skunk, opossum, raccoon, and red and grey foxes. A group of ducks congregated outside the arboretum's visitor center on a recent morning.

The arboretum, open to the public year-round, was founded in 1922 by Joy Morton of the salt-company fame. Morton was instilled with a love for trees by his father, J. Sterling Morton, who founded Arbor Day.

When Joy Morton was 19 he decided if he ever could afford it, he would build an arboretum for Chicago. After investing in the salt business, he found that he could and bought part of the arboretum site in about 1911.

"I don't think Mr. Morton had the arboretum in mind when he selected the site here," says Walter Eickhorst, curator of cultivated plants. "He was looking for a home site. Then when he wanted to start the arboretum he asked population experts where would be a good place. They said here since they thought this part of DuPage County was the least likely location ever to be settled."

Morton hired experts to design the arboretum and establish its collections. Over the years the 1,500 acres have been acquired gradually, the last portion added in 1972.

The arboretum is funded through an endowment from the Morton family. While it is open for the public's enjoyment, its main purpose is education and research. Lectures, classes and clinics are conducted by the education department. Research is done on all plants to determine what will survive in this climate and how to improve the growing process.

Specimens are added to the arboretum depending on "what will survive" says Eickhorst. He said arboretum officials go on plant searches in the U.S. and often commission plant searches throughout the world.

"We try to find plants in the same latitude as this area," he says. "They must be hardy and survive with mainimum care. We have had more that have not survived than have."

About 175,000 persons visit the arboretum every year with the most popular months May and October. On a weekend day in October, as many as 4,000 cars have been parked in the arboretum lots.

There are numerous unmarked trails throughout the park and four major nature trails. The Illinois Tree trail, on the east side, features native trees. Also on the east side is the Big Rock Trail which takes visitors through native woods to a giant glacial boulder.

On the west side is the Thornill Trail, a general nature trail and the Evergreen Trail, with a variety of evergreens.

Also of interest is the Joy Path which runs from the Thornill Conference Center to Lake Marmo. The path was a favored place of solace for Morton who walked it when he came home from his office in the city. On the path, visitors can find magnolia and maple trees.

Looking for an Agnew plate?

Collectors treasure what others usually throw away whether it be plates, pencils, beer cans or snuff boxes

by LINDA PUNCH

Collectors are a curious lot. They see beauty where others see junk, value in what others have destined for the garbage.

Beer cans, barbed wire, toothpick holders, pornography, salt and pepper shakers, even medicine bottles — the interests of the collector know no bounds. Who else would want to buy a plate with a picture of Spiro Agnew on it to hang on the wall?

If collectors don't collect alone, they do it together. If you collect pencils, you belong to the American Pencil Collectors Society. If you are interested in old milk bottles, it's the Milk Bottles Only Organization known informally as MOO. Collectors of Chinese snuff boxes have a society and if cannons are your thing it's the Cannon Hunters Assn. of Seattle, known as CHAOS, for you.

Collecting fever can strike at any moment. Whether it is for investment or fun, nearly everyone has the potential for starting a collection of something.

"Everybody has a little of the collector instinct in them. It's like gambling — once you're exposed to it, you have it forever," says Michael Kuzma of the Hamilton Mint, Arlington Heights, which manufactures collectible ingots and coins.

Some people collect "strictly for investment purposes or because they're interested in a specific subject. Others buy art for art's sake," he says.

But there are other, less subjective reasons. Mount Prospect resident Dorothy Kuskevich collects early photographs and daguerreotypes because "I'm enthralled with the old faces and costumes."

"The old photographs are like stepping back into a moment in time. I want to be part of a quieter time," she explaines.

Kuzma says many people collect because "they want something permanent, something that stands still."

"Society and the world are changing fast. Things like antiques or stamps go at a slower pace. People want to hang onto a piece of the past," he says.

Collectors tend to see their possessions as extensions of their personalities, Kuzma says.

"I asked one man why he collected and he said 'to be honest, I like to show what I have when people come to the house.' They collect for the same reason people write books. They want to have something to survive them," he says.

Decorative plates are popular with collectors

Many people have tried to characterize the typical collector. To Kuzma, he's "essentially a male who lives in a major metropolitan area along the East and West Coast. He's slightly above average in income and education."

But collectors will tell you there is no "average" person in their midst.

"We've got everybody — doctors, lawyers, millionaires and gandy dancers from the railroad," says Bernard Edwards, president of the local chapter of the National Assn. of Watch and Clock Collectors.

Collectors take their passions seriously and can usually be found gathering at annual conventions swapping both articles and advice.

And most organizations nave strict rules. Beer can collectors insist cans be traded and will blackball members who sell them. The Watch and Clock Collectors Assn. limits attendance at conventions to registered members to prevent profiteering by unscrupulous dealers.

For most collectors, there is joy not only in acquiring an item but in researching or restoring it. They can spend hours swapping tales on how they found a valuable first-edition book stashed in an attic or a rare stain glass window in a junk yard.

"One fellow I know bought a clock for $20 at a house sale. He called me up and told me I could have it for $1,500. And I raced right over to buy it," Edwards says.

Most collectors are eager to share their knowledge and expertise with laymen and beginners. Library shelves are filled with books on collecting of almost any object. All offer a word of caution to the wary.

"A lot of people who collect don't do enough research. I learned the hard way — there are a lot of unscrupulous people," Mrs. Kuskevich warns.

Some guidelines offered by collectors include:

- The age of an item is not a guarantee of value. A 50-year-old clock may be more valuable than a 100-year-old model because of craftsmanship.
- Items that can be attributed to a specific craftsman or period are more valuable than unidentified objects.
- Don't belittle the value of an object because it seems ugly or imperfect. Many objects — including stamps and coins — increase in value because of flaws.
- An item should be fairly plentiful and easily identified. It should not be easily or cheaply reproduced.
- Items generally lose value if they have undergone massive restoration or reconditioning.
- Objects created or owned by historically famous people have increased value.
- Collectors must have a demand for their items. An object is not valuable simply because it is rare.
- Durability and quality craftsmanship increase the value of any object. Handmade items are not necessarily well made.
- The original price of an item is meaningless. Study current market values before making any sales or purchases.

Banker collects—you guessed it!

Lee Morrison is one bank president whose interest in money and how to save it extends beyond his professional work.

He is collector and owner of 36 original and reproduced pre-Civil War children's banks that date back to the late 1800s.

The mechanical banks are on display in the Palatine National Bank, where he previously served as president, and in the Old Orchard Bank in Skokie where he is currently president.

Morrison, a Palatine resident, says he started collecting the banks about five years ago with the incentive of a fellow bank collector.

He has purchased the "rare wonders" for up to $300 each in antique shops, restaurants and from private owners throughout the world.

"They are really difficult to find and many of the ones I locate are in very bad condition. But they are a constant source of amusement for our customers and are just fascinating to watch," Morrison says.

One is quick to understand how the antique banks once motivated children to save their pennies.

The arms of figures on the banks hold the coins momentarily before inserting them into a slot for safekeeping.

A clown injects the penny into his laughing mouth, a stereotype politician stashes the coin into his vest, Uncle Sam places the penny in his money bag and an eagle feeds the coin into the beak of her siblings.

Some of the other brightly painted, cast iron banks have a more complicated mechanical movement.

Teddy Roosevelt takes aim with a rifle at a bear hiding in a tree trunk. The penny is shot off the top of the gun and into the tree trunk for safe keeping, prompting the bear to jump out of the tree.

William Tell shoots the apple off his son's head with an arrow while simultaneously shooting a penny into a nearby castle.

Lee Morrison demonstrates his politican bank

Jonah harpoons the great whale while shooting off a coin into the whale's mouth.

"The people who thought up the movements for these banks were really quite ingenious. They are very clever to watch, and they really don't make these kind of banks anymore," Morrison says.

Morrison's research on the banks has been limited because "little has been written abouut the manufacturing of the banks," he says.

"I'm just trying to save what banks I can find because they are so unique," he says. "It's just part of the past that has gotten lost in the shuffle."

Man's loves: wife, 2 sons, 125 clocks

It is late afternoon and Benjamin Edwards is spending a leisurely few hours with his loved ones — his wife, two sons and 125 antique clocks.

Dressed in a knit pullover, slacks and slippers, he doesn't look the type to spend countless hours and large sums of money gathering and restoring clocks and watches. His collector instinct only reveals itself when he begins describing the clocks tucked throughout every corner of his Northbrook house.

One of his favorites — a gigantic alarm clock with an 18-inch dial — sits near the television set in the family room.

"I bought this clock from a store owner in Tennessee. Westclox used to lend it out for grand openings but the last guy they gave it to never returned it," Edwards explains.

The clock dates back to 1913 and the alarm "rings like a firebell," he says.

"I had to lock the clock up because of the alarm. Every now and then one of the kids would start it in the middle of the night," he says.

A tour of the house reveals more favorites — railroad clocks, school clocks, advertising clocks, an 84" grandfathers clock. A recreation room filled with clocks and an elaborate workshop for restoring the time pieces are in the basement.

Edwards said his collection used to number "700 clocks, but I weeded out all but the good ones." Most of the clocks are from the period from 1880-1910. His collection of watchmaker tools are equally old.

"If you're working on an old clock, you need the original tools. Whenever an old jeweler dies, everybody swarms down on the widow," says Edwards.

Benjamin Edwards values clocks

As president of the local chapter of the National Assn. of Watch and Clock Collectors, Edwards has access to antique clocks sold by museums and private collectors. Yet, he takes great joy in uncovering clocks in flea markets, garage sales and auctions. One of his prizes is a railroad clock he is salvaging after the razing of Penn Central Station, New York.

"The workmen were going to burn it. I gave them $2 and put it in my truck. I've been offered $1,800 for it," he explains.

Moments later, he flips through the pages of a first-edition book, another of his collecting passions. He slowly runs his fingers over the leather-bound cover and then points to the hand-colored illustrations.

"God, I love it," he says.

Ruth Conard's hobby a real 'bell ringer'

Ruth Conard never met a bell she didn't like.

In 17 years as a collector, the small, white-haired woman has gathered 1,800 bells from all corners of the earth. Mrs. Conard says each one is a good friend with a story to tell.

"I like bells because they respond to me even when I dust. They each have an individual sound — a voice — just like people," she says.

Bells, gongs and chimes fill every corner of the North suburban Conard home. Display cabinets in the living room hold delicate crystal, porcelain and brass bells. Bells of every shape and size line the stairways and nearly every square inch of the basement and upstairs rooms. Liberty Bell wallpaper hangs in a bathroom, pillows with a needlepoint-bell design are tossed on a sofa. Bell flowers grow in the garden.

Mrs. Conard handles the bells lovingly, pointing out unique features, rattling off the history behind each one. An orange-juice-can bell made by a small friend is explained in as much detail as two bronze bells made in Holland in 1569.

"One reason I'm attracted to bells is because there's history and symbolism connected with each one of them," she says.

Mrs. Conard's collection contains many rare and unique bells. One, an Elizabethan-era bell, is a small bronze replica of Queen Mary. Two tiny feet serve as the clapper.

Another, more crudely-made bell, bears the portraits of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Winston Churchill and other World War II leaders. It was made from the metal of German aircraft shot down over England.

A third — a rattle made in the shape of a jester — once belonged to a child of royalty. The rattle still bears teethmarks of the royal progeny.

The bells of Ruth Conard

The bells also serve as reminders of Mrs. Conard's travels throughout the world. She has added new pieces to her collection from places as diverse as Africa, Switzerland, Hong Kong and France.

"The only place I couldn't get one is Point Barrow, Alaska. They don't have anything up there," she says.

Mrs. Conard says she has developed a sharp eye for spotting bells in all their disguises.

"I bought some keychain bells from a Japanese temple. My friends were astounded because they hadn't noticed them. But they're just not bell conscious," she says.

One of his favorites — a gigantic alarm clock with an 18-inch dial — sits near the television set in the family room.

"I bought this clock from a store owner in Tennessee. Westclox used to lend it out for grand openings but the last guy they gave it to never returned it," Edwards explains.

The clock dates back to 1913 and the alarm "rings like a firebell," he says.

"I had to lock the clock up because of the alarm. Every now and then one of the kids would start it in the middle of the night," he says.

A tour of the house reveals more favorites — railroad clocks, school clocks, advertising clocks, an 84" grandfathers clock. A recreation room filled with clocks and an elaborate workshop for restoring the time pieces are in the basement.

Edwards said his collection used to number "700 clocks, but I weeded out all but the good ones." Most of the clocks are from the period from 1880-1910. His collection of watchmaker tools are equally old.

"If you're working on an old clock, you need the original tools. Whenever an old jeweler dies, everybody swarms down on the widow," says Edwards.

Benjamin Edwards values clocks

As president of the local chapter of the National Assn. of Watch and Clock Collectors, Edwards has access to antique clocks sold by museums and private collectors. Yet, he takes great joy in uncovering clocks in flea markets, garage sales and auctions. One of his prizes is a railroad clock he is salvaging after the razing of Penn Central Station, New York.

"The workmen were going to burn it. I gave them $2 and put it in my truck. I've been offered $1,800 for it," he explains.

Moments later, he flips through the pages of a first-edition book, another of his collecting passions. He slowly runs his fingers over the leather-bound cover and then points to the hand-colored illustrations.

"God, I love it," he says.

Ruth Conard's hobby a real 'bell ringer'

Ruth Conard never met a bell she didn't like.

In 17 years as a collector, the small, white-haired woman has gathered 1,800 bells from all corners of the earth. Mrs. Conard says each one is a good friend with a story to tell.

"I like bells because they respond to me even when I dust. They each have an individual sound — a voice — just like people," she says.

Bells, gongs and chimes fill every corner of the North suburban Conard home. Display cabinets in the living room hold delicate crystal, porcelain and brass bells. Bells of every shape and size line the stairways and nearly every square inch of the basement and upstairs rooms. Liberty Bell wallpaper hangs in a bathroom, pillows with a needlepoint-bell design are tossed on a sofa. Bell flowers grow in the garden.

Mrs. Conard handles the bells lovingly, pointing out unique features, rattling off the history behind each one. An orange-juice-can bell made by a small friend is explained in as much detail as two bronze bells made in Holland in 1569.

"One reason I'm attracted to bells is because there's history and symbolism connected with each one of them," she says.

Mrs. Conard's collection contains many rare and unique bells. One, an Elizabethan-era bell, is a small bronze replica of Queen Mary. Two tiny feet serve as the clapper.

Another, more crudely-made bell, bears the portraits of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Winston Churchill and other World War II leaders. It was made from the metal of German aircraft shot down over England.

A third — a rattle made in the shape of a jester — once belonged to a child of royalty. The rattle still bears teethmarks of the royal progeny.

The bells of Ruth Conard

The bells also serve as reminders of Mrs. Conard's travels throughout the world. She has added new pieces to her collection from places as diverse as Africa, Switzerland, Hong Kong and France.

"The only place I couldn't get one is Point Barrow, Alaska. They don't have anything up there," she says.

Mrs. Conard says she has developed a sharp eye for spotting bells in all their disguises.

"I bought some keychain bells from a Japanese temple. My friends were astounded because they hadn't noticed them. But they're just not bell conscious," she says.

Old-time fun for all at the hayride

If you like fall and the glow of a bonfire at night or have always yearned to do what farmers do — take a hayride.

Farmers knew what they were doing back in the good old days when they and their families would have a hayride and party on Saturday nights. Soon hayrides caught on with the city slickers and farmers got smart. They started charging for their services.

September and October are prime times for hayrides. While the number of Chicago area stables that offer hayrides has dwindled, there are some that still rent hayracks and drivers. Many will also build a bonfire to warm you up after an hour's ride through the fields and woods.

Today you can rent a hayrack pulled by a team of horses, mules or a tractor for as little as $1.50 per person if you have a large enough group. Stable owners will take smaller numbers willing to pay. "We'll even take one person for an hour's ride as long as we get the $45," says the manager at Meadows Creek Farm, Kane County.

Most of the stables have already booked hayrides for this season, so call as soon as possible for a reservation. Many will schedule a hayride any time, day or night. A deposit is usually required and hayrides can be postponed at some stables if the weather is bad. It is advisable to check to see if the stable has insurance in case of an accident.

Some stables will build a group a bonfire where food can be cooked at no extra charge. Other stables have buildings or "party barns" for rent at additional cost.

Here is a list of stables in the Chicago area that offer hayrides:

Fleetwing Farms, 2700 W. Central Rd., Palatine. Tractor hayrides only. Each wagon, which holds 30 people, costs $50 for a hour ride. Also included is one hour at a bonfire they will build. Cooking grates available. Ride is on 60-acre farm property. Send name, address, phone number and proposed date and $25 deposit per wagon to make a reservation. If the weather is bad, you can cancel ride and deposit will be good for one year.

B-Bar-J Riding Stables, U.S. Rte. 12, 1½ miles north of Ill. Rte. 22, Lake Zurich. Hayrack pulled by horses or tractor, depending on weather. Charge is $2 per person for hour ride with guarantee of at least 15 people. Also included is a bonfire until midnight. Cooking areas available. Ride is on 100 acres of woods and fields. Deposit per wagon, $10. Call 438-9705.

Circle C. Ranch, Milwaukee Avenue, three blocks north of Deerfield Road, Prairie View. All wagons are horsedrawn. One-hour rides on country roads are $50 for 25 people or less. Hayrides can be at the ranch or location of your choice. Bonfire, $15 additional. Rent a party barn after the hayride for $2 per person with $50 minimum. Deposit, 20 per cent. Call 541-3018

Lazy C Stables, Ill. Rte. 20 and Wilson Rd., Round Lake. All wagons horsedrawn. One-hour ride is $35 an hour for 24 people. Includes bonfire until 11 p.m. for the first group scheduled each night. Hayride stays on farm property. Deposit, $15. Likes to have a week's notice. Call 546-3776.

Meadow Creek Farms, Ill. Rte. 72 west of Ill. Rte. 31, Gilberts. All wagons horsedrawn. Adult groups charged $2.50 per person with a $45 minimum per wagon for an hour ride. Groups of children charged $1.50 per person and $2 per person for sponsors with $45 minimum per wagon. Cross some public roads to get from one field to another. Build bonfires for adults. Cooking area available. Call 428-5605.

Prince Crossing Stables, 29 W 070 North Ave., north of Ill. Rte. 59, West Chicago. Drawn by mules. One-hour ride $40 for groups up to 24; $80 for groups up to 48. Barns for party afterwards can be rented for $20 by small groups, $25 by large groups. Ride is on semi-improved country roads. Deposit, full amount. Closed Mondays. Call 231-4913.

Golden Leaf Acres, 131st Street west of Ill. Rte. 45, Lemont. All wagons horsedrawn. One-hour ride plus two hours in clubhouse with fireplace is $75 for 25 people. Extra riders are $3 per person. Each wagon holds 30 people. Rides available from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Call 349-1393.

Most of the stables have already booked hayrides for this season, so call as soon as possible for a reservation. Many will schedule a hayride any time, day or night. A deposit is usually required and hayrides can be postponed at some stables if the weather is bad. It is advisable to check to see if the stable has insurance in case of an accident.

Some stables will build a group a bonfire where food can be cooked at no extra charge. Other stables have buildings or "party barns" for rent at additional cost.

Here is a list of stables in the Chicago area that offer hayrides:

Fleetwing Farms, 2700 W. Central Rd., Palatine. Tractor hayrides only. Each wagon, which holds 30 people, costs $50 for a hour ride. Also included is one hour at a bonfire they will build. Cooking grates available. Ride is on 60-acre farm property. Send name, address, phone number and proposed date and $25 deposit per wagon to make a reservation. If the weather is bad, you can cancel ride and deposit will be good for one year.

B-Bar-J Riding Stables, U.S. Rte. 12, 1½ miles north of Ill. Rte. 22, Lake Zurich. Hayrack pulled by horses or tractor, depending on weather. Charge is $2 per person for hour ride with guarantee of at least 15 people. Also included is a bonfire until midnight. Cooking areas available. Ride is on 100 acres of woods and fields. Deposit per wagon, $10. Call 438-9705.

Circle C. Ranch, Milwaukee Avenue, three blocks north of Deerfield Road, Prairie View. All wagons are horsedrawn. One-hour rides on country roads are $50 for 25 people or less. Hayrides can be at the ranch or location of your choice. Bonfire, $15 additional. Rent a party barn after the hayride for $2 per person with $50 minimum. Deposit, 20 per cent. Call 541-3018

Lazy C Stables, Ill. Rte. 20 and Wilson Rd., Round Lake. All wagons horsedrawn. One-hour ride is $35 an hour for 24 people. Includes bonfire until 11 p.m. for the first group scheduled each night. Hayride stays on farm property. Deposit, $15. Likes to have a week's notice. Call 546-3776.

Meadow Creek Farms, Ill. Rte. 72 west of Ill. Rte. 31, Gilberts. All wagons horsedrawn. Adult groups charged $2.50 per person with a $45 minimum per wagon for an hour ride. Groups of children charged $1.50 per person and $2 per person for sponsors with $45 minimum per wagon. Cross some public roads to get from one field to another. Build bonfires for adults. Cooking area available. Call 428-5605.

Prince Crossing Stables, 29 W 070 North Ave., north of Ill. Rte. 59, West Chicago. Drawn by mules. One-hour ride $40 for groups up to 24; $80 for groups up to 48. Barns for party afterwards can be rented for $20 by small groups, $25 by large groups. Ride is on semi-improved country roads. Deposit, full amount. Closed Mondays. Call 231-4913.

Golden Leaf Acres, 131st Street west of Ill. Rte. 45, Lemont. All wagons horsedrawn. One-hour ride plus two hours in clubhouse with fireplace is $75 for 25 people. Extra riders are $3 per person. Each wagon holds 30 people. Rides available from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Call 349-1393.

Points of interest on the west side include the Prairie Restoration Project, a reconstruction of the native grassland community widespread in Illinois in presettlement times.

The arboretum also sponsors a plant clinic in the Administration Building from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursdays April through October and 1 to 4:30 p.m. Wednesdays November through March.

The clinic offers help with woody plant identification, diagnosis of woody plant ailments and selection of plants for landscaping.

Arboretum grounds are open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day of the year. The buildings are closed Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day. The visitor center is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturdays and 1 to 5 p.m. Sundays.

No bicycles, snowmobiles, motorcycles or horses are allowed as well as no picknicking, swimming, fishing or collecting specimens. There is a special area open mid-April through October where visitors can eat sack lunches.

During May and October you can tour the grounds via an open-air bus which leaves the visitor center at 2 p.m. Wednesdays and 1, 2 and 3 p.m. Saturdays. Cost is 50 cents.

Admission is $1 per car, $10 per bus and no fee for pedestrians or buses bringing senior citizens, hospital groups or preregistered school groups. Annual memberships which include free admission are $15. The arboretum is located just north of Lisle at the intersection of Ill. Rte. 53 and the East-West Tollway.

Autumn festival slated at arboretum

The Morton Arboretum will celebrate its annual Fall Festival next Friday and Saturday with special lectures, demonstrations and movies.

Admission to the arboretum will be free after 4 p.m. Friday and all day Saturday. The festival is developed around the theme, Celebrating the Tree in American History.

Festival events begin with an outdoor lecture on trees of America's past at 8 p.m. Friday in the area between the visitor center and Meadow Lake.

Saturday's events begin with a 7:30 a.m. bird hike. Starting at 1:30 p.m. the arboretum theater will have special showings of the movie, "We Have Met the Enemy and the Enemy is Us" starring the comic strip character Pogo.

Demonstrations on arranging plant materials, making nature prints and preparing herbarium specimens will be given throughout the afternoon from 1 to 4:30 p.m. During that time, staff members will assist visitors in planting their own acorn in a small container with instructions on how to care for the tree as it grows.

A collection of books, journals and other material related to botany, horticulture, landscape architecture, natural history and related subjects will be available to the public from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the arboretum's library.

A herbarium, a collection of dried pressed plant specimens, will be on display in the basement of the administration building from 1 to 5 p.m. with information on pressing plants.

For more information on the festival or for dinner reservations at the Ginko Tea Room call 968-0074.

Galena house tour scheduled Sept. 27, 28

Five houses, including the pre-Civil War home of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, will be open for touring by the public Sept. 27 and 28 at the annual house tour in Galena.

For 33 years houses in this northwestern Illinois town have been open to the public twice each year. The fall tour is sponsored by the Guild of the First Presbyterian Church, which has been in service in Galena for 139 years. A June tour is sponsored by the Galena Historical Society.

The Grant house was built in the 1840s and is basically unchanged. Floors, woodwork and stairs are original. The house features carpets, lamps and furniture circa 1860. Grant left this house to rejoin the Federal Army in 1861 and his wife remained here with the four children for one more year before joining her family in St. Louis.

Also on the tour is the Aratus Kent House, Cornish Miner's house, Norris house and Belvedere house.

The Kent house was owned by the Rev. Aratus Kent, founder of Beloit and Rockford colleges, from 1829 to 1848. Kent arrived in Galena in 1828 and furnishings in the house are Empire and Early Victorian periods.

The Miner house was built by Horatio Newhall, a smelter and founder of Galena's first drug store. Restored in 1973 by its present owners and furnished with American country antiques the house is surrounded by a limestone terrace and flower garden.

The Norris House was built in the early 1850s of Galena brick. First occupant was Barney Norris, footman of John Quincy Adams and companion of Alexander Hamilton's son. The home is furnished with pine, cherry and walnut antiques.

Last on the tour is Belvedere, built in 1857 for J. Russel Jones, owner of a steamboat line. Twenty-two rooms are completely restored and lavishly furnished with early Victorian, English and French furniture. Some pieces are of an earlier period. The seven fireplaces, winding stairs, floors and woodwork are original.

Tickets for the house tour are $4 and include shuttle bus service. The tour is clearly marked for those who prefer to drive their own cars. The tour is conducted from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. There are hotel accommodations in Galena and rooms can also be reserved in private homes through the tour office.

A melodrama will be presented by the Galena Art Theatre Sept. 26 at 8 p.m., Sept. 27 at 5:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. and Oct. 4 at 8 p.m.

For tickets, overnight reservations and information contact "Tour Historic Galena Homes," Galena, Ill. 61036. Tickets can also be purchased on the day of the tours at the Kent House, 109 N. High St., and Galena High School on Ill. Rte. 20 on the west side of town.

Crafts on display at fall festival

You can sample apple butter direct from the copper kettle and honey right out of the extractor Oct. 4 and 5 at the Land of Lincoln Ninth Annual Crafts Festival near New Salem.

More than 60 crafts which our ancestors took for granted will be demonstrated during the two-day festival. On sale will be sassafras tea, paw-paws, nuts, berries and fruit common to central Illinois.

You can ride a stagecoach and horse-drawn bush and see ropes made by hand and horses shod. Candles will be dipped and a goose plucked. You can watch men split rails for a fence. Seventy-five booths in the festival's flea market will sell "trash and treasures."

Quilling, China painting, rope making, apple and corn shuck doll making, corn meal grinding, sorghum making, rug hooking, soap making, glass blowing, meat smoking, cider pressing, whittling and walnut hulling.

Visit the festival at the New Salem Carriage Museum, ½ mile south of New Salem State Park, Rte. 97 South in St. Petersburg.

HOUSES LIKE THESE can be seen in historic Galena in northwestern Illinois. The Guild of the First Presbyterian Church of Galena will conduct a five-house tour Sept. 27 and 28 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

'All in the Family' still No. 1 on TV

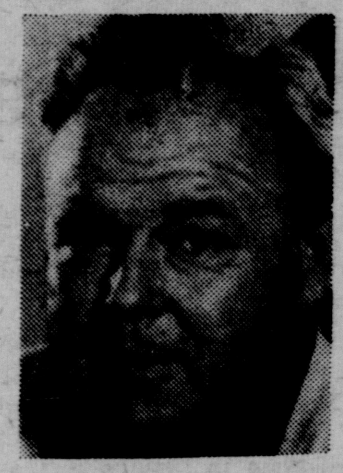
"All in the Family" has won the numbers game in the first week of the new television season, CBS remains on top among the three networks, and everybody will tell you that at this stage Nielsen ratings mean nothing.

Nevertheless, it's the big news of the week in the television industry.

The national Nielsen ratings are watched by the industry with attention seldom given scripts and each network always finds something to be cheerful about. In addition, this is only one week's ratings, there were special editions of several shows, some shows were new, others were carryovers and some had been given an early introduction. Also, audiences sample early in the season before settling down to a viewing schedule.

Redd Foxx

Valerie Harper



Carroll O'Connor

The ratings are out and blacks, women and bigots seem to have captured the top spots. "All in the Family," starring Carroll O'Connor scored number 1; "Sanford and Son," starring Redd Foxx, 6; and "Rhoda," starring Valerie Harper, 8. Women "Maude" and "Phyllis," did well capturing the 2 and 3 spots as did "The $6 Million Man" as 4. Others in the top ten were NBC's Monday night movie, 5; "Switch," 7; "Chico & the Man," 9; and "Starsky and Hutch," 10.

With all the exceptions and qualifying conditions noted, the numbers tell you that in the week of Sept. 8 through Sept. 14, CBS prime time had a rating of 18.6, NBC racked up 17.6 and ABC, 17.2

Those numbers seem pretty close together, but it is more impressive to note that of the top ten shows in the country, five were CBS, three NBC and two ABC.

Take it on the basis of the top 20, and you get 10 CBS, five NBC and five ABC.

Archie Bunker tops the list, not only with a 30.4 rating, but with a 48 per cent share of the audience.

Then comes the rest of the pack — "Maude," "Phyllis," "The $6 Million Man," NBC's Monday night movie, Burt Reynolds in "White Lightning," "Sanford & Son," "Switch," "Rhoda," "Chico & The Man," and "Starsky and Hutch." That means six of the top ten are situation comedies and two are detective tales with a light, bantering touch. Three are new shows.

In the bad news department, CBS must have been disappointed that its hour-long "M-A-S-H" episode ranked 18th, quite a comedown for a once top-rated comedy. The much-touted "Beacon Hill," its novelty tarnished, ranked 55th with only a 27 share of the audience. That figure must go up or "Beacon Hill" may go down the drain because shows that consistently drop below the 30 share mark tend to disappear.

The over-all ratings are interesting but the night-by-night comparative standings can be more meaningful. That's because ranking depends on the number of people watching. More people watched television Monday night, Sept. 8, than any subsequent night of the week. Result: five of the top ten shows are Monday night specials.

CBS has unquestioned title to Monday night, with "Rhoda," "Phyllis," "All in the Family" and "Maude," followed by "Medical Center," which ranked 12th in the ratings. That doesn't figure to change much and is grim reading for the two newcomers, NBC's "Invisible Man" 44th place and "Barbary Coast" 62nd.

On Tuesday night, CBS' "Good Times" won in the 7 p.m. slot and pulled "Joe & Sons" with it to tie for the 7:30 spot with ABC's "Welcome Back, Kotter." At 8 p.m. it was the new CBS "Switch" over ABC's "Rookies" and NBC's "Police Story." NBC took over at 9 with "Joe Forrester" topping ABC's "Marcus Welby," with "Beacon Hill" trailing the pack.

Wednesday night at 7 went to ABC's "When Things Were Rotten," with "Little House on the Prairie" catching up and taking the lead at the 7:30 half time. At 8 it was ABC's "Baretta" over CBS' "Cannon" with NBC's "Doctor's Hospital" trailing. The surprise winner was ABC's "Starsky and Hutch" at 9, with CBS' "Kate McShane" second and NBC's "Petrocelli" last.

Thursday night CBS' "The Waltons" wiped out the opposition at 7, including NBC's new comedy shows, "The Montefuscos" and "Fay" and the new ABC "On the Rocks." For the rest of the night it was ABC with "The Streets of San Francisco" and "Harry O" leading the CBS movie and "Ellery Queen" and "Medical Story" on NBC.

Friday NBC's "Sanford & Son" and "Chico and the Man" beat out CBS' "M-A-S-H!" and between them swamped ABC'S "Mobile One." After that ABC took over with the help of Sean Connery and James Bond in the movie "Diamonds Are Forever," with NBC's "Rockford Files" and "Police Woman" waiting to advance when the movie offering is less attractive. "Hawaii 5-0" on CBS ranked a poor third.

Saturday night NBC's "Emergency" barely nosed out CBS' "The Jeffersons," but took hold more securely in the second half-hour opposite the new "Doc." The Muhammad Ali special wasn't. Then the CBS lineup of Mary Tyler Moore, Bob Newhart and Carol Burnett led the NBC movie and "S.W.A.T."

Sunday night the new ABC "Irwin Allen's Swiss Family Robinson" edged out NBC's "The Wonderful World of Disney," with CBS' "Three for the Road" third. ABC's "The $6 Million Man" led Cher and "Family Holvak," and "Kojak" led the pack at 8, over the ABC movie, "Cabaret" and NBC Mystery Movie, "Columbo."

What does it all prove? These are early indications, the beginnings of trends. Two shows aren't even on the air yet — ABC's "Matt Helm," with Tony Franciosa, a Saturday entry starting this weekend, and CBS' "Bronk" with Jack Palance, a Sunday night newcomer.

The network spokesmen say things like, "We're smiling — barely," or "We like the way the audience is sampling," or the simple, "It's too early to tell." The amount of time, work, energy, hopes and talent that have gone into those shows that are going to fail doesn't bear thinking about.

'All in the Family' still No. 1 on TV

"All in the Family" has won the numbers game in the first week of the new television season, CBS remains on top among the three networks, and everybody will tell you that at this stage Nielsen ratings mean nothing.

Nevertheless, it's the big news of the week in the television industry.

The national Nielsen ratings are watched by the industry with attention seldom given scripts and each network always finds something to be cheerful about. In addition, this is only one week's ratings, there were special editions of several shows, some shows were new, others were carryovers and some had been given an early introduction. Also, audiences sample early in the season before settling down to a viewing schedule.

Redd Foxx

Carroll O'Connor

The ratings are out and blacks, women and bigots seem to have captured the top spots. "All in the Family," starring Carroll O'Connor scored number 1; "Sanford and Son," starring Redd Foxx, 6; and "Rhoda," starring Valerie Harper, 8. Women "Maude" and "Phyllis," did well capturing the 2 and 3 spots as did "The $6 Million Man" as 4. Others in the top ten were NBC's Monday night movie, 5; "Switch," 7; "Chico & the Man," 9; and "Starsky and Hutch," 10.

With all the exceptions and qualifying conditions noted, the numbers tell you that in the week of Sept. 8 through Sept. 14, CBS prime time had a rating of 18.6, NBC racked up 17.6 and ABC, 17.2

Those numbers seem pretty close together, but it is more impressive to note that of the top ten shows in the country, five were CBS, three NBC and two ABC.

Take it on the basis of the top 20, and you get 10 CBS, five NBC and five ABC.

Archie Bunker tops the list, not only with a 30.4 rating, but with a 48 per cent share of the audience.

Then comes the rest of the pack — "Maude," "Phyllis," "The $6 Million Man," NBC's Monday night movie, Burt Reynolds in "White Lightning," "Sanford & Son," "Switch," "Rhoda," "Chico & The Man," and "Starsky and Hutch." That means six of the top ten are situation comedies and two are detective tales with a light, bantering touch. Three are new shows.

In the bad news department, CBS must have been disappointed that its hour-long "M-A-S-H" episode ranked 18th, quite a comedown for a once top-rated comedy. The much-touted "Beacon Hill," its novelty tarnished, ranked 55th with only a 27 share of the audience. That figure must go up or "Beacon Hill" may go down the drain because shows that consistently drop below the 30 share mark tend to disappear.

The over-all ratings are interesting but the night-by-night comparative standings can be more meaningful. That's because ranking depends on the number of people watching. More people watched television Monday night, Sept. 8, than any subsequent night of the week. Result: five of the top ten shows are Monday night specials.

CBS has unquestioned title to Monday night, with "Rhoda," "Phyllis," "All in the Family" and "Maude," followed by "Medical Center," which ranked 12th in the ratings. That doesn't figure to change much and is grim reading for the two newcomers, NBC's "Invisible Man" 44th place and "Barbary Coast" 62nd.

On Tuesday night, CBS' "Good Times" won in the 7 p.m. slot and pulled "Joe & Sons" with it to tie for the 7:30 spot with ABC's "Welcome Back, Kotter." At 8 p.m. it was the new CBS "Switch" over ABC's "Rookies" and NBC's "Police Story." NBC took over at 9 with "Joe Forrester" topping ABC's "Marcus Welby," with "Beacon Hill" trailing the pack.

Wednesday night at 7 went to ABC's "When Things Were Rotten," with "Little House on the Prairie" catching up and taking the lead at the 7:30 half time. At 8 it was ABC's "Baretta" over CBS' "Cannon" with NBC's "Doctor's Hospital" trailing. The surprise winner was ABC's "Starsky and Hutch" at 9, with CBS' "Kate McShane" second and NBC's "Petrocelli" last.

Thursday night CBS' "The Waltons" wiped out the opposition at 7, including NBC's new comedy shows, "The Montefuscos" and "Fay" and the new ABC "On the Rocks." For the rest of the night it was ABC with "The Streets of San Francisco" and "Harry O" leading the CBS movie and "Ellery Queen" and "Medical Story" on NBC.

Friday NBC's "Sanford & Son" and "Chico and the Man" beat out CBS' "M-A-S-H!" and between them swamped ABC'S "Mobile One." After that ABC took over with the help of Sean Connery and James Bond in the movie "Diamonds Are Forever," with NBC's "Rockford Files" and "Police Woman" waiting to advance when the movie offering is less attractive. "Hawaii 5-0" on CBS ranked a poor third.

Saturday night NBC's "Emergency" barely nosed out CBS' "The Jeffersons," but took hold more securely in the second half-hour opposite the new "Doc." The Muhammad Ali special wasn't. Then the CBS lineup of Mary Tyler Moore, Bob Newhart and Carol Burnett led the NBC movie and "S.W.A.T."

Sunday night the new ABC "Irwin Allen's Swiss Family Robinson" edged out NBC's "The Wonderful World of Disney," with CBS' "Three for the Road" third. ABC's "The $6 Million Man" led Cher and "Family Holvak," and "Kojak" led the pack at 8, over the ABC movie, "Cabaret" and NBC Mystery Movie, "Columbo."

What does it all prove? These are early indications, the beginnings of trends. Two shows aren't even on the air yet — ABC's "Matt Helm," with Tony Franciosa, a Saturday entry starting this weekend, and CBS' "Bronk" with Jack Palance, a Sunday night newcomer.

The network spokesmen say things like, "We're smiling — barely," or "We like the way the audience is sampling," or the simple, "It's too early to tell." The amount of time, work, energy, hopes and talent that have gone into those shows that are going to fail doesn't bear thinking about.

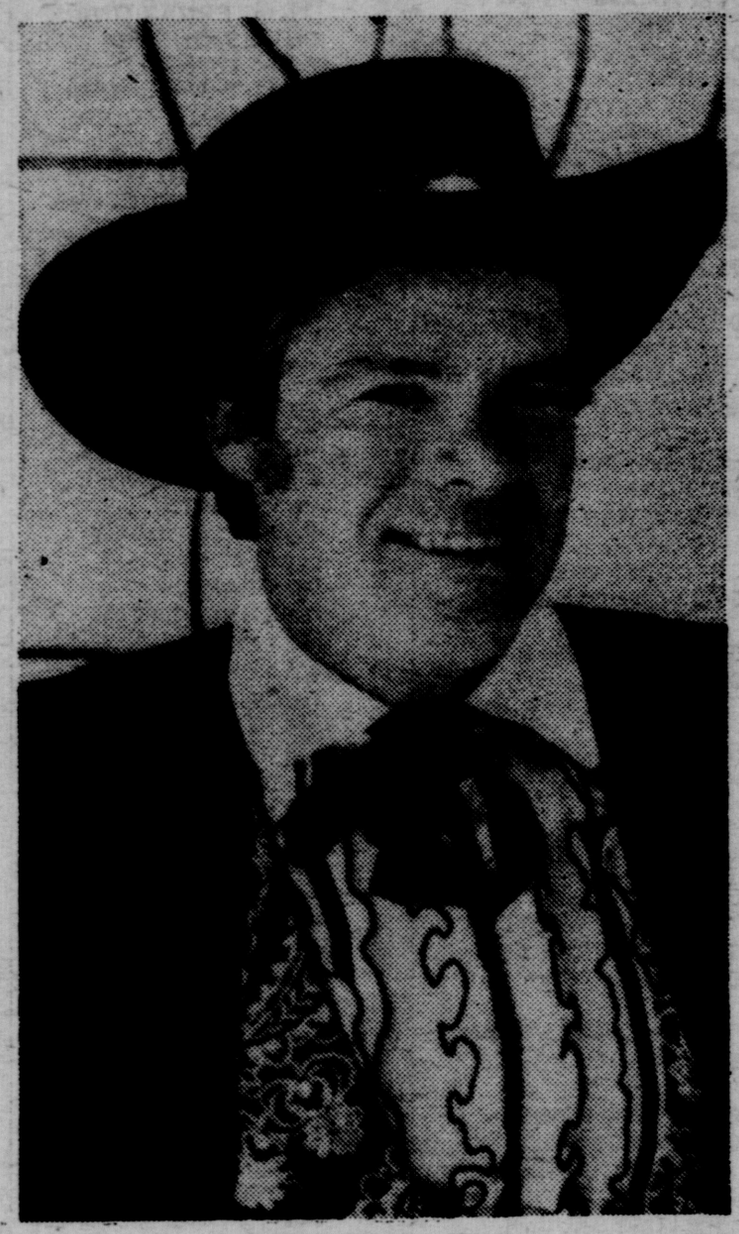
McClure: star, papa, ceaseless traveler



DOUG McCLURE

Doug McClure is among the best-traveled television series stars alive, moving into this sixth series with the new "Barbary Coast" show.

His previous series were "Overland Trail," "Checkmate," "The Virginian," "The Men From Shiloh" and "Search."

He also does a lot of perambulating in real life.

The husky — 6-foot-2, 180-pound — sandy-haired star makes his home in Monterey, Calif., some 300 miles from Paramount Studios where the series is filmed.

Rather than rent or buy a temporary home in Southern California, McClure simply moved into his mother-in-law's house in the San Fernando Valley.

Happily, they are on good terms. Doug's mother and his wife's mother were born on the same day and are close friends.

McClure has been married to Diane for five years. They are parents of a daughter, Valerie.

All three are displeased that he can't commute from their home on the famed 17 Mile Drive along the Carmel-Monterey coast where their large Spanish home overlooks an expanse of the Pacific.

His neighbors are Merv Griffin and Clint Eastwood, who was Doug's best man.

The McClure dwelling is 50 years old, with seven baths and more than 20 rooms. It sits on a hill in the center of two wooded acres. There is also a guest house for visiting friends. Deer feed on the grounds.

There is an office on the property, too, for his Tane Productions, named for his dauther, Tane (prounced Tawny), 17, by a previous marriage. She attend school in Hawaii.

The house is definitely Spanish, with heavy wood furniture and glistening tile floors. A splashing fountain in the center of a Spanish courtyard greets the visitor.

Last year McClure traveled to Spain for two movies, "The Land That Time Forgot" and "What Changed Charlie Farthing," the latter with Hayley Mills.

While Doug worked before the cameras, Diane shopped for Spanish antiques. They also visit Mexico, picking up Spanish furnishings and bric-a-brac.

At 40, Doug is beginning to fight a weight problem. But he has been a life-long surfer, horseback rider and tennis player.

He rides his own thoroughbred, Tequila, a one-time race horse which he bought six years ago, in his new ABC-TV series. He keeps a thoroughbred Arabian named Tohlo in Carmel.

McClure grew up near Will Rogers State Park near Santa Monica, riding horses almost every day. Later he worked as a cowboy in Nevada. He still team ropes with Ben Johnson in an occasional rodeo.

Diane is as enthusiastic about surfing and skiing as her husband. During winter holidays they enter celebrity program ski tournaments. Doug is a frequent entry in celebrity tennis tourneys.

But there is little time for sports these days, thanks to the demands of "The Barbary Coast," which costars Bill Shatner.

Doug is up at 6 a.m. and reports to work an hour-and-a-half later. It isn't unusual for him to work until 2 o'clock in the morning.

He is the original Mr. Casual. Doug owns a tuxedo he has never worn. Faded denims and sandals are his style.

The McClures do little entertaining and seldom go out. They are content to stay at home in Monterey, sitting around their huge fireplace.

Doug's favorite companion is a golden retriever named Bobo who, according to Doug, is related to President Ford's retriever.

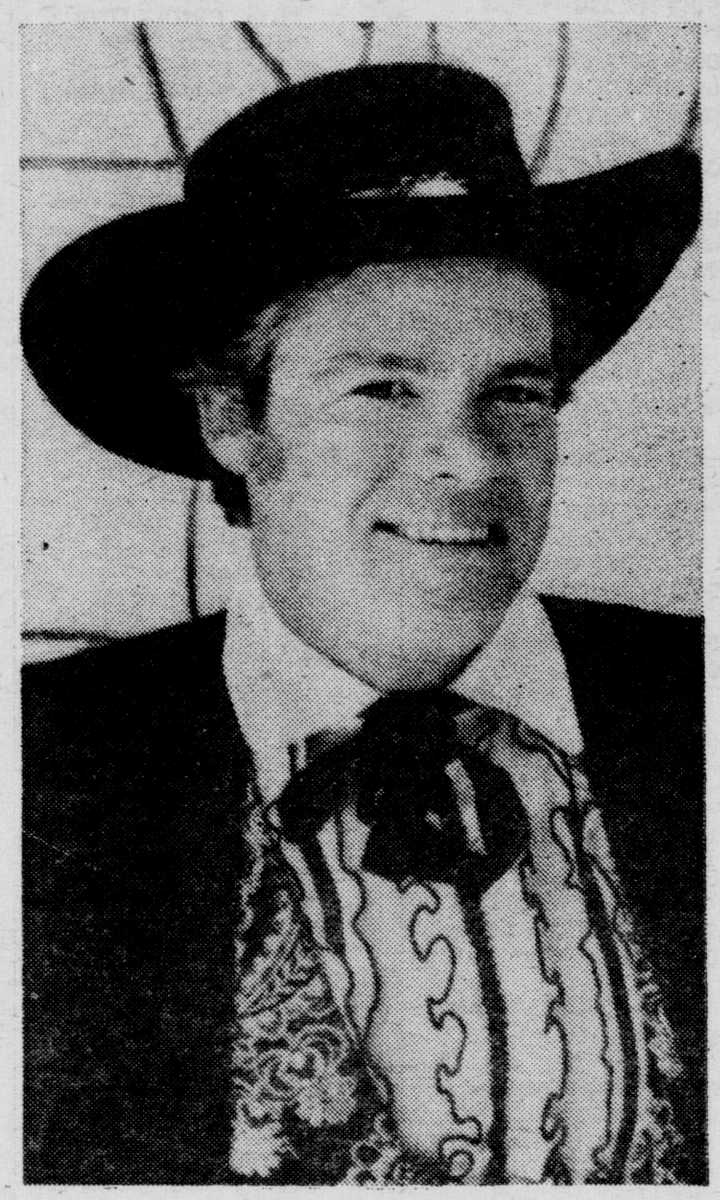
McClure: star, papa, ceaseless traveler



DOUG McCLURE

Doug McClure is among the best-traveled television series stars alive, moving into this sixth series with the new "Barbary Coast" show.

His previous series were "Overland Trail," "Checkmate," "The Virginian," "The Men From Shiloh" and "Search."

He also does a lot of perambulating in real life.

The husky — 6-foot-2, 180-pound — sandy-haired star makes his home in Monterey, Calif., some 300 miles from Paramount Studios where the series is filmed.

Rather than rent or buy a temporary home in Southern California, McClure simply moved into his mother-in-law's house in the San Fernando Valley.

Happily, they are on good terms. Doug's mother and his wife's mother were born on the same day and are close friends.

McClure has been married to Diane for five years. They are parents of a daughter, Valerie.

All three are displeased that he can't commute from their home on the famed 17 Mile Drive along the Carmel-Monterey coast where their large Spanish home overlooks an expanse of the Pacific.

His neighbors are Merv Griffin and Clint Eastwood, who was Doug's best man.

The McClure dwelling is 50 years old, with seven baths and more than 20 rooms. It sits on a hill in the center of two wooded acres. There is also a guest house for visiting friends. Deer feed on the grounds.

There is an office on the property, too, for his Tane Productions, named for his dauther, Tane (prounced Tawny), 17, by a previous marriage. She attend school in Hawaii.

The house is definitely Spanish, with heavy wood furniture and glistening tile floors. A splashing fountain in the center of a Spanish courtyard greets the visitor.

Last year McClure traveled to Spain for two movies, "The Land That Time Forgot" and "What Changed Charlie Farthing," the latter with Hayley Mills.

While Doug worked before the cameras, Diane shopped for Spanish antiques. They also visit Mexico, picking up Spanish furnishings and bric-a-brac.

At 40, Doug is beginning to fight a weight problem. But he has been a life-long surfer, horseback rider and tennis player.

He rides his own thoroughbred, Tequila, a one-time race horse which he bought six years ago, in his new ABC-TV series. He keeps a thoroughbred Arabian named Tohlo in Carmel.

McClure grew up near Will Rogers State Park near Santa Monica, riding horses almost every day. Later he worked as a cowboy in Nevada. He still team ropes with Ben Johnson in an occasional rodeo.

Diane is as enthusiastic about surfing and skiing as her husband. During winter holidays they enter celebrity program ski tournaments. Doug is a frequent entry in celebrity tennis tourneys.

But there is little time for sports these days, thanks to the demands of "The Barbary Coast," which costars Bill Shatner.

Doug is up at 6 a.m. and reports to work an hour-and-a-half later. It isn't unusual for him to work until 2 o'clock in the morning.

He is the original Mr. Casual. Doug owns a tuxedo he has never worn. Faded denims and sandals are his style.

The McClures do little entertaining and seldom go out. They are content to stay at home in Monterey, sitting around their huge fireplace.

Doug's favorite companion is a golden retriever named Bobo who, according to Doug, is related to President Ford's retriever.

South Pole post office to open

The U.S. Postal Service Oct. 1 will establish its southernmost branch at the geographic South Pole, Anarctica — the earth's most remote spot, 800 nautical miles from the main U. S. station at McMurdo Sound.

Mail from this station will bear a postmark reading So. Pole Br. New York, NY 10090, the last two digits indicating the station is at 90 degrees south latitude.

Collector's wishing to obtain the postmark should send their self-addressed, stamped covers to Postmaster, New York, NY 10001 with a note requesting the South Pole postmark. Covers must carry sufficient U.S. postage to bring them back by basic first-class mail.

The South Pole Station operated by the U.S. Navy in Anarctica was discontinued in November 1974.

THE GREEK Post Office Sept. 29 will release three stamps marking the 50th Anniversary of the founding of Thessaloniki University. They will be issued in denominations of 1.50, 4 and 11 drachmae.

Three adhesives commemorating International Woman's Year will be released in Athens on the same day. This set will be issued in 1.50, 8.50 and 11 drachmae denominations.

Mint stamps and first day cover service are available from the Greek Post Office, Philatelic Service, 100, Aiolou Street, Athens, Greece - 131.

Remittances should be by international bank draft in Greek funds.

The Northwest Stamp Club will host its fall auction at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Sept. 22. The group meets at the Arlington Heights Public Library, 500 E. Dunton Street. Guests are always welcome.

FOUR STAMPS, using two separate designs, marking European Architectural Year 1975 will be issued Oct. 6 by the Irish Post Office.

The adhesives — in 5, 6, 7 and 9-p denominations — feature an interior view of Holycross Abbey and the church of St. Ann at Shandon, County Cork.

Requests for first day cancellations should go to the Philatelic Section, General Post Office, Dublin 1, Ireland.

Shelby Lyman on chess

In his book, "Think Like a Grandmaster," Alexander Kotov disscusses his own chess development. At the very time in his career that he began to realize the importance of "planning" in chess, he also discovered that plans were never that easy to formulate, or to implement.

Kotov's games, against players of his own strength, did not usually have a clear scenario. They rather resembled a series of skirmishes, with a coherent idea here and there. A plan might be taken up for a while. But when the battle shifted, it was commonly discarded.

Kotov's experience gives us a true description of chess. Evenly matched players do not willingly let their opponents carry out their projects. A mismatch is more likely to lead to a game with a clear scheme carried out from beginning to end. Then we may see the classical winning procedure: an advantage in the opening, an attack and a final winning combination.

Such games, at best, are both satisfying and instructive. Witness the following encounter, Ljubojevic-Durao.

The position in Diagram 1 already contains the seeds of a bitter harvest for Durao (black). Ljubojevic (white), who is ahead in development, is also on the move. But how is he to follow through from his opening advantage?

The decision was not difficult for the young Yugoslav, who is one of the best attacking players around. He opened up lines for his pieces with a series of logical pawn moves and exchanges, i.e., 10. P-Q5, B-Q2; 11. PxP, PxP; 12. N-B4, Q-K2; 13. P-KB4, N-B3; 14. PxP, PxP; 15. P-QN3! in Diagram 2 white is now threatening 16. B-R3! with great advantage.

Durao, who could clearly see that he would not face a strong attack, grabbed a pawn. At least he would be ahead in material if white faltered in pressing his advantage.

Ljubojevic ignored the pawn and made further preparations for the attack.

The breakthrough position in Diagram 3 was quickly reached. (The intervening moves were: 15. . . . B-N3 check; 16. K-R1, NxP; 17. B-R3, Q-K3; 18. Q-Q3, P-KB4; 19. KR-K1, B-B2.)

Here, with black about to castle to possible safety, white sacrificed the exchange with 20. RxP!, QxR; 21. RxN. When black finally did castle queenside (21. . . . 0-0-0), play continued with 22. N-Q6 check, BxN; 23. Q-R6 check, K-B2; 24. QxR check, K-B1 in Diagram 4.

Now Ljubojevic, though a rook behind, has a winning move. He played the surprising 25. B-N5, with the deadly threats of B-R6 check or BxB. (The bishop move also prevents black's 25. . . . Q-B8 mate.) Durao, who had no choice, promptly resigned. (25. . . . PxB allows 26. Q-R6 check and 27. BxB mate, while 25. . . . QR-B1 is followed by 26. BxB, Q-B8 check; 27. BxQ, RxB check; 28. Q-N1, RxQ check; 29, KxQ and a winning endgame for white.)

Paul Cromelin shows today's hand as an example of what happens when beginners play hands that have not been specially prepared for them. South's jump to two spades was correct in expert standard American bidding, but most beginners would just bid one spade. However, four spades was the normal contract to reach.

Paul explains typical student's play by South cashing dummy's ace, king of diamonds and ace of clubs; leading a spade to the 10; ruffing a club; drawing trumps with a second finesse; ruffing a diamond with dummy's last trump; leading a heart to the queen; losing two hearts and a diamond and exulting, "I made it".

The principle of play he taught from the hand was that in general you should work on your longest side suit. It is hearts, so at trick two South should lead the nine of spades, let it ride, draw trumps and lead a heart toward dummy's king.

Then a heart back toward his hand with the low heart, not the queen being played. This is the so-called automatic finesse and succeeds since West must play the ace. After this start South makes six, not a mere four.

Fall's color kaleidoscope on the way

Fall colors can be seen throughout the Midwest in late September, October and early November.

Mid-October is the best time to see changing colors in Illinois, according to the Chicago Motor Club. In northern Illinois, the Mississippi Palisades is an interesting attraction as is nearby Galena. Illinois Rte. 2 follows the Rock River south from Rockford and is a good drive for autumn explorers.

In central Illinois a drive along the Illinois River from Peru to Peoria is another fall color favorite. There are many state parks along this drive with Starved Rock at the northern end near Ottawa, Spring Lake just south of Peoria and Pere Marquette at the southern end of the Illinois River near Grafton.

Mid-October is also the time for fall tours of nearby Indiana. The best route to follow is Ind. Rte. 46 through Brown County just south of Indianapolis. Clifty Falls State Park on the Ohio River also will be beautiful in the fall and can be reached by following Ind. Rte. 56.

In northern Indiana, Indiana Dunes State Park near Chesterton will offer unusual scenery including Lake Michigan. The Parke County area in west-central Indiana is another fall attraction with numerous covered bridges.

Because the changing autumn colors being in the north and move slowly south with changing weather, northern Wisconsin fall color generally peaks in late September or early October with color in the rest of the state peaking in mid-October.

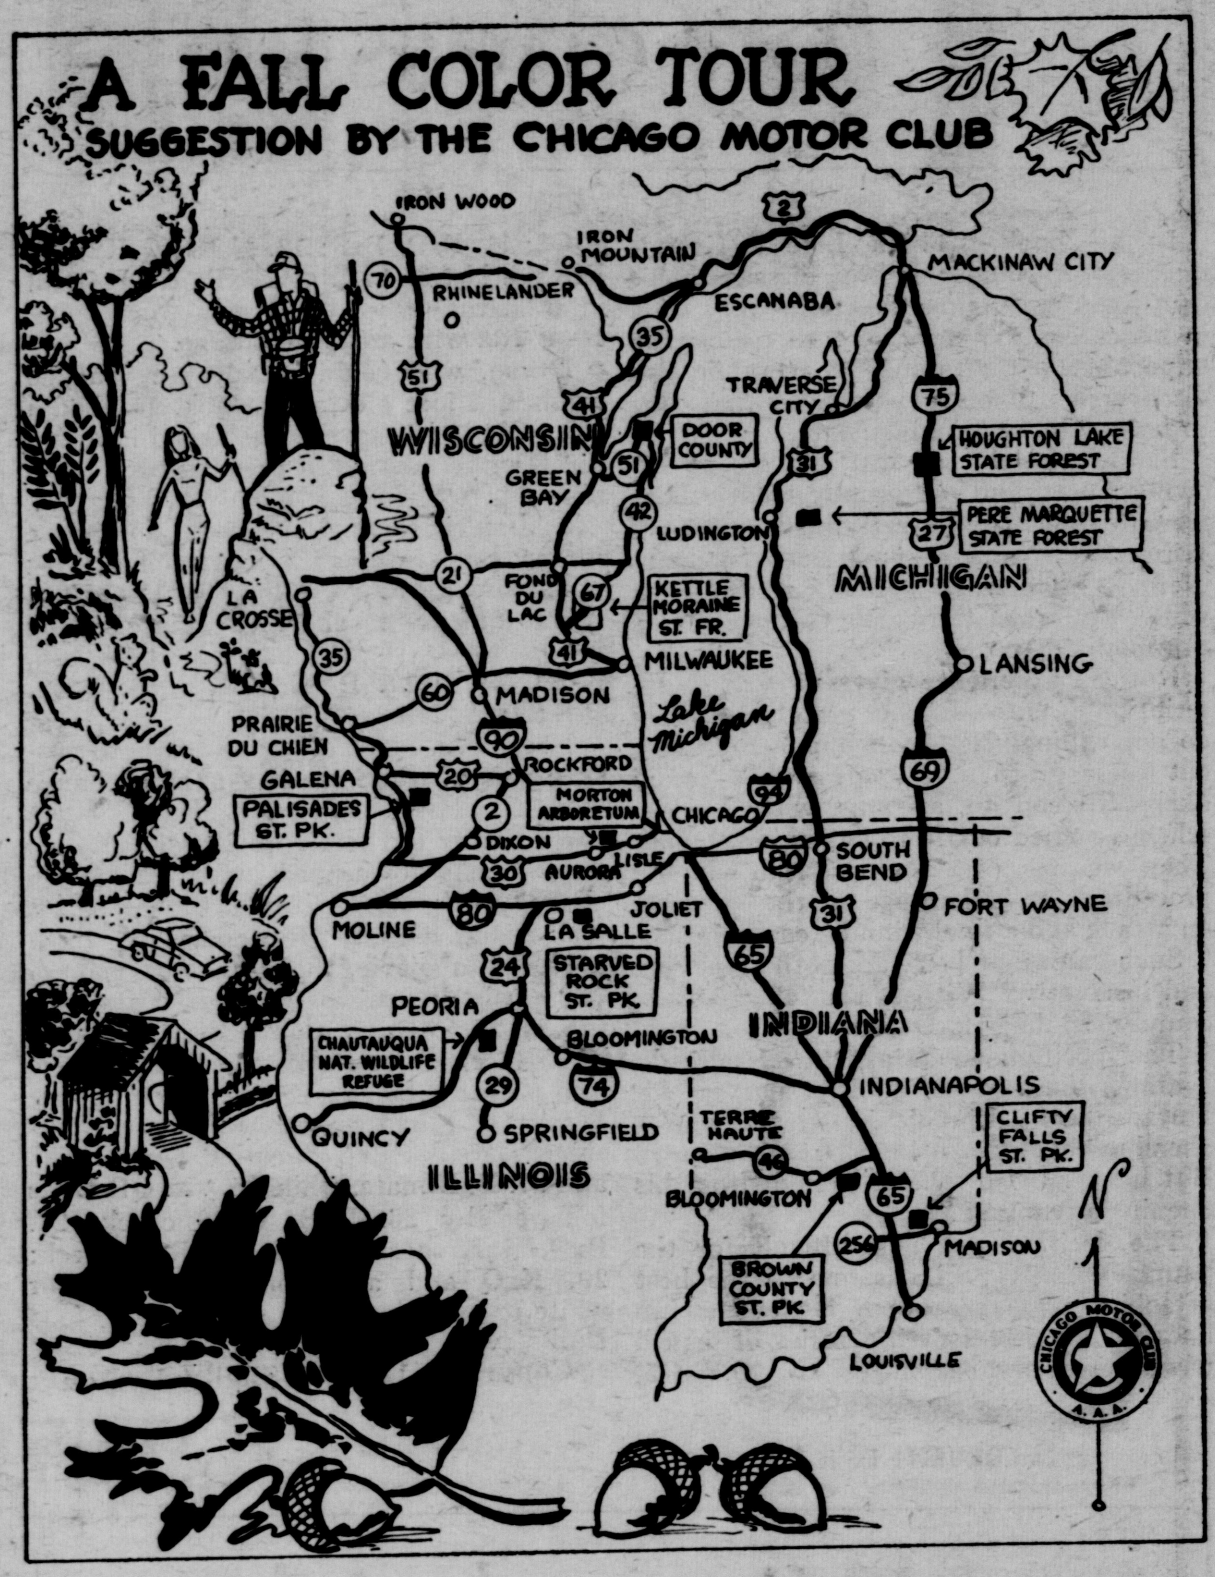
In the northern Eagle River-Rhinelander-Manitowish Waters areas, U.S. Rte. 51 and Wis. Rte. 70 are good major routes to explore while county roads offer even more beautiful scenery. Traffic is light in this area providing ample opportunities for picture-taking.

In eastern Wisconsin, Door County is another interesting fall color recreation area. The best routes in this region are Wis. Rtes. 42 and 57. The Kettle Moraine Forest, west of Milwaukee, can be reached by Wis. Rte. 67 and also should be included on a color tour.

For those with more time, try following the Wisconsin River Valley west to the Mississippi River and then north on Wis. Rte. 35 along the banks of the Mississippi.

Like Wisconsin, fall colors come first to Michigan's northern area. All of the Upper Peninsula is forested and beautiful in late September. Mich. Rte. 28 offers an especially good view.

The peak color period is usually mid-October in the western and southern portions of the Lower Peninsula. One of the most beautiful areas in southwestern Michigan is Warren Dunes State Park near Sawyer.



Circus tickets now on sale

Tickets are now on sale for the Bicentennial Edition of the Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus coming to Chicago's International Amphitheatre Oct. 2 for a 25-day run.

Seats are $4, $5, $6 and $7 with a $1.50 discount for children under 12 during performances Monday through Thursday, Friday matinees and Saturday mornings. All tickets include admission to the circus menagerie one hour before show time.

Circus tickets are on sale at all Ticketron locations, including Sears Stores; Montgomery Wards; Flipside Records and Third Ring Record stores; Ticket Central, 308 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago; and the Amphitheatre Box Office, 4300 S. Halsted St., Chicago.

Tickets can be purchased by mail by writing to the Halsted Street address and sending a check or money order with a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Adler offers many astronomy classes

Students will explore the mysteries of the universe, our solar system and extraterrestrial life this fall in classes at Chicago's Adler Planetarium.

New this season is a series for children aged 10 to 14 which will begin with Exploring the Planets. The series, Saturdays at 9:45 a.m. Oct. 4 - Nov. 8, will include discussion of the sun, moon, stars, meteors and asteroids. Cost is $10.

Other new fall courses are:

• Exploring the Universe, Thursdays, Oct. 2 - Dec. 11, 7:30 to 9 p.m., $20. The classroom is the Sky Theater where students will observe the night sky. Constellations will be viewed and students will learn about planets, the life cycle of the stars, and the structure of galaxies and the universe.

• The Solar System, Tuesdays, Sept. 30 - Dec. 2, 7:30 to 9 p.m., $20. All major planets will be studied as well as the latest findings of the U. S. and Russian space programs. Lesser bodies of the solar system such as asteroids, comets and meteroids will also be discussed.

• Search for Extraterrestrial Life, Thursdays, Oct. 2 - Dec. 11, 7:30 to 9 p.m., $20. Students will explore new discoveries in this field and how contact with extraterrestrial life could affect our society.

• Observational Astronomy, Thursdays, Oct. 2 - Dec. 11, 7:30 to 9 p.m. $20. A practical course for persons who want to learn how to use a telescope.

• Navigation in Local Waters, Thursdays, Oct. 2 - Dec. 11, 7:30 to 9 p.m., $20. This first course in practical navigation emphasizes principles useful to the professional seaman, pilot and small boat operator.

Students can register during the hour preceding each class. Late registration is permitted until the second class meeting. For more information call 294-2493.

Vinya Frisbee contest today

Men and women at least 18 years old are invited to compete in the Vinya Frisbee flying disc championships today and Sept. 27 in Grant Park, Chicago.

The contest, from 1 to 3 p.m. both days, includes distance and accuracy events. Contestants are invited to compete on either Saturday and will be given a free Vinya Frisbee flying disc for competing. Those who qualify will compete in the finals from 1 to 3 p.m. in Grant Park on Oct. 4. The top 20 winners will receive a plaque.

The contest is sponsored by Heublein Wines International, Connecticut, which distributes Vinya Rose table wine. The competition is conducted by the Chicago Park District Dept. of Recreation.
